

THE WINCHESTER STAR.

VOL. XXXII. NO. 14.

WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1912

PRICE FIVE CENTS

SUCCESSFUL RALLY.

Progressives Organize—Prof. Zueblin for Senate.

The members of the Progressive party must have been highly pleased at the large number who attended the mass meeting and organization in the Town Hall last Friday evening. There were over 400 men and women present, and the singing of patriotic songs and selections by a band, and the stirring remarks of the speakers made the meeting one of much enthusiasm. Democrats as well as Republicans were in attendance, and while it cannot be stated that they will all vote the Progressive ticket, yet their presence showed their interest.

Mr. Andrew J. Solis opened the meeting and Prof. Zueblin was elected permanent chairman, and on taking the chair, delivered a short speech, which was listened to with much attention and at the conclusion he was given considerable applause.

Organization was then effected by the choice of Andrew J. Solis, president; Robert H. Bean, vice-president; George E. Davis, secretary and Arthur W. Hale, treasurer. An executive committee of twenty was elected, five of them women as follows: Reeve Chipman, Rev. George H. Gutterston, H. A. Gale, Alfred S. Higgins, William C. Brown, W. D. Eldridge, William H. Gilpatrick, E. S. Foster, Rev. C. P. Mills, Marcus B. May, E. F. Farnalee, Herbert S. Underwood, Rev. William F. Ryan, James F. Ryan, C. E. Judkins, Mrs. H. S. Underwood, Mrs. E. J. Ryan, Mrs. Margaret Lovejoy-Weber. A congressional committee consisting of J. F. Ryan, and Robert H. Bean was also appointed.

Amid much enthusiasm, Mr. Zueblin was nominated as candidate for the Senate, and his nomination was endorsed by delegates from Stoneham, Woburn, Medford and Arlington. In accepting the nomination Mr. Zueblin said that this was the first time he had ever been a candidate for a political office, but he was willing for the good of the cause to depart from his past custom of keeping out of active politics. He said in part:

"We are responding to the call of the new times—this is the progressive age. We are termed dreamers, but if we have a particle of red blood in our veins, any of the milk of human kindness in our hearts, we are compelled to be dreamers—to dream dreams of nobler and greater things to come. Politically speaking the Republican party, or what there is left of it, represents the few to the exclusion of the many. The Democratic party represents more nearly the people, but only a part of the people. There is need of a party which will not only represent the people during a political campaign but who will represent the people while in office to which they have been elected as representatives.

Referring to the conditions of unrest and injustice, he denounced the handling of the Lawrence strike situation of last spring and referred to Effor and his colleagues as martyrs, made so by the men who had little sense of justice and true patriotism. There is a lesson in this. We are beginning to learn what patriotism, real Americanism is and means.

In the great national affairs of today the vision of those in power has been obscured. There is no longer a clear view between the National capital and the White House, and only a big man—not a fat man, can see over the obstructions and we need a big man like Theodore Roosevelt, for whom the Progressive party stands.

After setting forth in sincere and logical terms the tenets of the Progressives, he said that the purpose for which the meeting was called, was to take active steps to aid the progressive movement by organizing a Progressive league in Winchester. He was given three rousing cheers and a tiger.

Mr. Arthur W. Hale was nominated for representative from the 27th representative district. Mr. Hale declined the nomination stating that his business interests would not permit of his giving the time to the office that would be demanded and necessary.

James J. Fitzgerald will be the candidate for Representative. Mr. Fitzgerald is the head of a successful contracting business and has served on the Board of Selectmen and on the appropriations committee.

The speakers of the evening were Miss Spencer, who spoke on "Social Justice," Professor Charles Zueblin, Henry C. Long and Russell D. Crane.

After the meeting an opportunity was given for the signing of nomination papers and the enrollment cards.

Mrs. Margaret Lovejoy-Weber led the singing of the patriotic Progressive songs with spirit.

The consensus of opinion at the close of the meeting was that the Progressive had many followers in Winchester and that a vigorous campaign would be carried on from now until the November election.

*PROF. ZUEBLIN'S ACCEPTANCE.

To the Progressives of Arlington, Medford, Stoneham, Wakefield, Winchester, Woburn.

In accepting the nomination for State Senator, with which I was honored last Friday evening, the opportunity is afforded not merely to testify to personal appreciation but to personal and party faith. The Progressive Party is not an ephemeral organization called forth by an unexpected situation. The boss domination of the Republican Convention at Chicago did not differ from that known in both old parties, for decades, but it has been a slumbering force for many years. The protest against this minority tyranny breaks forth because the new conscience is more sensitive and the new intelligence more alert than the old. There will be other chances to discuss this crucial time in our national history and explain the inadequacy of the old parties. In this letter of acceptance I should like merely to testify to my willingness to serve all the inhabitants of this district and of the Commonwealth in the Senate of Massachusetts and to reply to the strictures of the nominees of effete parties who claim that the Progressive platform lacks unity.

The most important expression used in the political life of the United States.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE MEETING.

Mrs. Margaret W. Fitzgerald Was the Speaker.

The Winchester Equal Suffrage held its annual meeting in the small Town Hall, Wednesday, Oct. 2, with a large attendance. The officers elected for the ensuing year were:

President—Miss Elsie Wullop
Vice-Presidents—Mrs. Walter S. Wadsworth, Mrs. Jotham S. Woods, Mrs. Edward J. Johnson
Treasurer—Miss Marjorie Cutting
Secretary—Mrs. Lindsey E. Bird
Executive Committee—Mrs. James W. Russell, Jr., Mrs. Daniel C. Dennett, Mrs. H. W. Lowell

Chairman of Committees—Study Groups: Miss Constance Gutterston; Membership, Mrs. Frances A. Elder; Legislative, Mrs. Natalie Jewett; Literature, Mrs. Mabel E. Bradley; Press, Miss Mary E. Allen, Mrs. Susan W. Fitzgerald, Secretary of the Mass. Woman Suffrage Association was the speaker of the afternoon and told in a very graphic way, the story of Ohio campaign for Woman Suffrage.

The suffrage amendment was No. 23 among 45 amendments to be voted upon. The constitution of Ohio is a singular one and allowed amendment only once in twenty years. The people had waked to realize that they were living under the obsolete requirements of sixty years ago. Forty years ago an effort was made to word amendment, but because of the failure to accomplish the end hoped for, no effort in that direction was made at the end of the next twenty year period. With so many amendments to consider at one time, one cannot wonder that voters were unable to grasp the full intent of all, but there was no question, indeed, it was fully conceded that No. 23 was the most talked of among them all, as it was the most radical and induced the largest amount of effort from both men and women. Ohio is a state of innumerable cities and towns with twice the number of voters that California has, hence the tremendousness of the effort to reach them all in the short period of four months. Cincinnati, the largest city, is the centre of large breweries and many businesses connected with them—bottle-making, stopper-making, etc., and employs hosts of men. The liquor interest was not only solid against the measure in sentiment, but put large sums of money into the opposition campaign, issuing statements that the carrying of No. 23 would mean entire prohibition, and loss of employment to all these employees. No more deadly blow could be dealt to any cause. All vicious influences, as is always the case, went strongly against this amendment—large business interests that exploit women and child labor, department stores, factories, etc. Yet one can hardly call that a defeat that ended in the polling of so large a favorable vote and in such widespread education of the people in the principle of pure democracy, all over the state.

Another baleful influence was the barring of votes. Many who were anxious for their special measure, were able to secure, for that measure, voters who would give up one measure to secure another and, as there was no voted constituency of women voters to hold their amendment, this was a powerful influence in opposition; for instance, one man who was in a high position and promoting the Initiative and Referendum amendment, though a pronounced suffragist, voted against the No. 23 to secure voters for his measure. This was a well known case and the man was a candidate, at the same time, for some political office.

That such an enormous vote, in support of No. 23 was polled, is a powerful testimony to the remarkable campaign carried on by the women in the limited time allowed them. They were most ingenious and fertile in invention in their methods of education; for in this state, as in all others, opening the consciousness of people to the real meaning of woman suffrage is all that is necessary for the rank and file. They were nobly assisted by helpers from the west, south and east, who brought new ideas and methods of propaganda. The defeat, it can be called so, is only temporary, and no sooner than the result was known, a second campaign was begun with an open air meeting of two or three thousand listeners, in the very strong hold of opposition, Cincinnati.

The workers know now where they want to concentrate their efforts and under the Initiative and Referendum Amendment, which was carried, the amendment can be again presented to the voters, whenever it is thought wise to do so. It was inspiring to hear of such tremendous and concentrated work as was done by the women of Ohio, ably backed by 50 per cent of the newspapers of the state, and by large numbers of men, from one who took to their aid, from Boston, most powerful help in her indomitable courage and rare talent in speaking.

The meeting was adjourned by the new president, who takes the guidance of a large, enthusiastic and rapidly growing league.

ALASKA-SIBERIA PICTURES.

Something unique in motion pictures is now being presented at Jordan Hall in Boston, where the Carnegie Museum Alaska-Siberian motion pictures were placed on view for the first time Saturday afternoon. As these wonderful views of the Land of the Midnight Sun will have a limited engagement only, the opportunity should not be lost to see this unrivalled series.

The views are the work of Captain E. E. Klenchmidt, late game hunter and naturalist, who headed the Arctic expedition sent out last summer by the Carnegie Museum of Pittsburgh. The expedition penetrated as far north as Wrangle Island and the thousands of feet of hills were among the most valuable results of this journey of scientific research into practically unknown lands.

Wednesday and Saturday are at 2.30, evening views at 8.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3.15 the Winchester Highlands Athletic Club team will battle with the All Stars.

DR. GALE STATES VIEWS ON MILK SITUATION.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Dear Sir:—Will you grant me space for a few words on the "milk" question as viewed from my standpoint?

The work of the Bacteriologist of the Board of Health was begun this year for the purpose of raising the standard of milk sold in Winchester. It also aims to help the producer handle his supply in an intelligent manner, and eliminate all possible complaints by the consumer. Cow's milk before it is drawn is ordinarily free from bacteria or germs. Rarely there is an inflammation of the udder which causes bacteria to be secreted in the milk. That is part of our work to locate such cases at once and isolate that cow until she is properly treated and cured. Now, if cow's milk is free from bacteria at the start, handled in a perfectly clean manner, and kept below 50 degrees temperature until delivered to the consumer; theoretically there should be no bacteria in the milk.

However, according to our best known method of handling milk today it is practically impossible to keep out all bacteria. Certified milk, which is the highest grade, contains 10,000 bacteria or less to the cubic centimeter of milk. This is considered exceptionally fine. 500,000 bacteria to the cubic centimeter is marketable milk in Boston. Our monthly records have shown, with an occasional exception, the majority of our milkmen producing and delivering milk at an average of 50,000 bacteria or better. I am sure there isn't a city or town in Massachusetts today that can equal that record. Now, occasionally your milkman may have a slip up in his record, and jump to a high number. This may happen to any or all of them once in a while. So don't throw him over for one month's slip because the man you change may have a slip the next month.

We have found the producers willing to help us in every way to better their supply, and if your milkman gets a high score, you may be sure he is as anxious as you or we are, to locate the cause and remove it at once. Any count under 100,000 is two to three times better, than the average milk sold in Massachusetts. By this, I mean fresh, un-pasteurized cow's milk. Any count over 100,000 in Winchester will be followed up, the cause ascertained and removed as soon as possible.

If an individual cow is suspected as the cause of a high count, we have the herd divided into three sections and test a sample of the mixed, one part from each section. The division having the high count is subdivided and so on till the right cow, which in this case is the wrong cow, is found.

As a further precaution, all the physicians in town have been supplied with cards to which they report, if illness they think may have come from milk, giving the source of supply. If several of these reports come in within a short time of each other, naming the same dairy, that dairy will be immediately examined.

Respectfully,
H. A. Gale, M. D.,
Bacteriologist to the Board of Health.

It was the prettiest wedding that has taken place at the Highlands in many years. In the vestry tables were spread from which refreshments were served, the decorations being blue and yellow streamers. The young ladies of the Church Philanthia Class, of which the bride was a member, served the refreshments, and they, too, were very prettily gowned.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

A gentleman who has pronounced views against the suffrage the gives The Spectator to understand that one way to check the movement is to make the legal age for voting 35 years instead of 21.

A Winchester gentleman informs The Spectator that the porterhouse steak had its origination at Harvard. So Harvard is another of the causes of high cost of living.

A Main street gentleman remarks that the astronomers who assert that there is life on Mars have this advantage, that it is impossible to disprove their assertion.

The declaration by a bishop, that the husband is the head of the family, will not materially change conditions in the majority of homes.

A STAR reader notes that it takes 2,850 house flies to weigh an ounce, but as there is no complaint about the weight of flies, that is not important.

"Many a favor is granted," remarked a gentleman within hearing of The Spectator the other day, "not from the heart, but from lack of moral courage to refuse it."

"Before we begin," said a Winchester man in answering an argument "lets shake hands, like prize fighters"

And now a medical friend of The Spectator's strenuously attacks the moustache. He declares that the popular hirsute adornment of the masculine upper lip is unsanitary in a high degree, from the fact that "it is obviously difficult to cleanse thoroughly and it is open to doubt whether mere washing completely sterilizes it. Even if that should be the case the moustache would soon be full of organisms again as it is constantly exposed to a stream of air which is rarely sterile." With all due respect to the scientific acumen of the medical man The Spectator opines that it may be suggested that there are two sides to this proposition, for the moustache may serve to check the entrance into the nostrils and then to the lungs of the constantly flowing stream of unsterile air. Medical and physiological science is a wondrous thing, but if it persists in its unpleasant researches the time will come when we shall not know "what we shall eat or what we shall drink or where withal we shall be clothed."

"It may be that the experts of today can successfully defend the present system of teaching and maintain that they are now able to give the child the desired knowledge better than ever before," was the remark of a man the other evening. "However, the fact remains that graduates are now sent out into the world grossly ignorant of what used to be considered the very foundation of knowledge. These graduates are the laughing stock of more than one business office today. Without denying that the educators know their business, I cannot help but wonder why this is so."

When the average woman won't spread gossip, it's about herself.

If a Winchesterite has dyspepsia, the way to his heart is not through his stomach.

Men's fashions change slowly, and may lack the brilliant and artistic ideas to be found in the feminine fashions, but it is the claim of The Spectator that even man has imposed considerably over his gay Babylonian ancestors, who went about with bare legs, and did their whiskers in corkscrew curls.

"If everybody knew all about your goods, what they were like and why they were good, they would still require advertising," says a writer on business topics. "There are hundreds of conditions which everyone believes are true, but belief does not always produce desire—action." Some storekeepers in Winchester are sadly in need of that lesson. They sell in their stores goods of worth that enjoy a sterling reputation, but that are not sold in as large quantities as they should be for lack of the irresistible prod of good publicity. First class goods are worthy of first class advertising. Exploitation in the columns of the STAR will not only make their merits better known, but will make people buy them.

SINGLE COPIES, FIVE CENTS.

The primary of last week again demonstrated the success of that form of caucus. In the past an attendance of fifty voters at a caucus was considered large.

The Progressive rally of last Friday evening in the Town Hall is substantial proof that not only the Republican but the Democratic leaders in Winchester will have considerable work before them in order to maintain the usual vote at the November election.

SUCCESSFUL RALLY.

In the twentieth century is the term New Nationalism employed by Theodore Roosevelt in his Ossawatimie speech at the anniversary of John Brown's martyrdom. The development of that idea into a consistent organic platform is a political achievement of permanent importance. The Progressive platform has a consistency that is the epitome of the best thought in politics and sociology today. It is a rare privilege to subscribe to this platform, to swear allegiance to those whose patriotism and vision grasp its meaning and to offer to try as the servant of the people to put it into execution in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The substance of the Progressive platform may be summed up in the following paragraphs:

The constitution of the United States was devised by men unfamiliar with the demands of popular government. What ever their purpose, the country has grown beyond the anticipations of the most optimistic and progressive, and the question arises, how the coming generations shall adapt government to the transformed conditions. Minority rule must end. The relegation to the states of all functions not assigned to the Federal government in the early days when the functions were still obscure has brought about confusion, which is now in process of clarification and people begin to inquire, how we can have home rule for the city, state and nation. Home Rule for the individual citizen and groups of citizens is the result of experiments in direct legislation carried on from one coast to the other.

The reckless squandering of our natural advantages in the days when population was sparse is ceasing under the pressure of numbers and the expansion of individual and national life. The soil, forests, water supplies, mineral resources, and the industries founded on the monopolization of these lead to inquiries concerning the accumulation and distribution of wealth and the welfare of the citizen and the nation. Monopoly must be controlled and the nation's wealth economized.

The people can be taught the laws of individual and social consumption. The consumer and the worker, not privileged interests, must determine our protective tariff. That form of taxation is best which secures the funds necessary for an enlarging public life and the prevention of private exploitation. Income, inheritance, and land taxes are indispensable. Our financial resources can be conserved by public ownership of the public domain, as we are proving in Panama and must prove in Alaska.

Legislation has been designed mainly to protect property. We must now conserve and develop the human resources. We can guarantee the right to work and a decent standard of living. The workers must be organized. We can apply science to the development of industry, not only for material wealth but for the improvement of the race.

Why have not honesty, truthfulness, chastity and sympathy secured public morality. Because we have been conventional, traditional, complacent in the presence of national prosperity. The new party issues a call to the political bigoted, the purse proud or the class-conscious, but to all to join in transforming material prosperity into national well-being.

TREMONT THEATRE.

The style of musical plays has undergone a decided change within the last few years. Heterogeneous little attention was paid to the plot of a musical play.

Today the musical play is one of refinement, a good plot with clean humor and music that has body. Messrs. Cohen & Harris, who are bringing "A Polish Wedding" to the Tremont Theatre Monday October 21st for a two weeks engagement have a play with music that is apart from all traditional style. The piece is a farce with music and has a good clean story for a plot. An exceptionally well balanced cast will be seen a cast that can sing, dance and act.

Miss Valti Valti an English actress was selected for the prima donna role. Others prominent in the cast are Winona Winter, Mathilde Cottrell, William Evers, Armand Kalisz, Louise Aichel, Sidney Bracey, Lincoln Plumer, Carrie Graham, Louis Cosmanton, Frank Andrews, Ann Pennington and Genevieve Tobin.

HOLBROOK-ARNOLD.

The wedding of Miss Anna Chase Arnold, one of Winchester's popular and well known young ladies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Arnold of Dix street, and Mr. Parker Holbrook son of Mrs. Julia J. Holbrook of Arlington, an assistant in the town engineering department, took place at the home of the bride's parents last evening.

About 100 relatives and friends were present and witnessed the ceremony, which was performed at eight o'clock by Rev. Murray W. Dewar, rector of the Church of the Epiphany.

The bride was gowned in white crepe de chine, with Dutch lace and pearl trimmings. Her bridal veil was caught with a spray of orange blossoms and her shower bouquet was of lilies of the valley. She was given in marriage by her father.

The best man was Mr. Harold T. Mitchell of Malden. The bridesmaids were Miss Edith Adams and Miss Martha Hamilton. These young ladies were gowned in pink messaline with an overdress of blue marquisette, and pink messaline with overdress of pink marquisette. They carried bouquets of pink Killarney roses.

Preceding the wedding party were Miss Charlotte Delano of Everett, Miss Marion Dinsmore of Medford, Miss Ethel Richardson of this town and Miss Ethel Shepard of Cambridge, who were the ribbon bearers, making the aisle through which the bride and groom passed. They were dressed alike in white, and each wore a single pink rose. The wedding march was played by Mr. Ralph F. Arnold, brother of the bride.

The residence was handsomely decorated for the wedding, the ceremony being performed beneath an arch of fern, with a background of laurel and pink roses. The rooms were decorated with laurel, asparagus fern and Killarney roses.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held until half-past nine, the couple being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Arnold and Mrs. Holbrook. The ushers for both wedding and reception were Messrs. Robert Hamilton, Alfred Dover and Ove Mortensen.

At the close of the reception Mr. and Mrs. Holbrook left on their wedding trip to Washington, D. C. Upon their return they will make their home in Winchester.

The display of gifts was very handsome, the young couple being richly remembered by their hosts of friends with useful and handsome articles of linen, silver, cut glass and checks.

Guests were present from Lowell, Malden, Arlington, South Framingham, Chelsea, Medford and Cambridge.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

Last Thursday evening occurred the first social of the season under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The bachelor part was impersonated by Mr. Herbert Sellar. Others in the cast were Mrs. Moulton, Alta Hartley, Ruth Roberts, Edna Johnson, Beth Mason, Dorothy Armstrong, Mrs. Foster and Miriam Adams.

The refreshments were in charge of Mrs. Shetland Clay, assisted by Mrs. Frank E. Crawford and Miss Edna Johnson.

During the evening piano selections were rendered by Miriam Mobbs, Evelyn Fimmore and Edith Hatch. Mrs. Ivan Moulton rendered two vocal selections much to the delight of the company.

Mrs. Roy L. William Adams and Mrs. John N. Mason have been appointed delegates from the Sunday school, to the 23rd annual state convention of the Massachusetts Sunday School Association to be held at Lawrence October 15, 16, and 17.

RELIGION AND HEALTH.

At the Unitarian Church next Sunday morning Mr. Metcalf will begin a series of four sermons on the relation of the mind to physical health. The discussion both scientific and religious of the past few years has brought out a number of important facts which are unquestionable and the monopoly of no party or denomination. These will be considered in the light of modern psychology and the religious spirit.

The following are the subjects Oct. 6, "The Larger Self," as the basis of these deeper powers of the mind.

Oct. 13, "Diseases of the Imagination," Troubles whose basis is mental rather than physical and the way of cure.

Oct. 20, "The Power of Belief," The Psychology of belief in its relation to the body.

Oct. 27, "Religion and Health," What the Religious spirit does for the health of mind and body.

The public is cordially invited to these addresses which will be given at the morning service at 10.30 a. m.

WINCHESTER FISHERMEN AT MOOSEHEAD.

By kind permission of Town Clerk Carter the STAR prints an extract from a private letter written to his Town Hall friends by Water Commissioner Arthur E. Whitney which indicates that Winchester fishermen are having a most enjoyable outing in northern Maine. The STAR congratulates the gentlemen named on the reputation STAR subscribers are making as successful fishermen and all around lovers of nature; wish we could all participate.

To another Winchester friend Mr. Whitney writes:

Sept. 30, 1912.

"Last week we made a little visit to Matt's camp and found our Winchester friends all well and enjoying themselves immensely under Mr. Lane's direction. The principal excitement of the day was the successful landing of sizeable square tail trout by Alfred Hall, Esq. He was assisted by two lady friends and all three enjoyed the sport very much. With a little practice Mrs. Hall will make a great sport."

We spent a day at Matt's and a day at Kineo. On the 25th Charles Lane and wife and Henry Stone and his wife came over to Lily Bay to see us. A Mr. and Mrs. Newell of Hingham also came with them. For one version, we planned a trip to Roach Pond, all going on two guideboards. I engaged the old French guide you have seen so often up here, Ed. Delaney and he proved a good one for we caught a phenomenal string of fish. There were eight square tail trout in all and they weighed just 26 lbs. an average of 3.25 lbs. each. Lane caught the most fish but I landed the largest one, just 3 lbs. in weight. Henry caught the next largest 3 lbs. We had a great feast of partridge, trout, green peas, etc., after we returned to Lily Bay. Lane was here two days and returned to Matt's but Henry remained longer shooting birds, fishing, etc.

He went home last Saturday. Dr. Murdoch has been here during the last two weeks and you know what he is to get for. We have had a lot of it and all of it you were with us to enjoy it. Lily Bay never did more for us than it has this time. The Dr. says he is coming after you next year, put your his gipsack and bring you along as baggage. The Davis party have just come in with a 400 lb. black bear shot at 3rd Roach pond. We start for home Wednesday via Kineo. The mountains are all covered with snow and with brilliant foliage make a magnificent show. Will see you soon and tell you more."

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The annual convention of the Middlesex County Woman's Christian Temperance Union was favored with perfect weather and consequently there was a good attendance. The meeting place was the Congregational Church and the day September 25. The morning session opened at ten o'clock. Mrs. Abby F. Rolfe, county president, conducting the devotional service.

The president of the Winchester Union, Mrs. Grace M. Hamilton, welcomed the convention in the name of the union while Rev. F. W. Hodgdon extended greetings in behalf of the church. Mrs. Annabel Brown responded for the convention which proceeded at once to business—the usual reports, the president's annual address, roll call and election, which proved to be a re-election of all the officers.

The noonday prayer service was also a memorial to Mrs. Campbell, long a valued worker, and afterward came the reports of various departments, literature, settlement work, social meetings, etc. Luncheon was then the order of the day and was discussed with as much relish as the intellectual feast that was provided and also sustained the reputation of Winchester as a town given to hospitality.

One of the attractive features of the morning session was the solo by Mrs. Margaret Lovejoy Weber whose singing gave especial pleasure to those present. The afternoon session began with a service of song led by Mrs. Hogan of Watertown followed by a devotional service conducted by the Rev. H. E. Hodge. The departments of Sunday School work, Soldiers and Sailors, and fairs and open-air meetings also reported. Dr. J. Churchill Himes then sang most delightfully and Miss Anna C. M. Tillinghast of Maine gave an inspiring address which held her audience from the first word to the last, and made more than one convert. Delegates were appointed to the National Convention to be held this month and then the convention adjourned, after a very successful and harmonious meeting. A number of guests were present and the members of the Union were assisted by a number of young women who acted as ushers, waitresses, etc.

Mrs. Lydia L. Blood, the oldest active member of the Winchester Union, was introduced to the convention and spoke briefly of the work. None of the charter members of the Union are now actively engaged, but it must be remembered that it is now thirty five years since the Winchester Union was organized.

The next meeting of the Union will be held Friday, October 11, at 3 p. m. at the home of Mrs. George A. Weld, 3 Sanborn Place, (Symmes Corner) when the comfort bags for the sailors will be begun. Members and friends are asked to bring their thumbs and come early in order to get a good start.

PRIZES FOR BEST VEGETABLES.

Last spring a supply of corn and potatoes was received from Massachusetts Agricultural College and distributed among the pupils of the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades with the promise that prizes would be given for the best product obtained this fall. Last Friday the best specimens from the various schools were brought together, and were rated by Mr. Samuel Symmes as follows: (the last year's grade is in parenthesis)

Corn, first, Eleanor Foss, Washington school, Gr. VI (Wash. V); Corn second, Elizabeth Quigley, Prince school, Gr. VII (Chapin VI); Corn third, Ruth P. Land, Chapin school, Gr. V (Rumford IV); Potatoes, first, Mary C. Quill, Chapin school, Gr. V (Chapin IV); Potatoes, second, Howard Chase, Washington VI (Washington VI); Potatoes third, Annie Kalcayne, Washington VI (Chapin VI).

The prizes were one dollar for first, seventy five cents for second, and fifty cents for third. Mr. Symmes said the corn was really remarkable. The ears, winning first prize were 11 1/2 inches long with eight rows of kernels and approximately 425 kernels to the ear, buttoned over the ends and in every respect almost perfect. The potatoes were good, but not so exceptional.

If Your Voice Gets In, You Win

A Palmer (Mass.) subscriber told this story:

"I got word of a possible big contract in Western New York, packed my grip, and started on the night train. All next day I waited around that city, trying to get the head of the firm. He was busy—busy. I couldn't get at him. When night came I went home disgusted.

"As my eyes rested on the telephone in my office next morning, I said to myself: 'Wonder if you couldn't get me into that office—get my voice where I can't go myself?'

"It could and did. Within a half hour from the time I put in the call, I was awarded the contract."

The announcement of a long-distance call usually will secure a hearing. Many busy men prefer to transact business by telephone. It enables them to concentrate, to escape the emphasis of personalities, and to make quick decisions.

THE FARMER AND HIS PARTNER

The August crop report of the Agricultural Department, with its forecast of record breaking gains for 1912, is interesting reading alike to the farmer and the city man, so essential to general prosperity are satisfactory returns from the soil.

The pessimist is disheartened with the gain of 191 million bushels of corn, 15 million bushels of spring and winter wheat and 390 million bushels of oats, totaling almost 600 million bushels in three crops with rye and barley not considered; and it is still necessary, in order to get some idea of the total, to add 20 million tons of hay.

This is a billion dollar year for a billion dollar country and there is a fair chance that our 1912 crops will exceed 10 billion dollars for the first time in history.

What has brought about this increase? Are the rains wetter and the sunshine brighter than in former days? Not so—they are just the same, but the present day farmer has learned well his lesson. "Make hay while the sun shines." The explanation of the increase is intensified farming, the application of science to the tilling of the soil, and economy in the use of methods and time.

The modern farmer no longer hitches up old Dobbin and drives over bad roads to town, thus needlessly wasting time and energy. He has learned that he can send his voice on his errands over the wire highway. The rural telephone has come to be the progressive farmer's partner. It enables him to accomplish more in one day than his father could have done in two or even three. This partner of his brings to him the weather forecasts and market quotations. He no longer works in the dark. The partnership between the American farmer and the rural telephone is contributing to bring husbandry up to the same point of efficient organization as any of the so-called big businesses.

An official of the Western Electric Company, the manufacturer of the seven million "Bell" telephones, states that within the last five years they have sold over half a million telephones for the farmer, and the demand shows no signs of abating, as practically all of the country folks who have not already done so are realizing the advisability of taking it to their business a partner—a rural telephone.

AN AGED BUGBEAR.

The late U. S. Senator George F. Hoar pointed out that every argument used to exclude women from suffrage would logically exclude men also; and he specified this particular objection that a voter must have an intelligent understanding of every branch of public questions. In England, when the reform bill of 1832 was pending which proposed to give the Parliamentary vote to every male household owning a certain amount of property, the suggestion seemed wild and revolutionary. Blackwood's Magazine said:

"The future historian, when he relates that a total alteration of the British constitution was carried by a majority of 130 in the House of Commons, were asked what were the experienced grievances, the acknowledged faults, the unremediable evils which called for so prodigious a change, and justified the repeal of institutions which had withstood the shocks of a thousand years? There is in the outset a very great danger in the sudden extension of political power to so prodigious a class as this numerous body of householders. They are incapable of forming a rational opinion on public affairs, because their necessary labor precludes them from acquiring the requisite information; and while nature has been prodigal to all of passion, she has been sparing to most of reason. She has given to all the power of feeling, to few the power of thinking; to all leisure for the daily press, to few the leisure of reading works of superior utility. Is it not extraordinary that, in the present case, where so many weighty interests are involved, men can be persuaded to risk so much positive good for merely speculative advantages? History demonstrates that large bodies, even of the most intelligent men, never look beyond present consequences; and it is not to be supposed that the English householders will form an exception to the rule."

Yet this "prodigious" extension of the suffrage left three-fourths of the men in England still disfranchised. The others did not get the ballot until many years later. When we see the exact family likeness of the bugbears which have presented themselves to the conservative mind before every extension of the franchise, even the mildest and most cautious, it ought to be clear that that type of bug is only a spectral illusion with no solid substance behind it.

A. S. B. in the Woman's Journal.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

One of the most diversified and brilliant all-star vaudeville bills of the season is announced for B. F. Keith's Theatre next week, no less than six splendid headline attractions being on the list. Dave Gougeon and Ray Bailey, known as "The International Favorites," will make their first appearance at this house in years in a series of startling and sensational dance specialties and songs. Another brilliant spectacular novelty will be Ma-Belle and her Sylvan Ballet, a troupe of pretty and graceful dancers who present a fantasy entitled "The Dance Dream." The big laughing features of the week will be "Who's Brown," a screamingly funny farce presented by the Providence Players; and Bert Melrose, the dare-devil clown, with his funny tables and chairs. Marshall Montgomerie, the peer of all ventriloquists, will present his remarkable specialty, and others to appear are the Five Martells, a family of clever cyclists; Edwards and Irene, two clever singers and dancers, and several other acts to be announced later.

ST. JAMES THEATRE.

There is no question but that Boston has taken most kindly to the new all star stock company which Mr. M. H. Gulesian has established at the St. James Theatre, Huntington and Mass., avenues, Boston, to appear in the best plays at popular prices. Mr. Gulesian has long believed that the citizens of greater Boston would flock to see his splendid organization which play a moderate prices, and his belief has been justified by the results of the past month. During the present week Miss Nance O'Neil, the distinguished tragedienne who was especially engaged as a visiting star, is appearing in "Magda" her strongest play. Her performance is a great one. Boston never saw such a distinguished actress, supported by an all star company in prices which range from 15c to 50c at matinees, and from 15c to 75c in the evening. During the week of October 7th, the St. James Theatre Co. will produce Mrs. Burnett's beautiful play "The Dawn of a Tomorrow" for which an elaborate setting is being built.

NUMBER OF WOMEN WHO CAN VOTE.

1,346,925 women can vote in the six equal suffrage states according to statistics prepared under the direction of William C. Hunt, chief statistician of the Census Bureau. Percentages of this number, by the same authority, of native, foreign and mixed parentage are as follows: 48.6 per cent. were native whites of native parentage (not far from half it is seen); 24.7 per cent. of native whites of foreign or mixed parentage (one native and one foreign born parent); 24.3 per cent. of foreign born whites; 1 per cent. negroes; and 1.3 per cent. "all others," that is Indians, Chinese, Japanese and other Asiatics. This would not seem to give much color to the fear of many sophisticated people that great harm would come from the "foreign, ignorant vote."

An old and respected resident of Winchester was pleasantly surprised at his home on Reservoir street last Thursday evening, the occasion being Mr. Thomas Dotten's birthday. Mr. Dotten has been on the police force for the past 30 years; for the last five years he has been assigned to night duty. Recently he has been doing office work in the day time. While on night duty, his friends did not have any chance to surprise him on his birthday and they took this opportunity to do so. About 20 of his old friends gathered at his home and it was a complete surprise. While the refreshments were being served Mr. Dotten was presented with a very nice sweater. He also received a birthday cake presented and made by his granddaughter, Catherine McLellan. The evening was spent in a social manner.

The first of the week when Boston residents working for the company were on their way to the factory these Winchester men tried to induce them to stop work. W. C. I. U. NOTES.

This week has been the gathering of the clans in Boston, the thirty-ninth annual convention of the Massachusetts Women's Christian Temperance Union. For the larger number of the union members Boston is the most convenient meeting place and the excellent programme of each session brought out large crowds of interested workers. The opening rally held Sunday afternoon set the keynote for the convention. The speech of Mrs. Mary Harris Armour, of Georgia Monday evening was an inspiration to all who heard her and will long linger in the memory of her audience.

The sessions were helpful in their various ways. Each department of work was presented briefly by the Superintendent, the number so great that each was limited to a few minutes, and yet several sessions were needed to get them all into line. The little gathering at the first convention, following in the footsteps of the crusaders, must indeed have been gilded with prescience to have foreseen this great organization with its varied interests and its dynamic force, together with its auxiliaries, the Loyal Temperance Legion and the Young People's Branch. The few of the pioneers who remain may well rejoice in what has been done even if full success has not been vouchsafed to them.

It would be impossible in this brief space to enumerate all the good things of the convention. It is hoped every member found time to attend one or more of the sessions. The local papers gave a fair account and the State minutes, published later, will have the full reports. Following close upon the state convention came the departure of the special train for Portland, Oregon, where the National convention is to be held, October 19-25. A large delegation from New England went early in order to make a few stops en route and to be in time for the preliminary meetings.

MR. FITZGERALD
ACCEPTS NOMINATION.

Will Run for Representative as Progressive.

Winchester, Mass., Oct. 9, 1912.
EDITOR OF THE STAR:
Winchester, Mass.

Dear Sir:—I wish to state to the citizens of this representative district that I have accepted the nomination of the Progressive Party. I wish that a more able per on than I had been selected, but, in the Progressive Party, it is the peoples' will that governs, and not that of the individual. I thoroughly believe in the principles of the Progressive Party, and that our country needs at this time Theodore Roosevelt for President. I am in favor of all the candidates of the Progressive Party, especially Prof. Charles Zueblin.

James J. Fitzgerald.

James J. Fitzgerald was born in Winchester, forty-six years ago, and was educated in the public schools. In 1886 he became a member of the Winchester Fire Department, and with two years' exception, was a member until 1902, filling most every position in the department from chief member to the position of chief. He was prominent in the Winchester Catholic Total Abstinence Society, being its first president. He was elected a member of the Board of Selectmen for three successive years. He also served a number of years on the appropriations committee, and is now a member of the warrant committee. He is also a director in the Winchester Co-operative Bank.

In 1898 Mr. Fitzgerald succeeded to the general contracting business previously carried on by his father. There is probably no man in town who is better known to, or more esteemed by, the citizens of Winchester than James J. Fitzgerald.

THE ELECTRIC SHOW.

The 1912 Boston Electrical Show in Mechanics Building has many practical novelties which appeal to visitors.

The electric farm is one of the new things. It is shown how the electric current will easily, quickly, efficiently and economically make the farming machinery move and do the work formerly done laboriously and slowly by hand power.

How a dairy can be operated by electrically moved machinery from milking to churning to refrigeration is illustrated in the electric farm. There are the electric milkers, the electric milk coolers, the electric cream separators, the electric milk testers, the electric churns and the electric bottle washers.

The visitors see a model barn in which the power used is that of the current. There is an electric hay rack which unloads the hay from the wagon and stores it in the loft. There is the wood saw and the wood splitter, and then there are the electrically operated hay wagons, truck wagons, carriages and buggies—all for the 1912 farmer.

The farmer may also raise his poultry from start to market by electricity for the incubator, the brooder and the hen house heated are all in evidence in the model farm.

W. H. S. NOTES.

An A. A. meeting was held Monday at recess and the secretary's report for the previous meeting was read and accepted. It was voted to amend the section in the constitution which says that no post-graduate may play on any team or engage in any athletic contests. The amendment is that no person shall represent any team for more than four years. This affects base ball, as base ball is played under the league constitution.

The second soccer game between 1911 and 1912 was played Monday afternoon and resulted in a victory for 1912.

The girls A. A. will hold a dance in the High School Gymnasium Saturday evening Nov. 9.

The Senior class have elected Mr. Littlefield of Arlington class photographer.

H AND S CLUB
INSTALLS OFFICERS.

The H. and S. Club held its installation of officers elected recently in Thayer hall, Friday night. All the members were present and witnessed the ceremonial rites which were performed by Mr. Gladstone Henderson of New York.

Following the installation, Mr. Henderson in behalf of the club extended his congratulations to several of the members who performed so nobly in the various regattas the club has attended this past summer. At the conclusion Mr. Henderson was interrupted by a messenger emerging from a side door bearing a large package which he extended to Mr. Henderson. The package contained however, Mr. Henderson's proof of acknowledgement. The presents were presented to their respectful recipients to which they responded with words of appreciation.

The balance of the evening was enjoyed singing club songs composed by various members. During the singing lunch was served. Following is a parody on "Casey Jones" applied to the club and its members, reproduced by a member:

Oh, come all you fellows now let us tell,
About a club that you all know well,
Its name is H. and S. and its fellows are all true,
For they all stick together as though they were stuck by glue.

Now, let us tell you of the fellows in this bunch, There's that you can always know them if you ever get a hunch.

There's the Parson and the Pretzel, Mutt and Jeff and the Spud, The Duke and the Count, Old Jack and a Bud.

The Cruiser and the Sport, the Sailor and a Simplex,
And these are all the members now until we get the next.

Well, on the seventeenth of June, the crowd all departed;
On a great big truck with canoes they started.

To the Middleboro meet, just to win the club four;
And you should have seen them win it as they never did before.

Well, on Aug. third why they got another thought,
An I to the Waltham meet they all did trot!
It was there they sat around a table and sang.

Until everybody voted them one good gang.
Well, on Labor day they run a big meet here.

And clubs all came from far and near,
And everybody was glad that they were there to attend.

To see old Casey win the old tail end, Well, the season was now drawing to an end.

Just one more meet that we were glad to attend,
Was the Lawrence meet with a dance at the close.

And we had a great time as everybody knows.

THE MISSIONARY TEA.

The Annual October tea of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church was observed on Tuesday evening. The autumn leaf decorations and unique arrangement of the daintily placed tables lighted with shaded candles developed the vestry into a veritable picture. The large number present were gratified with a delicious tea. The after dinner address by Rev. Maurice A. Levy of Newton Centre will remain a permanent inspiration. His theme "The Redemptive Church" was unfolded on broad outlines showing the missionary enterprise to be the normal execution of Christian will and purpose. He further impressed the truth that the ideal church is redemptive in spirit and effort as much in the immediate community at home as in the distant fields abroad. The program concluded most impressively with the song "Tell Me the Story of Jesus" sung by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hodge.

The following numbers will be played at the recital:

Prelude and Fugue in D minor Bach Schrezo Macfarlane
Adagio deBeriot
Grand Choeur Chauvet

WINCHESTER PUBLIC LIBRARY

Oct. 8, Oct. 26, 1912.
Exhibition of photographs loaned by The Library Art Club. Wells Cathedral. This Cathedral, though not one of the largest, is considered one of the finest churches in England, and some authorities do not hesitate to give it the first place of all its complete collection of old ecclesiastical buildings making it the most perfect example of a cathedral, with all its parts and appointments. It is situated in the small city of Wells, which has been the see of a bishop since the 10th century. The church is the chief ornament of the place, and indeed may be said to be the place itself.

THE TERRIBLE MEAL.

The ladies of Winchester who do not hear Mrs. Helen Wells' reading of this play by the author of the "Servant in the House" will have an opportunity to hear a powerful drama that is also a Gospel of Peace. In many respects the drama is unique and peculiarly fitted for production in the way it is given by Mrs. Wells. As the accommodations in Mrs. Sanborn's home are limited, all who care to attend would do well to engage tickets at once from Mrs. Green Sanborn or Mrs. George Root. The proceeds of the entertainment will be used for social service work.

THE MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Mothers' Association will hold its regular meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 16, at 3 p. m., in the High School Assembly Hall.

Miss Frances Stern of Boston will give a talk upon "The Child in the Home." This talk was given last winter under the direction of the Home Economics Committee of the Fort-nightly, and was so helpful that it was thought desirable to have it repeated. It is hoped that a large number of mothers may attend.

Edward Dimen, son of Andrew Dimen of 44 Irving street, died of his home yesterday morning, aged 15 years, 8 months. He had been a sufferer with heart trouble for the past two years and was taken seriously ill on Monday.

W. C. I. U. NOTES.

This week has been the gathering of the clans in Boston, the thirty-ninth annual convention of the Massachusetts Women's Christian Temperance Union.

For the larger number of the union members Boston is the most convenient meeting place and the excellent programme of each session brought out large crowds of interested workers. The opening rally held Sunday afternoon set the keynote for the convention. The speech of Mrs. Mary Harris ARMOR, of Georgia Monday evening was an inspiration to all who heard her and will long linger in the memory of her audience.

The sessions were helpful in their various ways. Each department of work was presented briefly by the Superintendent, the number so great that each session was limited to a few minutes, and yet several sessions were needed to get them all into line.

The little gathering at the first convention, following in the footsteps of the crusaders, must indeed have been gilded with prescience to have foreseen this great organization with its varied interests and its dynamic force, together with its auxiliaries, the Loyal Temperance Legion and the Young People's Branch. The few of the pioneers who remain may well rejoice in what has been done, even if full success has not been consecrated to them.

It would be impossible in this brief space to enumerate all the good things of the convention. It is hoped every member found time to attend one or more of the sessions. The local papers gave a full account and the State minutes, published later, will have the full reports. Following close upon the State convention came the departure of the special train for Portland, Oregon, where the National convention is to be held, October 14-25. A large delegation from New England went early in order to make a few stops en route and to be in time for the preliminary meetings.

SMOKE TALK MONDAY NIGHT.

The Winchester Boat Club will hold its usual fall smoke talk on Monday night, October 14th, which will close the season for this year. A most interesting entertainment has been planned by a committee headed by Captain Frank H. Coriath and Mr. Hernand D. Murphy, the principal feature of which will be an illustrated talk by Mr. F. A. Fenger on "Seven hundred miles in a sailing canoe through the Windward Islands."

There will be the usual lunch and music. It is anticipated that this affair will draw a large attendance of members and their friends. The entertainment provided by the club this season has been more attractive than at any time in its history, and this closing event has been arranged to attract both the older as well as the younger members.

MR. FITZGERALD ACCEPTS NOMINATION.

Will Run for Representative as Progressive.

Winchester, Mass., Oct. 9, 1912.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Winchester, Mass.
Dear Sir:—I wish to state to the citizens of this representative district that I have accepted the nomination of the Progressive Party. I wish that a more able person than I had been selected, but, in the Progressive Party, it is the peoples' will that governs, and not that of the individual. I thoroughly believe in the principles of the Progressive Party, and that our country needs at this time Theodore Roosevelt for President. I am in favor of all the candidates of the Progressive Party, especially Prof. Charles Zuehlke.

James J. Fitzgerald.

James J. Fitzgerald was born in Winchester, forty-six years ago, and was educated in the public schools. In 1886 he became a member of the Winchester Fire Department, and with two years' exception, was a member until 1902, filling most every position in the department from a full member to the position of chief. He was prominent in the Winchester Catholic Total Abstinence Society, being its first president. He was elected a member of the Board of Selectmen for three successive years. He also served a number of years on the appropriations committee, and is now a member of the warrant committee. He is also a director in the Winchester Co-operative Bank.

In 1898 Mr. Fitzgerald succeeded to the general contracting business previously carried on by his father. There is probably no man in town who is better known to, or more esteemed by, the citizens of Winchester than James J. Fitzgerald.

THE ELECTRIC SHOW.

The 1912 Boston Electrical Show in Mechanics Building has many practical novelties which appeal to visitors.

The electric farm is one of the new things. It is shown how the electric current will easily, quickly, efficiently and economically make the farming machinery move and do the work formerly done laboriously and slowly by hand power.

How a dairy can be operated by electrically moved machinery from milking to churning to refrigeration is illustrated in the electric farm. There are the electric milkers, the electric milk coolers, the electric cream separators, the electric milk testers, the electric churns and the electric bottle washers.

The visitors see a model barn in which the power used is that of the current. There is an electric hay fork which unloads the hay from the wagon and stores it in the loft. There is the wood-saw and the wood-splitter, and then there are the electrically operated hay wagons, truck wagons, carriages and launchers, all for the 1912 farmer.

The farmer may also raise his poultry from start to market by electricity for the incubator, the brooder and the hen house heated are all in evidence in the model farm.

W. H. S. NOTES.

An A. A. meeting was held Monday at recess and the secretary's report for the previous meeting was read and accepted. It was voted to amend the section in the constitution which says that no post-graduate may play on any team or engage in any athletic contests. The amendment is that no person shall represent any team for more than four years. This affects base ball, as base ball is played under the league constitution.

The second soccer game between 1911 and 1912 was played Monday afternoon and resulted in a victory for 1912. The score was 1 to 0.

The girls A. A. will hold a dance in the High School Gymnasium Saturday evening, Nov. 9.

H AND S CLUB INSTALLS OFFICERS.

The H. and S. Club held its installation of officers elected recently in Thayer hall, Friday night. All the members were present and witnessed the ceremonial rites which were performed by Mr. Gladstone Henderson of New York.

Following the installation, Mr. Henderson in behalf of the club extended his congratulations to several of the members who performed so nobly in the various regattas the club has attended this past summer. At the conclusion Mr. Henderson was interrupted by a messenger emerging from a side door bearing a large package which he extended to Mr. Henderson. The package contained however, Mr. Henderson's proof of acknowledgement. The presents were presented to their respectful recipients to which they responded with words of appreciation.

The balance of the evening was enjoyed singing club songs composed by various members. During the singing lunch was served. Following is a parody on "Casey Jones" applied to the club and its members, reproduced by a member:

Oh, come all you fellows now let us tell, About a club that you all know well, Its name is H. and S. and its fellows are all true, For they all stick together as though their stuck by glue.

Now, let us tell you of the fellows in this bunch, There's that you can always know them if you ever get a hunch, There's the Parson and the Pretzel, Mutt and left and the Spud,

The Duke and the Count, Old Jack and a Bud,

The Cruiser and the Sport, the Sailor and a Simplex,

And these are all the members now until we get the next.

Well, on the seventeenth of June, the great big departed;

On a great big truck with canoes they started,

To the Middleboro meet, just to win the club four;

And you should have seen them win it as they never did before.

Well, on Aug. third why they got another thought,

And to the Waltham meet they all did trot!

It was there they sat around a table and sang,

Until everybody voted them one good gang.

Well, on Labor day they run a big meet here,

And clubs all came from far and near,

And everybody was glad that they were there to attend,

To see old Casey win the old fall end,

Well, the season was now drawing to an end;

Just one more meet that we were glad to attend,

Was the Lawrence meet with a dance at the close,

And we had a great time as everybody knows.

The funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon from the residence. The burial was at Woburn.

"DISEASES OF THE IMAGINATION."

At the Unitarian Church Sunday morning Mr. Metcalf will give the second of his addresses on the relation of the Mind to Health, the subject being diseases that are not physical but have their seat in the mental realm and must be cured by mental or spiritual means.

KIRKPATRICK—MUM.

Mr. George Kirkpatrick of Fairmont street and Miss Barbara Elizabeth Mum of Boston, were married in the parlors of Tremont Temple on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Dr. Myers, the pastor. The couple were unattended and will make their home in this town.

FRANK J. WILLS.

Was a Well Known Citizen and Actuary.

Mr. Frank J. Wills passed away early Sunday morning, Oct. 6th, at the King Sanatorium, Arlington, after a comparatively short illness. He was 62 years of age and had made his home in Winchester for the past thirty years, residing with his wife and son, John Burdett Wills, on Wolcott terrace.

He was born in Boston, his parents being Henry and Charlotte (Ball) Wills. For twenty five years he was connected with the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston, later with the Dominion Coal Company as auditor, and the Columbian National Life Insurance Company, as actuary.

Recently he had been interested in certain patents, one of which he had disposed of to the National Cash Register Company of Dayton, Ohio, and at the time of his death had been developing other patents for this company.

Mr. Wills was a musician of considerable ability and was the first organist of the Church of the Epiphany, which position he occupied for a number of years.

Besides his wife and son he leaves one sister, Mrs. S. A. Ballou of Jamaica Plain, and a brother, Mr. William H. Wills of New York.

The funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock from the Church of the Epiphany, Rev. John W. Suter, assisted by Rev. Murray W. Dewart, officiating. The pall bearers were Messrs. Francis E. Getty, George Neiley, William D. Richards, Joshua Phippen, J. Herbert Dwinell and Francis H. Bacon of Boston. The burial was at Cambridge cemetery.

THE MISSIONARY TEA.

The Annual October tea of the Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church was observed on Tuesday evening. The autumn leaf decorations and unique arrangement of the daintily spread tables lighted with shaded candles developed the vestry into a veritable picture. The large number present were gratified with a delicious tea. The after dinner address by Rev. Maurice A. Levy of Newton Centre will remain a permanent inspiration. His theme, "The Redemptive Church," was unfolded on broad outlines showing the missionary enterprise to be the normal execution of Christian will and purpose. He further impressed the truth that the ideal church is redemptive in spirit and effort as much in the immediate community at home as in the distant fields abroad. The program concluded most impressively with the song "Tell Me the Story of Jesus" sung by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hodge.

SECOND CONG. CHURCH NOTES.

Deacon Richard Taylor was elected as delegate to the council called by the Linden Church of Malden to install a new pastor, October 15.

It was highly praised and it was thought desirable to have it repeated. It is hoped that a large number of mothers may attend.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

Walt Whitman used to enjoy nothing so much as loafing about the streets, watching people and "inviting his soul."
A leading Winchester citizen gives The Spectator to understand that he finds relief from business cares and genuine pleasure in an occasional walk about town and looking in the store windows.
Moral: Real satisfaction is to be found in simple pleasures.

A thinking gentleman gives The Spectator food for reflection when he asserts that he has no patience with parents of young husbands who encourage them to leave brides by giving them shelter under the parental roof, when the first struggle or squabble comes. "It makes molly coddles of them," he says, and he further moralizes that they should be "kicked into action and made to hustle for a living." The gentleman is not far wrong. Parents today are rather indulgent with sons and daughters who marry when they are unitted mentally and financially to assume the responsibility of finding a home. Parents can help them to tide over days of adversity, but The Spectator agrees that it is a serious mistake to separate couples and encourage either the one or the other to become dependent upon the parental roof for refuge.

Sometime ago The Spectator recommended moving pictures in the public schools. Of course they would in the main be educational. Pictures of foreign countries and of animal life would be shown the pupils and would serve as lectures on geography and in natural history, and there would be humorous pictures, The Spectator maintaining that laughter is wholesome. In addition to these there would be films upon heavier themes for the older pupils. After each exhibition the pupils would be asked to write an account of what they had seen, thus stirring their thoughts and broadening their views. Two objects would be gained by such an innovation. Not only is it believed that moving pictures have a large educational value, but it is argued that if the children are afforded the entertainment in their schools there will be less patronage by them of the regular moving picture houses, and thus they will get their entertainment in this line under considerably improved auspices, where there is abundant censorship over what they see and where the pictures may be led to do them good rather than harm.

While making repairs in an old house on the outskirts of the town, a carpenter found behind a mopboard a number of two dollar bank notes which had been delicately woven into a nest by rodents. The bank notes were of a very old design.
Pieces of a ten dollar bill were also found. The Spectator is informed.

The Spectator frequently wonders if it doesn't jar the average person to have the man behind him in a railroad train see saw the back of his neck with his newspaper. It jars The Spectator mightily. Why is it that some men insist upon reading their papers so that the entire sheet will be upheld, the top thereof rasping the neck of the passenger in front? Yet a lot of newspaper readers on the train do this.

Most every man and woman here in Winchester remembers the shoes which squeaked when new. A few years ago, when an individual wore shoes with soles as thick as those worn today, the squeak for the first few weeks was agonizing.
One good strong pair of boy's new shoes could put a school room out of business.
"What became of the squeak?" The Spectator asked a shoeman the other day. "The soles of most shoes are made of two pieces of heavy leather," he replied. "Manufacturers learned that by putting a piece of canvas, or a layer of some sort between these pieces, the squeak would be eliminated. They did this and that is why shoes don't squeak now."

A collector for a well known monthly magazine told The Spectator the other day that barely two per cent of all those he has to visit each month are delinquent in their payments. "It is rather surprising," he said, "to find only about two people out of fifty who do their level best to avoid the collector. I don't mean to say that forty out of fifty pay every month. I generally find some one who doesn't happen to have the money on hand, or who is a bit short at that particular time. I've been short of money myself and can appreciate such a situation. But as a general thing when I call upon them again they have the amount to pay for the two months. I do not object to this class, it is to the few who do their best to get away from seeing you when you call. They're the two out of fifty."

The Spectator.

On Sunday afternoon at 1.20 a telephone alarm called the auto chemical to the residence on Chestnut street occupied by Miss Grace Leadbetter, formerly occupied by Mr. Harry Wellington. A back draft down the chimney forced the smoke from burning paper through the house, causing the inmates to fear that it was on fire. While the chemical was at this alarm box 44 was rung in for a burning barn on Loring avenue owned by Mrs. Sarah Horn.
The roof and side was burned. This fire was quickly extinguished by the department with small damage.

collided at the corner of Mt. Vernon and travelling at right angles, the runabout attempting to pass ahead of the touring circle to avoid being hit squarely, and as it was the cars came together with considerable force. As they were both then travelling in the same direction neither was overturned, although the smaller came very near it. Mud guards and running boards were slightly bent on both cars.

KILLED BY AUTO.

Boy Was Run Over on Main Street
Saturday.

Joseph Donahue, the eight year old son of Mr. Joseph M. Donahue, proprietor of the Central Hardware store, was run over on Saturday morning by a big Packard touring car and so badly injured that he died within a short time.

The accident happened on Main street next to the Middlesex County National Bank, where the Winchester Garage has an entrance. The heavy touring car was being backed into the garage by Walter Gurney, 20 years old, of Hemingway street. The Donahue boy was riding a bicycle toward the parkway.

Exactly how the accident occurred is told in various ways, but it appears that the boy attempted to ride in back of the moving auto, which struck him, knocking him from his wheel, and running over both his body and the bicycle. The heavy auto, weighing nearly two tons, passed across the boys body from his thigh to his shoulder.

At first it was not thought he was hurt badly. Only the rear wheel passed over him, as the car was travelling slowly, and the lad crawled out between the front and back wheels and got up. Bystanders ran to him and carried him to the garage office and telephoned for physicians.

Dr. Gale responded immediately and took him to the Winchester Hospital in his auto, he dying shortly after his arrival of internal hemorrhage. A peculiar feature was that the lad did not cry out at all. Had he shouted when the auto first struck him, it could have been stopped instantly. His only remark was when persons attempted to assist him, saying that he was all right. The first intimation Gurney had of trouble was when the by-standers shouted. It did not appear that Gurney was in any way to blame.

The Donahue boy was a bright little fellow and was in the 4th grade at the Gifford School. His parents reside on Maxwell road and he was a grandson of Mr. Francis J. O'Hara, to whose house the remains were taken following his death.

Chief of Police McIntosh placed Gurney under arrest and he was released on bail of $1000 furnished by his mother, pending a hearing in the Woburn court on Monday.

The funeral of the little lad was held on Monday morning, high mass requiem being solemnized at St. Mary's Church at half past nine. Rev. Nathaniel J.
Merritt, pastor of the church, was celebrant. Rev. Francis E. Rogers, deacon, and Rev. John W. H. Corbett sub-deacon.

The pallbearers were Masters Francis Donovan, Thomas McGinty, James and Jeremiah Dolan, John M. Canby and James Ledwidge. The floral tributes were remarkable for their magnificence and abundance, the casket being completely hidden beneath its burden of flowers. The burial was at St. Paul's Cemetery, Arlington.

W. H. S. NOLES.

The freshman class have elected the following officers: President, Marion Mabbs; Vice President, Orr Clark; Treasurer, Ralph Joslin; Secretary, Margaret Adair.

Francis Locke and Elizabeth Passano constitute the executive committee.

The freshman class colors are blue and gold. Philip LeDuc has been elected captain of the 1912 soccer team.

Philip Wate has been elected treasurer of the class of 1914.

The seniors and sophomores played a scoreless game of soccer last Thursday afternoon, although the seniors played the better game, keeping the ball in the sophomores territory most of the time.

The boys' A. A. have purchased a tackling dummy for the use of the football team. One has been needed for a number of years and it is a great benefit to the football squad.

The seniors have elected Franklin
Lane captain of the class soccer team.

CIVIC LEAGUE MEETING.

A meeting was held in Assembly Hall at the High School on Sunday afternoon by the Social Service Committee of the Unitarian Church, being under the auspices of the North American Civic League. This was the first of a series of similar civic meetings, which are to be held in town, with the primary idea of starting a night school for the Italian residents.

The attendance on Sunday was such as to give considerable gratification to the promoters of the movement, about 200 persons being present.

Mr. Francis Mabbs of Boston, social worker among the Italians, was the speaker, and he gave a talk on civic matters of much interest.

Songs were rendered by Miss Dorothy Temple and Miss Annette Symmes, and vocal selections were given by Miss Mabel Wagoner. Mrs. George H.
Lockman was accompanist. The musical program was of a high order, and those present were treated to a well selected group of selections, rendered by some of the town's most able younger artists.

Another meeting is to be held in the same place this coming Sunday.

REDUCED RATES IN SAVINGS BANK LIFE INSURANCE.

The State Actuary of Savings Bank Life Insurance announces a reduction in the rates of the straight life and 20-payment life policies for $500 to take effect November 1st, 1912.

This reduction was made only after consultation with leading New York actuaries and it was unanimously agreed that the reduction could and should be made.

The new rates for the straight life and 20-payment life policies take effect November 1st, 1912,—the beginning of the fiscal year of the Savings Insurance Banks and the change is to be retroactive. All premiums after November 1st, not only on new policies but also on policies already issued, will be on the basis of the reduced rates.

The amount of the reduction varies at different ages, but on a straight life policy for $500 at age 50 the reduction amounts to $1.88; on the 20-payment life policy for $500 at the same age the reduction amounts to $1.96.

The premiums on the 20-year endowment policies issued by the Savings Banks are already much lower than those of other companies and this reduction on the straight life and 20-payment life policies also makes these policies considerably lower. These rates prove beyond question that Savings Bank Life Insurance is the least expensive insurance obtainable in Massachusetts.

DEATH OF A FORMER RESIDENT

Wednesday, Sept. 25, Oliver R.
Clark oldest son of Oliver R. and Julia
A. (Cutler) Clark died at his home in Pomona, Cal. Two days previous he celebrated his birthday, being sixty-five years old; had a family dinner; went for a drive; and seemed as well as he did for some weeks. On Wednesday, as was his custom, he lay down for a nap about eleven o'clock, two hours later, when his wife called him for lunch, he did not answer, and she found that having fallen asleep on earth, he awoke in Heaven, free from pain for the first time in 48 years. As many of the older residents of Winchester will remember, he was a great sufferer from lameness since he was seventeen years old. He leaves a widow, a son and his wife, and a granddaughter, all living in Pomona.
Mrs. A. S. Hall is an aunt.

REV. D. A. NEWTON'S
FATHER IS DEAD.

Darius Newton of Westboro died Friday morning at the home of his son, Rev. D. A. Newton, 56 Linden street,
Reading. He was born in Westboro, Mass., March 11, 1856, son of Seth and Joanna (Newton) Newton. For many years he was a prominent boot and shoe manufacturer in central Massachusetts.

He is survived by one son, Rev. D. A.
Newton, pastor of the Congregational Church of Reading, and four grandchildren.

A prayer service was held at 56 Linden street Monday at 11 a. m., and the body was then taken to Westboro for funeral services at his late home.

SINGLE COPIES, FIVE CENTS.

Rule or ruin is rather a harsh method of bringing about reform. Why not reform within the Republican party, if it needs reforming.

The Registrars of Voters because of the great amount of extra work put upon them by the new primary law and the frequent recounts, are the poorest paid officials in Winchester.

When congress gets through investigating the present coal situation, another summer will have arrived, and the people will have forgot all about the impending winter's struggle to keep warm.

The Senatorial recount in Stoneham last week resulted in a net gain of four votes for Mr. Miller. The vote at the Stoneham primary gave Miller 149 and Fay 132. In the recount Miller gained two and Fay lost two votes.

Repeatedly in recent speeches, Mr. Roosevelt has said, "success of the Democratic party would mean financial disaster to the country." It looks as if the Colonel was contributing greatly in aid of that disaster.

Pres. Taft, so it is announced, will shortly issue an executive order placing all fourth class postmasters in the classified civil service. This order will relieve 36,038 postmasters from the uncertainty of political appointment, but it will prove to be quite a dominating influence in favor of the administration in power.

The Progressive party's candidate for senator, says the Medford Mercury, comes about as far down the alphabet as anyone can and still have his name spellable and pronounceable.

Although Prof. Zieblin's name will certainly come about as far down on the ballot as it is possible for a name to be, yet many voters will find it.

The government printing office, the biggest printery in the world, furnished to Congress during the last session 38,285,000 envelopes. These envelopes bore the name of the Senator or Representative in facsimile and were most largely used in sending out the utterances of the senders in the form of speeches taken from the Congressional Record. [Athol Chronicle.] This is one of the big reasons why the people do not get cheaper postage.

Postmaster General Hitchcock says that the parcels post system will be placed in operation promptly on Jan. 1, next. This and the postal savings banks makes two great extensions of the functions of the postoffice department. The latter is an injury to every town and city where there is a savings bank, while the parcels post will take away a great deal of the business of stores in small towns and cities all over the country and result in great benefit to mail order houses.

Every Republican in the Eighth Congressional District, and also for good and valid reasons, every Progressive, should give their votes to Hon. Frederick W. Dallinger for Congress. Mr. Dallinger is not a reactionary, but a progressive in every sense of the word, as can be verified by his honorable record in the Massachusetts House and Senate. His defeat will accomplish no good results for the Progressives, and will only mean poor recompense for the good services rendered by a faithful legislator.

In a speech before the Democrats of Woburn last week, Humphrey O'Sullivan said that the postal savings banks were ruinous to New England because of the fact that the government used the money deposited in the postal banks in the Panama canal construction, thus taking the money out of circulation in New England.

And there is a good deal of truth in what he says. Savings banks deposits are used for the benefit of home builders, while the postal banks do not assist this class of people.

Will through cars to the Harvard square terminal from Winchester via Arlington prove to be the convenience that so many people anticipate? It will no doubt, prove to be a convenience going to Harvard square, but how about returning. Last Sunday afternoon at Harvard square people were fighting like beasts to get onto Arlington cars, which is a common occurrence and we fear this will be the result if the Winchester cars go through to that point. As now operated, everyone stands a fair chance of boarding a car at Arlington. It may be just the reverse if the extension of the route is carried out, as Cambridge and Arlington passengers will most certainly ride on the cars. Stoneham people have found this out to their annoyance in the through Spot Pond route. It will be found impossible to carry only through passengers on the Winchester-Arlington cars.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

The Fortnightly will begin its thirty-second season with a social and tea on Monday, October 14th. There will be a business meeting at 2.30. The club's delegates to the San Francisco convention, Mrs. Nichols and Miss Mabel Ury will give reports of the Biennial. Ruth Humphrey Knight of Dorchester will sing. New members are especially urged to be present at this first meeting.

By invitation of the Concord Woman's Club a president's conference will be held in the Unitarian Meeting House in that town on Thursday, Oct. 17, 1912, at 1.15 p. m. and 2.15 p. m. The morning session will be devoted to an open forum for the discussion of questions affecting the welfare of club and federation and reports.

It will be a box luncheon, although there are restaurants convenient if preferred. Tea and coffee will be served by the hostess club. All club members are welcome at the afternoon session.

By invitation of the Cosmos Club of Wakefield the art department of the Federation will hold a sectional art conference in Flinley Hall, Main street, Wakefield, on Friday, Oct. 18, at two o'clock. The speakers will be Theodore M. Dillaway, director of drawing and manual training in the public schools of Boston, who will speak on "The Function of Art Instruction in the Development of the Child;" Miss Amy Butterfield, supervisor of drawing in public schools of Wakefield, on "Forming the Taste of the Child;" Mrs. Fernand J. Rousseau, director of manual training in the public schools of Wakefield, who will speak on "Manual Training;" Miss Helen A. Whittier on "The Arts and Crafts of the Fine Arts;" Mrs. Cyrus E. Dallin of Arlington Heights, whose subject will be "Some Present Day Aspects of Sculpture in America;" and Miss Sarah A. Drew, who will speak on "The Appreciation of Art." This conference too is open to all club members.

ST. JAMES THEATRE.

Immediately following the production of "The Dawn of Tomorrow" Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's beautiful play which is now being presented at the St. James Theatre, Huntington and Massachusetts avenues, Boston, Mr. M. H. Gulesian, the proprietor and manager will present for the first time on any stage, a play by Richard Madden of New York, entitled "On The Level." When Mr. Gulesian built the St. James Theatre, he announced that he would not only give the best standard plays, and the latest New York successes, but that he would also occasionally present new plays for the first time on any stage provided any plays worthy of presentation were submitted to him.

The play is replete with scenes that are both touching and humorous. Attention is called to the fact that matinees are given at the St. James on Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, and that prices for matinees range from 15c to 50c. Evening prices are from 15c to 75c.

HATCH—MAYBURY.

Mr. Ernest Winthrop Hatch, assistant postmaster at the Winchester office, and Miss Anna Talbot Maybury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas Maybury of Mattapan, were united in marriage at the Church of the Holy Spirit, Mattapan, on Monday forenoon by Rev. Allan M. Lean Taylor rector of the church.

The ceremony was private and witnessed only by immediate relatives of the couple.

They were unattended. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served the party at the home of the bride's parents, No. 138 West Selden street.

Mr. Arthur E. Sanford of Dorchester and Mr. William P. Maybury brother of the bride, were the ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Hatch will be at home to their friends after January first at No. 25 Winthrop street, this town.

Apply now for your shares in the new series in the Winchester Co-operative Bank.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

Harris & Selwyn will present for a limited engagement, at the Hollis Street Theatre for two weeks, starting October 14 "Coming Home to Roost," a new play of American life by Edgar Selwyn, author of "The Country Boy."

The play is built along comedy lines, and deals with Martin Boldt a multi-millionaire, who has, with all his fortune and success, found one thing lacking to make his life a contented one. His wife, who in the beginning of their married life had been a help-mate in all that the word implies, has, by reason of her husband's rapid progress, been left to her own resources, and denied the active participation in his affairs to which she had become accustomed. In consequence, she becomes inactive, thereby developing neurasthenia.

How the millionaire loses his fortune; how his wife enters into an active interest in her husband's affairs, and helps him to regain it, which secures for her the physical and mental benefit desired by him—furnish the many novel situations with which the play abounds.

The play has been staged under the personal direction of the author, and the company includes such well known players as William Courtleigh, Grace Elliston, Phyllis Bostwick, William Sampson, George Backus, Frank Monroe, Elsa Beroldi, Felix Krensh and Otto Hoffman.

CASILE SQUARE THEATRE.

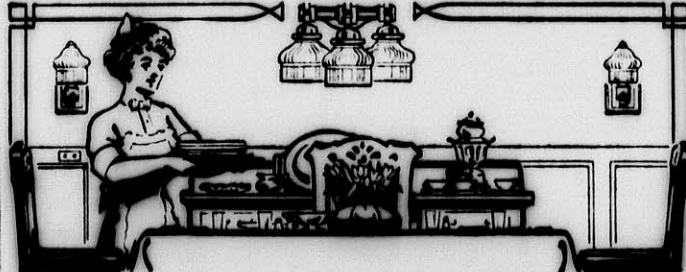

"Such a little Queen," which will be next week's offering at the Casile Square Theatre, is a bright and merry, fantastic comedy. Its action takes place in New York, and its heroine is the dainty Queen of Herzegovina, who has fled from her throne and her home, and is dwelling in a humble flat situated in one of the apartment houses up Harlem way.

There is no problem in "Such a little Queen." It is merely a play, and therefore should satisfy a multitude of theatre-goers. At the Casile Square the title role will be played by Mary Young, and Wilson Melrose will be seen as the royal hero. The other characters will draw upon the complete resources of Mr. Craig's company.

The first Sunday Concert of the season at the Casile Square will be given next Sunday evening.

Sales, $74,400.00

Tolls, $13.50

I had a cargo of grain to sell, and started to call on customers in western Maine and New Hampshire. Being unable to make suitable railroad connections, I decided to telephone some of my customers.

"This experiment proved so satisfactory that I continued selling by telephone.

"In two days I had made 38 toll calls from Portland. Result: sale of 126 cars of grain worth $74,400. The toll charges amounted to $13.50."

This is a bona-fide statement.

Have you looked at the telephone on your desk and ruminated: "I wonder if you couldn't help me in my business?"

Jessie Busley, one of the cleverest and best known comedienne on the legitimate stage, will make her vaudeville debut at B. F. Keith's Theatre next week in a department store comedy entitled, "Miss 318." Miss Busley has the role of "Lizette Mooney," a girl behind the bargain counter in a big department store, and the scene of the sketch is laid in the big store on a bargain day. Bert Levy, the celebrated cartoonist of the New York "Morning Telegraph" returns after a long absence, and among the newcomers are Andy Kelly, the lad from the Emerald Isle; MacDevitt, Kelly and Lucy in an eccentric comedy skit entitled "The Piano Movers"; Combs and Aldwell two singing comedians; the Tom Davis Trio in "Motoring in Midland;" the Five Musical Lassis in a spectacular scenic novelty, Boyle and Brazil, two dandy dancers; and Montamio and Wells, in acrobatic tumblers.

Coming Soon.—Lilly Langtry, (Lady de Bath), in her new suffragette comedy, "For the Cause."

TREMONT TEMPLE.

So great has been the popular demand for more of "The Durbars in Kinema color" which has packed Tremont Temple, Boston, all summer, that the management has decided to run this wonderful series of natural color motion pictures of the crowning of King George and Queen Mary as Emperor and Empress of India until Saturday night (October 19th) when they will be followed by a series of travel presentations in the same wonderful process.

The first production, "Yellowstone National Park" will be on Monday evening, October 21st.

Though the presentation at Tremont Temple is the most popular of the Boston season there are people who ask, "What is Kinemacolor?" It is a reflection of nature—the dream of ages come true.

A WARNING TO PARENTS.

There is going to be an accident happen to one or more of the children who attend the Washington school on Cross street if they don't stop loitering on and off the electric cars on Washington street. The conductors and motor men are authority for this statement, which can be corroborated by passengers on the cars. They not only get onto the cars, but they run along side of them with a hand on the side of the car. If one of the children should stumble, there is the great probability of falling under the car wheels. The children don't realize the danger of their being hurt, and only last Tuesday at noon a motor man had to bring his car to a stop, so imminent was the danger.

Last week two grown boys on bicycles came down Washington street, one of them on the car tracks. The latter boy endeavored to see how long he could keep in front of an approaching car without being hit. But for the motor man quickly stopping his car, the boy would have succeeded in colliding with it.

Parents of the school children should caution them, and if not successful then call the police should interfere that the children for their own good may not be injured.

The Democratic and Progressive candidates for the Sixth Middlesex District have agreed to ask for the use of the school houses for campaign purposes. No reply has been received from the Republican candidate.

Yours very truly,
H. W. Whitcomb,
Cm. Progressive Com.

REPUBLICAN RALLY.

A Republican rally is to be held in the Town Hall on Friday evening, Nov. 1. The speakers will be Hon. Samuel J. Elder and Ex-Gov. John L. Bates. Mr. Lewis Parkhurst will preside and music will be furnished by a brass band.

Clerk's office; also at the SEAK office, or will be mailed by the Clerk of the Selectmen on request.

TO THE CITIZENS OF WINCHESTER.

Rev. G. H. Guttererson is a Staunch Progressive.

A gentleman whom I have known for years, met me on the street last week and noticing the T. R. button on my coat, said, "So you belong to that party?" "Yes," I replied. "You believe in it, do you?" "Certainly I do." Then came a word which I had hardly expected. "Well, don't you think you ought to be pushed out of your position for belonging to such a party?" By "position," he meant the place in which I work. To vary my living, I thought it best to regard his words as uttered in jest, but I am not at all sure that they were. A friend of mine who is a clergyman was told by one of the leading men of his church, on learning that he was a Roosevelt man, that his ascendency in that church was ended; that he had better get out. These incidents indicate the stress of feeling in which we are living. It is so intense that it divides friends of long standing and a man's toes are they of his own household and of his own church. Sad as it may be it is always so when men are stirred by strong convictions and great enthusiasms, as they are today. It was precisely the same at the time of the War of the Revolution, and during the stormy and fatal years which preceded the great Civil War of the sixties. Hard words were said, and blood was shed. Sometimes there was a pull of tar and a bag of feathers within reach, especially to the hated abolitionists who demanded the destruction of chattel slavery. It would be almost impossible that men should differ calmly on great moral questions. There are sure to be strong differences of opinion, but we are reassured by the belief that out of all this strife of opinion we shall approach nearer to what we all are seeking for, namely, truth and justice for all men.

I met an old acquaintance on Washington street today who did not seem to be moved by the anxiety which all good citizens should feel in view of the cowardly, murderous attack upon Theodore Roosevelt, but immediately drew me into a doorway and proceeded to hand out, to use a colloquialism, a collection of abuse for Mr. Roosevelt, and I listened to the same old arraignment which has been heard so many times. "Come back on the Republican party," "Calls men liars," "Personal ambition," "Impudent," etc. It was not much use to offer any arguments on the other side. The invectives flowed on. I once suggests that all men have imperfections and that the greater the character and the more under the hero's glare of public life the more pronounced seem such imperfections, it does not lessen the flow of criticism. I have found that it is no use to argue with such a crowd. They see what they are looking for and are not able, apparently, to take a broad, charitable view of human nature. The Progressive party is not dealing in invective and abuse. It recognizes the excellent qualities in other candidates, and there is no criticism of any one whose convictions lead them in another direction. It is perfectly aware that Mr. Roosevelt is not a perfect man, but it stands most strenuously for the fact that he is a sincere man, and as Monday's tragedy proved, counts not lacking in his duty to his country. The Progressive party invites all without respect of race, creed or previous political affiliation to soberly and candidly consider its platform, to note its marvelous growth within the last few months and if they believe in said platform and can discern in its leader enough of truth and honesty and bravery and unselfishness in spite of his faults, to follow him in a great fight for better conditions and broader opportunities, invites all such to join its ranks.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

On Monday the club began its winter's program. A large number were present, among them several new members. At the business meeting it was voted to increase the membership from 125 to 150. Mrs. Herron read a very interesting report of the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Federation at Templeton last June, which she attended as delegate. Mrs. Nichols and Miss Ury, who were delegates to the Annual at San Francisco, gave delightful accounts of their trip. It was a great pleasure to the audience to hear of the various social and business events of the convention. The soloist of the afternoon, Mrs. Ruth Humphry Knight, has a charming voice of pure lyric quality. Her selections, "Chanson Provencale," "Del Alma," "Maggie Mounth of May" by Newton, and "Greig's beautiful," "Sunshine Song" were wisely chosen, as they gave full scope to her surety of tone and beauty of execution. Miss Edith Sacket gave much pleasure as accompanist. Refreshments were served under the direction of the social committee, and a very pleasant social hour followed. The powers were: Mrs. R. E. Lane, Mrs. William Briggs, Mrs. Fred Hollins, Mrs. A. D. Rogers, Mrs. E. O. Hatch, Mrs. G. W. Dearborn.

The stage was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and hydrangeas by the members of the art committee, who certainly deserve great credit for their artistic taste.

The next meeting will be on October 21st. Prof. John Patton Marshall will lecture on Folk Songs, and Miss Edith Sacket will sing.

The second meeting of the class in Parliamentary Law will be held at the Prince School, Thursday morning, Oct. 24th at 10 a. m. Mrs. Sherman leader.

THE POWER OF BELIEF.

At the Unitarian Church Sunday morning Mr. Metcalf will give the third of his course of sermons on the relation of the mind to health. The subject for the coming Sunday is "The Power of Belief."

Prof. Charles F. A. Carter has resigned from the School Committee. A letter giving notice of his resignation was received by the Selectmen on Monday night.

The School Committee and School Committee will hold a joint convention to appoint a successor to the office on Monday evening next at a special call in the Selectmen's room.

Prof. Carter has served on the School Committee for the past eleven years. He has been a very efficient member, and the town will suffer a distinct loss by his retirement. He is prominently known as head of the History Department at the Mass. Institute of Technology.

MILES REGAN.

Mr. Miles Regan a former well known citizen of this town, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Peter M. Jones of West Medford, on Tuesday. Services were held at St. Raphael's Church at West Medford on Thursday and the remains were interred in Calvary Cemetery, Woburn.

TEAM ON FIRE.

The spectacle of a flaming wagon dragged by a runaway horse aroused residents of Cutter Village on Tuesday afternoon. Fortunately no serious damage was done and the blazing vehicle was not drawn through the main streets.

At first it appeared a mystery how an express wagon could catch on fire and the flames assume such headway as to almost consume it, but the explanation was simple. The wagon was loaded with excelsior which was being taken to the town dump at the rear of the stables on Lake street. The driver, Charles Truax, backed the wagon up to a fire burning there. He had just dumped the first bundle of the excelsior out when the strong wind blew the sparks into the wagon and started the inflammable load on fire.

The wagon was covered, and the fire roared through it, lamed by the high wind. The horse heard the roar of the flames and felt the hot sparks. He started to run, and I soon out distanced Truax. I saw the flaming team and John Mulman ran and stopped the horse just as he was climbing the sharp hill to go out on Main street.

He and Patrick H. Cragghwell aided by other town employees, had to work quickly in cutting the horse loose from the blazing wagon, and in the mean time telephone calls were sent into the fire department. Box 41 was sounded, which quickly brought the apparatus to the scene.

At first it was thought Truax was badly burned. He seemed in a state of collapse and was rushed to the Winchester Hospital in C. A. L. Inc.'s automobile, but examination proved him to be unharmed. The horse was a little scorched by the fire, but not badly.

The wagon was badly burned, the top being entirely consumed and the sides and floor damaged enough to necessitate replacement.

APPOINTED SCHOOL DERMATOLOGIST AT LYNN.

Dr. J. Harper Blaisdell of Lynn, and formerly of this town, has recently been appointed Dermatologist of the Lynn public schools by the Board of Health of that city.

In making this appointment Lynn is one of the first communities in this part of the country to actively recognize that the skin diseases of school children are sufficiently important to demand the expert care of the dermatologist.

Under the usual medical supervision of the schools many children afflicted with disfiguring and mildly contagious skin diseases are absolutely excluded from the school room, and when the parents are neglected, this often results in the child being absent many weeks or even months. With the supervision of a specialist in these cases it will be possible to alleviate the objectionable features and to reduce to a minimum the infectiousness of many diseases, thus enabling the child to be kept in school.

Dr. Blaisdell was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1907 and from the Harvard Medical School in 1911. During his medical course he specialized in diseases of the skin and dermatological pathology. Following graduation he was dermatological house officer at the Massachusetts general hospital. At the conclusion of his service he was appointed graduate assistant in the skin department of that hospital, a position which he now holds.

NORTON—DRAKE.

Miss Edith Drake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Drake of Somerville and Mr. George Edward Norton, formerly the lay reader of the Church of the Epiphany, were united in marriage at All Saints Church, Brookline, Wednesday evening, Rev. John W. Sater officiated and Rev. H. S. Nash of the faculty of the Episcopal theological school in Cambridge assisted.

Mrs. H. T. Fannons of Brookline a sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Margaret Mills, of Winchester was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Virginia Wick of Youngstown, O., Miss Anna F. Skinner of Newark, N. J., Miss Mildred R. Wetherill, of Chester, Pa., and Miss Estelle E. Littlefield of Bradford, Ont. All of the bridesmaids were school mates of Miss Drake at Wellesley.

Dr. H. E. Uter of Westley, R. I., was the best man, and the ushers were Dr. N. S. Simons of Port Republic, Md., Walter Price and Benjamin H. Uter of Westley, R. I., schoolmates of Rev. J. E. Norton at Amherst.

The bride, who is a graduate of Wellesley '08, took a prominent part in dramatics, while attending school, and was a member of the Zeta Alpha sorority. The bridegroom is Amherst '06 and the Episcopal theological school at Cambridge. While at Amherst he was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. The young couple will make their home at 606 Wadman avenue, St. Louis.

PROF. CURRIER RESIGNS.

Prof. Charles F. A. Carter has resigned from the School Committee. A letter giving notice of his resignation was received by the Selectmen on Monday night.

The School Committee and School Committee will hold a joint convention to appoint a successor to the office on Monday evening next at a special call in the Selectmen's room.

Prof. Carter has served on the School Committee for the past eleven years. He has been a very efficient member, and the town will suffer a distinct loss by his retirement. He is prominently known as head of the History Department at the Mass. Institute of Technology.

MISS JANET RICHARD'S TALK.

Tonight Miss Janet Richards of Washington, the well known lecturer on public questions, will give an informal talk at the Winchester Town Hall on her summer's experiences and observation in Europe concerning matters political and otherwise.

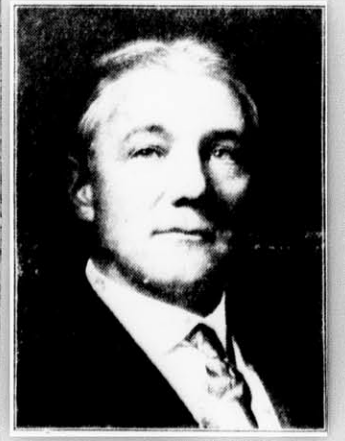

Some of the foreign questions touched upon will be the trouble in the Balkans, the Italian Turkish war, the Irish agitation both for and against Home Rule, and the European attitude towards free trade.

The lecture is given for the benefit of the tuberculosis work of the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association and tickets may be obtained at the door.

CHARLES ZUEBLIN CANDIDATE FOR SENATOR.

Is Known all over United States for his work.

Charles Zueblin is a native of Indiana, was brought up in Philadelphia and was educated in Chicago, New Haven and Leipsic. He married Miss Fiske Zueblin, a native of Waltham, in 1892. He was professor of sociology of the University of Chicago for sixteen years. He spent a number of years in Great Britain and Germany studying municipal and social conditions. He has travelled over 50,000 miles lecturing in America, and is intimately familiar with every large city in the United States and Canada, and many small ones. He is author of American Municipal Progress.

CHARLES ZUEBLIN.

and Decade of Civil Development, and many magazine articles on public questions. Last year he edited the Twentieth Century Magazine which is the Trade Journal of Democracy. Mr. Zueblin is largely responsible for Civic Improvements, for Charter revisions in Grand Rapids, Milwaukee, Chicago, Fort Wayne, Louisville, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Jersey City, Richmond, (Ind.) Portland, Maine; Portland, Ore., and Salem, Mass. Mr. Zueblin has lived for the last five years in Massachusetts because he believes the suburbs of Boston the place where people get more out of life than in any other part of the United States. His special interests now are in social, labor and political reforms, on which he speaks with the authority of twenty years' experience as a publicist and city builder. He is recognized in all matters pertaining to these reforms in the same light as Taylor is in business reforms, as an Efficiency Engineer. Read what they have said about him in the cities to which he has been called to give expert advice.

The following extract from the Fort Wayne Sentinel, June 7, 1912, is only one of many.

"During the present week some thousands of persons heard the inspiring talks of Mr. Charles Zueblin of Boston, who is here preaching a civic revival. He has stirred sluggish, stagnant depths in many minds long occupied solely with self concern. He has revealed the possibilities of an aroused and aggressive public spirit. He has told the people of Fort Wayne what other people have done and how they have done it. He has told them what can be done here and indicated the way to do it."

Miss Zueblin needs some one in the Senate to advocate much needed reforms. Mr. Zueblin is offering himself as a candidate for Senator in the Sixth Middlesex District. He never has sought, and does not now seek political preferment. He accepted the nomination on the Progressive ticket very reluctantly and it is expected, it will mean a great financial sacrifice. But he is willing to put aside personal considerations because he recognizes the great opportunity to do some effective work that will be of lasting benefit to the whole people. It is up to you, Mr. Voter, to make your choice.

Zueblin, the expert.

Any one who has voted against every progressive measure presented in the House for the past two years.

Young men who have no public record. Think this clear through. Mr. Voter.

MRS. WADSWORTH ENTER-TAINED THE OWLS CLUB.

On Wednesday of this week Winchester was again invaded by a company of ladies from Chelsea. The Owls were entertained by Mrs. Walter Wadsworth at her new home on Lawrence street.

This meeting was unusual in some respects for Mrs. Edna Wadsworth Moody of New York was one of the guests, bringing with her an atmosphere of the great outside world which stirred the interest of the club deeply. The political discussion begun at the luncheon table resulted later in an expression of opinion with reasons, some serious, others amusing, by each member of the club in response to the roll call. (The secretary kept count, and it was discovered that those present would have given, had they been required to vote, sixteen ballots for Tatt, eleven for Roosevelt, and one for Wilson.) A bright, off hand talk from Mrs. Moody on the labor situation as she meets it, in the attempts at reform in New York City, gave the Owls much to think over.

The report from the Frost Hospital and the Visiting Nurse were most satisfactory. From April 1st to Sept. 20th the following was given: To patients treated 182, maternity 57, surgical 47, medical 278, visits made 1,391.

"The way a man or woman walks means more to a close observer than the walker would admit," says a Winchester gentleman who claims to be an expert in such things. "A good reader of character will pick the man of purpose from the crowd on the street every time. Some may move slowly and others with a rapid stride, but the way they do it is what counts. The swing and bearing give an impression of just what a man does when at work. There is the Winchesterite who walks slowly, but with a sureness of step which tells that he locks every door behind him which ought to be locked."

Every man and woman in Winchester should wear a sunny face. Some of them don't. The Spectator is pained to say. A sunny face has the quality of mercy; it is twice blessed. It blesses its possessor and all who come under its benign influence; it is a daily boon to the Winchesterite who wears it and a constant, ever-flowing benediction to all his friends. Men and women, youth and children, seek the friendship of the sunny-faced. All doors are open to those who smile. All social circles welcome cheerfulness. A sunny face is an open sesame to heart and home. By it burdens are lightened, cares dispelled, sorrow banished, and hope made to reign triumphant where fear, doubt and despondency held high carnival. A little child on the street of a great city, wishing to cross at a point where the surging throng and the passing vehicles made a feat dangerous to the strong and especially to the weak, paused, hesitated, and asked a sunny-faced gentleman to carry her across. It was the sunny-face that won her confidence.

"As a man thinketh in his heart so is he." No person can get away from his own thoughts, try as he may. If you start out with a fine project but take with you the feeling that try as you may, the project is likely to fail, you have already arranged for your failure. Taking that thought with you is taking along a presence who will wield an effective opposition to your plans. The victories that we gain and the defeats that we sustain are all arranged for in the silent hours long before we come to the conflict. We cannot escape the effect of our thoughts. The words that we have spoken have, like birds, flown away from us and are beyond recall. They are in the hearer's power, not our own. And the effect of the thought that we think likewise pass beyond controlling. We may think what we please, but no matter how silent our thought we cannot escape the effect of it. Thoughts are all powerful. The tendency of each thought is either upward or downward. We have the power to choose what we will and to exclude what we will, and it is our choice of thoughts that makes us successful men and women—or failures. Your thoughts of success would carry you to success if you would not let them mingle with those undesirable citizens of the under-thought world, the anti-success belief and fears.

A Winchester store keeper remarked within the hearing of The Spectator recently that it irritated him to see a certain man "sporting" around in an automobile when he owed him a bill for the necessities of life, for which he had made no effort to pay. No wonder. It must take as much gail for a man to act in this way as it does gasoline to run his machine.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION FOR 1913.

The Youth's Companion appeals to every interest of family life, from house-keeping to athletics. It begins with stories of youthful vim and vigor, with articles which disclose the secrets of successful play in the great games, with charming tales of life at the girls' colleges. But The Companion does not surrender these readers when they have entered the more serious paths of life. Mothers will welcome the page for little children and the weekly doctor's article. Fathers will find the important news of the day as it is, and not as it is rumored to be. The entire household will appreciate the sketches which touch gently on common foibles or caricature eccentricity. In short, for less than four cents a week The Companion brings into the home clean entertainment, pure inspiration, fine ideals, increase of knowledge.

Names rarely seen in tables of contents will be found in The Companion's Announcement for 1913, which will be sent upon request—with samples of the paper to those not familiar with it.

Every new subscriber for 1913 will receive free all the issues for the remaining weeks of 1912; also free, The Companion Window Transparency and Calendar for 1913, in rich, translucent colors, the most beautiful of all Companion souvenirs.

INSPIRING ADDRESS

TO W. C. T. U.

Mrs. George H. Hamilton Tells of Convention in Glasgow.

Mrs. George H. Hamilton of this town, with other members of the W. C. T. U., were guests at the home of Mrs. H. E. Dennen, in Waltham, on Oct. 3. Mrs. Hamilton, who is a very able speaker, gave an interesting talk on the eighth world's convention of the W. C. T. U., held in Glasgow, Scotland, and which she attended as a delegate from Massachusetts.

Mrs. Hamilton told of the sessions held during the convention, of the distinguished people who entertained the delegates, and spoke at length of the work being done all over the world for the cause of temperance. There were in all 415 delegates from different countries, and each delegate represented one thousand women at home, earnestly working for the uplift of their fellow men and women.

The twenty-six members of the executive council represented every nation in the world. Mrs. Lillian Stevens, of Portland, Me., the vice president of the world's W. C. T. U., and national president, presided over the meetings of the convention, Lady Carlisle, who is the president, lacking the strength to attend to all the duties involved. She attended several of the meetings, however, and met the delegates.

In speaking of Mrs. Stevens' ability as a presiding officer, the speaker said: "The mayor of the city, who attended one of the meetings, asked me if we had any other women in America like her." Continuing, the speaker said: "From all over the world, India, Corea, Madagascar, Australia, Syria, Continental Europe, Great Britain and the United States and Canada, come delegates, telling of the work being done. The delegate from India took every occasion to appeal to the English people not to send intoxicating liquors to her country. 'For one missionary, gallons of liquor are brought up our rivers by your ships,' she said. The delegate from New Zealand spoke of the good conditions existing in her land, and said that much of it was due to the woman's vote. She said: 'If you ask our men they will tell you that the fears which they had felt before the women had the vote have proved groundless. The women were not socialistic, they respected property rights and always stood by the home. Until women have the vote in every land no great progress can be made in establishing temperance.' One of the principal speakers at this convention advanced the idea that the W. C. T. U. must not always look on the material side of the work, but also upon the spiritual side."

The Mayor of Glasgow welcomed the delegates to the convention and spoke of the impression which the large gathering made upon him. It was explained to him that the delegates each represented over one thousand members at home.

One of the principal speakers at the convention was Mrs. Armour of Georgia, U. S. A. Her speech was most interesting and inspiring. In speaking of it the next day the papers said it was "the inspiration of the delegates and the despair of the reporters." In speaking of the work in the United States the presiding officer of the convention reported that during the past three years there had been a gain of 62,000 members. She also spoke of the pleasure she felt that the prohibition law had not been changed in Maine, for, no matter what far away land a delegate represented, each and all had heard of this law, and one who had made a study of the working of this law said: "In Maine you find as a result, almost no child labor, the father is in the mill, the mother in the home, and the child in the school." He contrasted this state of affairs with the mill towns of England.

The delegate from Canada hoped that some day the women of her land might help the cause in a silent, womanly way by the use of the ballot.

On the closing day of the convention the presiding officer announced that eighty members would speak. This seemed incredible, but was accomplished, each delegate speaking two or three minutes as her name was called. Mrs. Stevens in addressing the gentlemen in the gathering said: "It shows that women cannot only speak, but also know how to stop."

The convention closed by the singing of 'Will ye no come back again?' by the hostesses and the song 'We'll Come Back Again' by the delegates, and the national hymns of the countries, all of which served to show that the people of this world are all one great family.

Mrs. Hamilton received a rising vote of thanks from the ladies present, and a dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Dennen, the hostess of the afternoon.

If you are particularly about your hair, please, and give us your order, and let us tell it for you. We do shampooing and manicuring.

GIRL CHANGED HER MIND.

Patrolman Herbert Cahill of Middlesex Falls Station of the Metropolitan Park Police, while riding his bicycle along Mystic Valley Parkway by Bacon's Pond on last Friday morning, saw a young woman whose wet shoes and skirt indicated that she had been in the pond.

Questioned by him, she admitted that she had attempted suicide by drowning, but had changed her mind and come out of the water.

She said that she was a Miss Tabor, 16 years old, and that she lived on the other side of the town. She said she had come to Winchester about 9 A. and spent some time with her sister, a domestic on the west side of the town.

SINGLE COPIES, FIVE CENTS.

In view of the fact that the proposed new Metropolitan sewer is to parallel the two existing sewers—so far as has been observed by the borings now going on—it appears a waste of money and time to go over the whole route with a gang of men and take new borings. Will such data show any change over the record of the two previous sewers? It appears that when the new sewer is completed it will lay as close to the present sewers as is consistent with safety.

Mr. Baxter of Medford, an original Progressive and a leading Roosevelt man in this state, says about the Bull Moose party: "I have carefully followed the action of members of the so-called third party, and I am convinced that they are not working for principles, but that they are working merely to destroy the Republican party in this State. They are supporting a great many men without any records whatsoever against Republicans, whose records in behalf of Progressive principles are splendid."

MIXED TOURNAMENT IN SPRING.

A largely attended special meeting of the Calumet Club was held at the club house on Tuesday evening to decide whether the ladies of the members should have their customary Tuesday evenings at the club this winter.

Owing to the unusually large number of teams entered in the winter bowling tournament at the club this year the bowling committee found considerable difficulty in arranging the schedule so as to provide the usual Tuesday night bowling for the ladies. The tournament would be carried some 33 days further into the spring, and would end the latter part of April instead of early in February.

A number of members felt that the usual Tuesday evenings for the ladies should continue even at the expense of a long tournament. This, however, lengthened the matches from one each week to one every three weeks.

The matter was thoroughly discussed by the meeting, and while the sentiment was wholly in favor of the ladies using the club under normal conditions, it was felt that the bowling tournament for the gentlemen, which is the most important of the winter's recreations, would necessitate omitting the usual Tuesday ladies nights.

The following vote was unanimously passed: "That it is the sense of the meeting that the use of the club house by the ladies be continued during the winter season to the usual monthly ladies' night and to such afternoon as the directors may deem expedient."

It is very probable that the ladies will be invited to participate in a bowling tournament of their own, and Judge George S. Littlefield in the meeting offered to donate two prizes for such a tournament. This would be run off on afternoons.

The usual mixed tournament for the ladies and gentlemen will probably be held as in former years, commencing at the close of the winter tournament.

CORRECTION.

EDITOR OF THE STAR: I noticed in your last week's issue an error in the death notice of Mr. Edward Kelley as being a member of the Foresters of America. The deceased was a member of local 465, Town Employees Union, and had been employed on the sewer department a number of years. The employees of the sewer department and members of local 465 attended the funeral services and escorted the body to the depot.

BRISTLES WITH MISTATEMENTS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

May I request the courtesy of your columns for the following excerpts from the "Woman's Journal" of October 5th, 1912? They refer to an article in the current number of the Ladies' Home Journal which is one of a series of letters purporting to be from a son to his mother. It is well known that one of the most important duties of a mother is to teach her child to be truthful, this poor woman has evidently failed lamentably in this respect, as her son's letter entitled "What is the Truth About Woman Suffrage?" bristles with mistatements. It is of course impossible to take up the entire issue of your paper which would be necessary to refute every statement in detail, but if we bear in mind to start with that all are false and pick out only the most glaring falsehoods as samples here, it will answer our purpose.

The "Woman's Journal," which is the official organ of the National Woman Suffrage Association, states Mr. Bok's magazine says "we find a worse inequality between the pay of male and female teachers in Wyoming, a banner suffrage state, than in any other State in the Union, the women are getting an average of $53.66 a month and the men $55.26, or more than half as much again." Let anyone glance over the Report of the U. S. Commissioner of Education, published in 1909 at Washington, D. C. On Page 612 a table is given of teacher's wages in different states. It gives the average pay of teachers in Massachusetts as $155.95 for men and $59.54 for women, etc., etc.—a whole string of States where the inequality of the average pay is far greater proportionally than in Wyoming. How can any magazine with a reputation to lose commit itself to so monstrous a misstatement in regard to a plain matter of fact when the disproof of its rash assertion lies open to everyone in the government's official documents?

The question of average pay is wholly irrelevant in this connection. It is only introduced like a red herring drawn across the trail, to divert attention from the real issue. No organization of teachers has ever made a demand that the average pay of men and women teachers should be the same. What they do claim is that women should receive equal pay with men when they hold positions involving the same amount of work and responsibility. This is the case in the suffrage states in Wyoming and Utah by law, (Revised Statutes of Wyoming Section 614, Revised Statutes of Utah, section 1853; and in the others by custom. In those states as elsewhere the majority of the higher positions are held by men. This is a condition of things that will long outlast women's disfranchisement. But every post is open to women, even the highest, that of State Superintendent of Public Instruction and when the responsibility is the same the pay is the same. Every body knows how far that is from being the case in the United States at large. Again this writer says: "Laws forbidding night work for women have been passed in sixteen states. They have been passed in three states only." This is an exaggeration of 500 per cent. That particular falsehood which has been widely circulated by the anti-suffrage associations was fully refuted in two pamphlets, one by Mrs. Florence Kelley and the Misses Goldmark, the other by Miss Edith Abbott and Dr. Sophonisba Breckinridge. All of them authorities on women's work. They also dissected the assertion that "as to laws affecting the health and general well being of working women the non-suffrage states are far ahead of the suffrage states." The only two states which have passed general eight hour laws for women are suffrage states. The author of this article in the Ladies' Home Journal has simply swallowed all of Mrs. Bronson's misstatements whole and has never taken the trouble to read the authoritative contradictions of them.

I shall take up at an early date the absolute falsity of the statements in the Ladies' Home Journal about woman suffrage and the liquor question. Most of the other alleged "facts" are so absurd upon the face of them, that they do not require any answer, but a clear statement of known facts is desirable upon so important a topic as women's attitude on the liquor question. We are told that "an uncontradicted lie is as good as the truth" therefore I propose to see that at least a few of the lies about woman suffrage which I come across are promptly nailed.

Very truly yours,

Elsie Wullop, President Winchester Equal Suffrage League.

CIVIC MEETING FOR ITALIANS.

The Civic Meetings for the Italians at the High School have been very successful in the interest they have aroused.

About 300 attended last Sunday when Mr. Francis Mager gave an address on Christopher Columbus.

The musical program consisted of selections on the violin by Mrs. Randall of Cambridge and solos by Mrs. Tufts. There has been expressed in these meetings an enthusiastic wish of over a hundred of these young Italians that they have an opportunity to learn English. As the school committee, though far too able to the movement for night schools has no money to provide them, it will be necessary to call upon the generosity of our patriotic citizens. It is almost unbelievable to those who have not looked into the subject that we should have right here in Winchester a colony of about 1000 people most of whom can not speak our language and have very vague ideas of what America stands for.

COOL STEW.

While passing Columbus Day at Brant Rock, a Winchester and Natick party had the pleasure of enjoying a cool stew, which was found to be in a class by itself for flavor and delicacy. The woman who prepared the stew, Mrs. Barron, is no doubt an adept in over-seeing such a dish, as it did tickle the palate to such an extent that a repetition was demanded. These ladies are quite proficient in getting good bags, in including wild geese. Mrs. Barron conducts a restaurant that is generously patronized by automobilists and sportsmen, because of the excellent cooking.

TOURNAMENT BEGINS.

Winter Bowling at the Calumet Club Opened This Week.

The winter bowling tournament at the Calumet Club opened on Wednesday night, when the first four of the eighteen teams entered in the contest rolled their matches. The tournament this winter will be the largest ever conducted at the club. Last year there were sixteen teams in the winter tournament, an increase of two over the season previous, but the sport is proving so popular this year that the alleys at the club will be taxed to their full capacity to accommodate the matches.

The club will enter its usual teams in the Mystic Valley League, and this will necessitate one open night each week for the league bowling, but with this exception, the alleys will be filled every night.

The majority of the teams entered this season are old and tried organizations, which have battled for honors on the alleys on previous occasions, and the contests will no doubt prove exceptionally interesting.

Ratings have been given the bowlers, based on their actual work in similar tournaments in previous years, making this feature of the tournament very well balanced.

Following is a list of the teams entered in the tournament, schedule of the games, teams, etc.:

Brings The Thrill of Home

"Just arrived this minute, Mary. How are the children? * Good! That relieves my anxiety. I really couldn't stop to take off my hat until I called you. * Me? Oh, we had a splendid trip. I felt a little worried about the baby, now I've heard from you it seems as if I hadn't a care in the world."

Keep in touch with home by telephone. There's a magnetism in the voice that no written word can equal. The cost is a mere trifle when weighed against the satisfaction derived from such a call.

THE ELECTRIC SHOW.

An attraction of the Electric Show that is not only unique in its character and puzzling to the layman, but more than ordinarily interesting for the electrical fraternity itself, is the talking pumpkin; not the common or garden variety thereof, but an invention of an Austrian professor, De Carabellia. The latter, evidently hearing of the Boston Electric Show, through its foreign advertising, wrote to the management and stated that he had worked out a problem along scientific lines that would be, perhaps, interesting to Americans, as it was totally different from anything before attempted.

Professor De Carabellia could have been present Saturday night at the Electric Show, he would have realized how much interested the American people were at the introduction of the talking pumpkin.

A very few words will fully describe it. A little light table and a stand on which are fastened three high tension insulators supporting three glass rods, which in turn support three tension insulators. Upon these rests a fibre plate, on top of which sets the pumpkin with a smile and a tall hat, and that's all there is to it. Even the layman and schoolboy could see the glass rods, ground off, and, knowing glass to be an insulator, could see that the entire stunt was absolutely a wireless proposition.

There is nothing concealed about it; it is all in the open; everybody is invited to ask the pumpkin questions, and the questions are answered. Baseball scores are given; information about the show and the Sons of Jove. When some of the audience says there is a phonograph inside the pumpkin, her next door neighbor wants to know how all these questions are prepared for the phonograph.

The pumpkin will talk especially for the ladies from 10.30 to noon at fifteen minute intervals. In the afternoon and evening, the time will be announced.

PARK THEATRE.

I have been in to see Rose Stahl again in her new play by Charles Klein, called "Maggie Pepper," and this second visit makes positive my conviction that in this play our foremost comedienne has a character which will outlast and outshine her Patricia O'Brien in "The Chorus Lady."

Frank N. Abare, cor. Main and Mt. Vernon streets.

ST. JAMES THEATRE.

The new St. James Theatre, Huntington Avenue and Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, has quickly won the largest following of any theatre in Boston. This is undoubtedly due to the fact that the management are offering the best stock company seen in the Hub since the days of the old Boston Museum and a repertoire of the best plays. There are matinees on Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday at prices ranging from 15 to 50 cents and these matinees are excessively popular with suburban patrons. The evening performances, which began at 8 and in time for suburban patrons to get out-going trains conveniently. This week's play in "On the Level" is gripping play of American life today.

It will be followed by the first stock company presentation in Boston of "The Deep Purple," the best of the plays of the New York underworld.

W. H. S. NOTES.

Mr. Burnham has been elected to coach the High School play which will be given in the spring.

The last of the class soccer games was played Thursday between the freshmen and the sophomores. It resulted in a victory for the freshmen of 1 to 0.

The freshmen class colors are black and gold, not blue and gold as was stated in last week's paper.

The girls' of the High School met Thursday at recess and organized a debating club.

There will be a cross country run between Arlington, Woburn, Winchester, Stoneman and Reading at Winchester, around the first of November. The exact date will be announced later. The first football game will be played with Dedham High School at Dedham Saturday.

A boy's A. A. meeting was held Thursday at recess. The secretary's report for the previous meeting was read and accepted. The treasurer's report for last year was read also. Warren Goddard appointed Francis Getty manager of the hockey team. Wharrey Kohnman was unanimously elected track captain.

There will be a meeting of the Mystic Valley Cross Country League at Stoneman today and the exact date of the cross country run in Winchester will be decided upon.

The first football game between the freshmen and Wadleigh school was played Wednesday and resulted in a victory for the Wadleigh school. Bradley, excellent for the freshmen making goals to ground, can be well handled by the Wadleigh school. The principal cause of the freshmen's defeat was the lack of class spirit when practice was called.

GERVAIS-MORGAN.

The wedding of Miss Nettie Mildred Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Morgan of 761 Main street, and Mr. Ralph Trefle Gervais of Medford, formerly of Westboro, son of Mr. Alexander Gervais, took place on Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. D. Augustine Newton of the Reading Congregational Church officiated.

The residence was decorated with potted plants and autumn foliage, making a very effective adornment to the ceremony. The bride was gown in white tulle de chine, with trimmings of satin, and carried a bridal bouquet of roses.

Mr. Alfred Gervais of Medford, brother of the groom, was best man, and Miss Carrie E. Morgan, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore pink chiffon and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a short reception was held, the ushers being Messrs. Henry and Ernest Morgan, brothers of the bride.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Gervais will make their home at 102 Fellows, Malden.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"The Man of the Hour" will be acted at the Castle Square during the coming week. It is a powerful drama of every day life in a large American city, and its plot centres around certain political complications that mingle with them the romantic atmosphere of love. Its characters are all types of people of the present, and in a succession of vividly realistic scenes is narrated a tale that holds the audience constantly on the quiver of curiosity.

Its engagement at the Castle Square Theatre is for only one week, and it will be acted by the entire strength of John Craig's Company, including Wilson Melrose and Mary Young.

After "The Man of the Hour," on Monday, October 28th, Mr. Craig will present a new and original drama called "Butterfly Baronet," for the first time on any stage.

A letter was received from J. C. McMurray asking for information whether it was the judgment of the board that licenses to run moving picture and vaudeville shows in Winchester be granted; and the clerk was instructed to reply that while there was no application before the board for any such license, the board is of the opinion that there is no public demand for this form of entertainment in the town and should an application for any such purpose be presented to this board it would not be granted, as the establishment of a place of this sort would not be in accord with the sentiment of the town.

Mr. Whitfield Tuck appeared and presented several names for the consideration of the board when it should meet in convention with the school committee to elect a successor to Professor Chas. F. A. Currier.

Marcus B. May and Geo. C. Coit, members of the school committee, appeared, and the meeting organized in convention, Mr. Pond being elected chairman and Mr. Miller, clerk.

A letter was received from Schuyler F. Herron, Superintendent of Schools, conveying a vote of the school committee that they are pleased to note that the town had begun to place concrete walks in the territory tributary to the Chapin school. They hope that this is only the beginning of a general plan and that another year the town may extend the walk on Swanton to Main street, on Washington street to Cross street, and to the Washington School building, and on Salem and Richardson streets to the Rumford School building, that it was obviously of the greatest importance that children should be able to go to school without wetting their feet in weather that is only moderately inclement, that the department was glad to note that these things were being considered and were writing not because they had any desire to urge any change in present plans, but because they wished to express their cordial approval of them. The work referred to by the school department was assigned for consideration with the plans for 1913.

The clerk reported that check had been received from Mrs. Cora M. Thomas, being deposit called for by the selectmen for granolithic sidewalk abutting her premises on Wolcott road, and that all deposits called for by the selectmen on account of sidewalks petitioned for had now been paid.

The board of railroad commissioners filed with the clerk a copy of its order passed October 11, 1912, certifying that the locations for the tracks of the Bay State Street Railway Co. on Church and Main streets, and relocation in Forest street from the present easterly end of the turnout in said street to the Stoneham line, in the town of Winchester, established under the orders of the selectmen of said town dated July 8, 1912, July 15, 1912, September 12, 1912, and September 20, 1912, respectively, copies of which orders, with accompanying plans, are on file in their office, are consistent with the public interests.

A petition was presented by F. C. Alexander, 5 Lakeview road, for permission to occupy sidewalk on Church street during construction of building for the Middlesex County Bank, and it was ordered that the petitioner be permitted to erect a fence over, across and along the sidewalk on front of the lot of the Winchester Trust Co. on Church street and maintain the same until the further order of this board, said fence to be satisfactory to the superintendent of streets in construction and location and to be lighted at each end between sunset and sunrise daily, provided said petitioner shall furnish a bond in the sum of $500 with sureties to save the town harmless from damage through the erection of maintenance of said fence.

A letter was received from the town engineer recommending that the existing incandescent street light on Main street fronting residence of Frank L. Ripley be moved to the next pole southerly and that a new light be placed on pole fronting the residence of Henry M. Shepard, and that on Washington street the light fronting the residence of Charles E. Kendall be moved across the street to a pole fronting the residence of Warren Johnson and a new light installed on the pole on the southerly corner of the short roadway running from Washington to Main street. The recommendations of the engineer were approved and he was instructed to carry them out.

There were no remonstrants and the hearing was adjourned.

On the Hill, White and Arthur street development plan, Mr. Jewett reported that he had conferred with the sewer department who had authorized an expenditure to repair the trenches and he recommended the application of a dressing of clay and rolling the streets and the recommendation was concurred in.

On the petition of the town for relocation of Ridge street a decree was received from the board of county commissioners relocating said street according to description in said decree and ordering that stone bounds be placed to mark the lines, and that on or before January 1, 1914, all walls and fences serving to mark the old lines of said way shall be removed from within the established location and the land included within said lines taken possession of for the purpose of improving said way. At least 16 feet of travelled way shall be rendered smooth and safe for travel. The commissioners allow until May 1, 1913 to remove timber, wood or trees and having considered the question of damages decide that no damages are sustained and none are awarded. A letter was received from the Arlington Gas Light Co. in regard to providing ventilating pipes for their governor pit at the corner of Everett avenue and Sheffield road, and referred to the town engineer.

On the petition of Alfred H. Hildreth and others, dated Oct. 17th, for additional street light on Chestnut street, the town engineer reported that the light was necessary. He further recommended that the poles on the street should be removed from the street line to the regular position, for them and the new light installed to more nearly conform with the spacing which the town is now using in placing its street lights.

The report was accepted and the engineer instructed to order the Edison Co. to install the light and move its poles in accordance with his recommendation.

On the petition of Wm. J. and Wm. H. Stevenson, dated Sept. 30, 1912, for the removal of poles from the southerly side of the northerly end of Hemingway street to the opposite side and for an additional street light in that street, the town engineer recommended that the poles be removed as petitioned for and that one light be installed on a pole at the turn of the street as shown on the tracing submitted. The report was accepted and the town engineer instructed to order the electric light Co. to carry out his suggestions.

On the petition of Dr. Harry S. Parsons it was ordered that the grade of the sidewalk at the corner of Bacon and Central streets be lowered to conform with the grade shown on plan presented by the town engineer, in July.

WILL HOLD CONTROLLING VOTE.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

There seems to be a feeling on the part of some Republicans that the Progressives may play into the hands of the Democrats in the election of the United States Senator. There is not the slightest ground for this feeling, and it is due on the one hand to an under estimation of the strength of the Progressives and on the other hand to the supposition that the Progressives will play the kind of politics which the old parties have made so familiar. The Progressives expect to hold the balance of power in the Massachusetts legislature and to be able to dictate the kind of candidate it not the actual individual who will be sent to the United States Senate. The Progressives have it in their power to defeat Mr. Fitzgerald and under no circumstances would they vote for him.

HARVEST SUNDAY.

The Harvest Festival at the Unitarian Church last Sunday was particularly successful. Metcalf Hall with its decorations of autumn leaves, fruits, vegetables and provisions never looked better.

The response of the society to the request for contributions was most generous. Twenty-five families were made happy by large bags of provisions and in anticipation of donation day at the hospital a large quantity of things which the sick would enjoy were sent there. At the service the minister explained a large number of stereoscopic slides that showed the world harvest and illustrated the solidarity of the race and the universal providence of God.

REPUBLICANS PROGRESSIVES DEMOCRATS

Have you any desire to turn the State Government over to the Boston Democracy?

Governor Foss spent $22,000 of the Commonwealth's funds for a thorough examination of all the state departments by experts, who failed to show that a single dollar had been stolen or wasted.

The expenditures of the Commonwealth are now more than fourteen million dollars ($14,000,000) per annum. This sum looks attractive to the Boston Municipal Financiers, whose methods do not now prevail on Beacon Hill. The Boston Democratic Machine has already chosen its candidate to sit in the Senate of the United States.

Do You Prefer That Candidate To Our Own SAMUEL W. McCALL?

Assume, as we may, that you have sound reasons for differing in your choice for President; assume, as we may, that all the local candidates for state offices are personally honest, for I have nothing derogatory to say of them, it must be granted that the election of any other than the local Republican nominees does not make for a continuance of the policies and traditions of the Massachusetts Legislature, a body which has been without scandal or reproach, and which has led all the states in sound progressive legislation.

Remember that the defeat of a Republican means one step nearer their respective goals for "Martin" and "Fitz."

Think It Over And Vote For WINFIELD F. PRIME For REPRESENTATIVE.

He is not indebted to any machine for his nomination, and will not be instructed by one when he votes.

THE TERRIBLE MEK.

A large and appreciative audience gathered at the home of Mrs. Oren Sanborn to hear the reading of "The Terrible Mek" by Mrs. Helen Weil of Cambridge. Mr. Kennedy's play is especially adapted to dramatic reading, for, as it is the intention of the author that it should be given in the dark the words are every thing and the action nothing.

It is the story of the crucifixion told from a perspective which shows the horrors of war and the terrible cost of the imperialism of Ancient Rome. The application of course is to the imperialism of modern times. The ancient and the modern are fused together by the expedient of making the Roman Centurion talk like an English army officer and the Roman soldier have the dialect of Tommy Atkins. The most questionable part of the drama is the propriety of making Mary the mother of Jesus talk like an ignorant peasant woman.

It hurts the religious susceptibilities of many and is without historic foundation for the family of Jesus was poor but not illiterate. Mrs. Weil's rendition of the drama left nothing to be desired. It was sympathetic and pleasing, natural and effective and none who heard her could fail to feel the lesson Mr. Kennedy is so anxious to teach. That Christianity is peace and War is Barbarism.

THE HELPING HAND COMPANY.

In spite of a fine misting rain, about fifty people bravely sat under dripping umbrellas to watch the little old door play given by the Helping Hand Company, at Carrig Rohane, Mr. Hermann Murphy's estate, last Saturday afternoon.

Because the threatening weather prevented so many friends of the children from coming to the play, it will be repeated on next Saturday, October 26th, at three o'clock at Carrig Rohane, corner Mt. Pleasant street and Highland avenue.

The playlet is one of exciting action and runs no risk of boring its audience with "tebious dialogue." After the play there are some little Greek dances.

The children have written the play and managed the entertainment almost entirely alone. They give the proceeds to social service. Everyone interested in the children and their work is cordially invited.

MISS BLANCHE DADMAN AWARDED $2000.

Miss Blanche Dadman of Somerville, daughter of Leon Dadman, well known amateur theatrical coach, was awarded a verdict of $2,000 by a jury in the third session of the Superior Civil Court, East Cambridge, Judge Lanyon, presiding, this week, in her suit for $5,000 for personal injuries against the Boston Elevated.

Miss Dadman, well known in Winchester having assisted her father in producing several shows here, the most prominent being those given by the Calumet Club.

Cards have been received in Winchester announcing the marriage, at Berkeley, Cal., on Saturday, Oct. 27th, of Mr. Ralph Leighton Dyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Dyer of Grove street, and Miss Fife, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Fife of Berkeley.

PHILOMATEAN SOCIETY.

A Prize Speaking Contest Proves Very Interesting.

The last meeting of the Philomathean Society was held Tuesday evening, October 22, at the High School Library. The occasion was a prize speaking contest in which four of the members entered. The prize was offered by Mr. Francis Getty, a member of the society, and consisted of a handsome stick-pin. The officers of the Girls Debating Club were present. Mr. Coit discussed in an interesting manner the subject of "School Spirit." Mr. Noyes told of "A Fallacy in our Federal Government laws." Mr. Strawbridge spoke on "Synthetic Rubber," and Mr. Rohman discussed to great length the subject of "Aeroplanes."

The judges, Miss Weeks, Miss Burwell, and Mr. Wixom, after lengthy consideration, returned a decision in favor of Mr. Coit. He was presented with the pin, and was called upon for a speech, which he gave.

At the meeting two weeks ago, Mr. Whitfield Tuck of Winchester, gave a most interesting talk on politics. An excellent discussion was presented by Messrs. Swett and Strawbridge on the question: "Resolved, that a college education is advantageous to a business career." Mr. Swett for the affirmative gave a very good discussion of his side. It was well delivered and contained many excellent points. He maintained that training received at college is valuable in after life. Mr. Strawbridge for the negative said that college men have to be trained all over again upon entering business. His discussion was also well prepared and excellently given. The judges, Messrs. Tuck, Thompson, and Delano returned a verdict in favor of Mr. Swett.

WILL VOTE AS CONSTITUENTS DESIRE.

Winchester, Mass., Oct. 24, 1912.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

A great many people have asked me for whom I should vote for United States Senator. I am elected to the Legislature. In answer to that question, I will say that the Progressive party stands for the election of United States Senators by the people, and also that the men elected to the Legislature should be the servants of the people and not their masters. I should consider it my duty to find out the wishes of the voters of this district and vote for the man that the greatest number wanted, and not for the man that I wanted. This can be done easily by sending to each voter a ballot with the names of all the candidates on it and a space left so that each voter could vote for any other person that he wished to, and this ballot could be returned to a committee whose duty it would be to count the ballots and declare who received the greatest number of votes. If I am elected, I promise the voters of this district that I shall adopt some such method as the above to learn their choice at my own expense, and that I shall abide by their decision.

Yours respectfully,
James J. Fitzgerald,
to Oak street,
Winchester, Mass.

"DONATION DAY" OF THE WINCHESTER HOSPITAL.

Monday, October 28th has been designated as "Donation Day" for the benefit of the Winchester Hospital. Our local institution is still in its infancy and must depend upon the good will of our community to make its continued success assured. All Hospitals are charities depending upon endowments or public contributions for support. Their expenses must always exceed their income and are called upon to furnish gratuitous or only partially paid-for treatment.

The hospital is glad to receive contributions of money for the furtherance of its work, but it is also believed that there are a great many people who will be glad to make contributions of provisions, groceries, fruits, canned goods etc.

The hospital will be open on Monday, Oct. 28th from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. when the management would be glad to receive gifts however small of articles or provisions which would be in any way useful. Hospitals the country over, no matter how long established, are dependent upon the public for their support how much greater is the need of the Winchester Hospital which is only just completing the first year of its existence.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

A young lady who came into the STAR office once upon a time to advertise for kitchen help, said, with a sigh and a swing of her dainty gloved hand: "Oh! I do hope we will get one soon. For it does almost break my heart to see mother wash dishes, with her rheumatism, too." She got a girl, too.

A Main street man gives The Spectator to understand that his wife is the most thrifty woman in all Winchester. "Why, sir," said he, "she has made three bed spreads during the last four years and a half; made them herself out of the patterns she collected in her Boston shopping tours during that time."

A pastor recently asserted within hearing of The Spectator that the man who can learn to love tobacco can learn to love anything under heaven. Ladies here in Winchester and elsewhere with tobacco-loving husbands may now live in hopes.

The expression "making your pile," is used to signify getting rich. The reason why so few get their pile is doubtless because there are many more pile drivers than piles.

When a certain friend of The Spectator went home the other night, his wife informed him in a strong whisper that she had caught an awful cold and lost her voice. And would you believe it, that "heathen" friend of The Spectator's said nothing, but snickered behind his hand. And yet, only a few short years ago he thought there was nothing so musical in the world as the voice of his wife.

A Washington street friend of The Spectator muses that the people who are forever searching into the heresies of others must be singularly fortunate in their own surroundings, that they have to go out of their way for trouble wherewith to break the monotony of the peaceful day.

An old lady wearing a pair of green goggles got aboard the train at Winchester depot the other day, and knocked at the car door, and actually waited till it was opened on the inside by a passenger. For consummate politeness, this has no parallel.

The power to whistle is not infrequently a solitary gift, so that the young Winchesterite who whistles cannot be expected to know or do much else.

POLITICAL MEETING.

A meeting was held at the new clubhouse of the Winchester Highlands Athletic Club, last Friday evening, under the auspices of the Highland Baraca Class, of the Second Congregational Church, for the purpose of giving instruction in political affairs. The meeting was open to all and quite a large number attended. It was presided over by the Rev. William Fyling. The three speakers of the evening discussed the principal issues of the present campaign. Mr. John A. Curtin of Brookline represented the Republicans, Mr. Whitfield Tuck of Winchester, the Democrats, and Mr. Joseph E. Rayn of Winchester, the Progressive or Bull Moose Party. Mr. Whitfield Tuck offered a resolution of sympathy to Colonel Roosevelt which was voted to send to him at Oyster Bay. Following the talks, a discussion took place in which many joined.

The following resolution, offered by Mr. W. L. Tuck, was adopted unanimously.

Resolved, that we, assembled at this meeting, with speakers representing President Taft, Ex-President Roosevelt and Governor Wilson, deplore the attempted assassination of Ex-President Roosevelt. That we send him greetings, with the hope that he will soon be restored to his health, to his family and to his friends.

A copy of this to be sent to Theodore Roosevelt, to Oyster Bay, N. Y. Voted unanimously. Rev. William Fyling, Chairman.

A stubborn brush fire at the head of Euclid avenue was responsible for several trips by the fire department to that neighborhood from last Friday to Sunday night. The department was first called Friday afternoon, then Friday night at 12.30, and later on Sunday noon. The fire got into the dry ground, burning underneath the top soil and breaking out after the firemen thought they had extinguished it. At the last trip the hose was connected with a hydrant and the entire place thoroughly soaked.

"HOW DID YOU GET THE BLACK EYE, BILLY?"

Asked a prominent citizen of his best friend recently. "It certainly is a peach."

"Well," said William, mournfully, "you see it was like this. I went down cellar this morning to chop some wood for the kitchen range and get the fire started. It was cold and dark down there and in chopping the wood a piece bounced up and struck me in the eye, and you see the result."

"Ha, ha," laughed the prominent citizen "that is a good one. How a man of your intelligence can stick to old-fashioned methods of building the fire gets me. Don't you know the best way to start the kitchen fire is by using Standard Charcoal Co's Hardwood Charcoal. It is quicker than wood and gives you a hot glowing fire a few seconds after lighting. It requires no kerosene to make it burn."

Standard Charcoal is put up in tight paper bags, and is for sale by good grocers everywhere. One bag contains enough to build five fires.

Excelsior excelsior, coming for all occasions. Phone Win. 100-W. sept.21,adv.

On the invitation of the Educational Department of the State of New York, Superintendent Herman, of the public schools, attended the dedication of the new Educational Building at Albany on Wednesday last. It is building with cost approximately $1,000,000. It is without question the finest building in the world.

There came very near being a bad fire at the big Puffer factory on Swanton street last Saturday morning, when an alarm came in at 2.15 for two car loads of excelsior which were burning on the ground floor at the factory. The excelsior was set by an unknown man who was seen by the watchman, Edward Shea. Entrance was effected at the rear of the factory. Shea discovering the man inside, he chased him out the main entrance, bringing three shots at him during the pursuit. Not daring to leave the burning excelsior, he discontinued the chase and telephoned the alarm to the fire department.

The excelsior was burning briskly when the department arrived, although the automatic sprinklers had kept it down to some extent. Two lines of hose were laid and set together with the chemical streams. It was necessary to remove about a car load of the excelsior before the fire was extinguished. Beyond the loss of the excelsior not much damage was done.

Labor troubles among the Italian workmen at the factory have caused some commotion at the Puffer works during the past few weeks, and it is thought the attempt to burn the factory was due to this disturbance, and that the offender is an aggrieved former employee.

THE HOUSING PROBLEM IN TOWNS.

Beauty Cannot Be Grafted on Rottenness—Sound Planning from the Start Pays.

Almost all well directed efforts to advance our social standards centre around homes, religion, education and play. When these fail, and when accident, incompetence and injustice overtake people, we have to develop philanthropies, settlements, child-helping societies, courts, probation, police and medical charities.

Now as to the home. The house is not all of it, but, as Joseph Lee says: "Although the home is itself invisible, a spiritual, not a material body, its expression has to be concrete, and a condition to the best development of all the rest is the house or physical setting in which it finds itself. The question of the sort of niche that shall exist in the community in which a family can build, is vital to the development of this most fundamental of our institutions."

We are in this country slow in arriving at a proper understanding of the housing problem. As a rule, "our town has no housing problem." Did you ever hear of a mother who waited till her boy was ready for the juvenile court, the hospital, or the insane asylum before she admitted that she had a boy problem? Did you ever see a manufacturer recognize a factory problem only after his building was burned down or ready for the junk heap? No, the mother and the manufacturer both recognize their problems at the very start. They also know that the remedial aspects of the problem are greatly increased by carelessness toward the first part of the work.

Our towns and cities refuse to recognize the real, the constructive problem and even after the damage is done they too commonly introduce palliatives instead of removing the cause. The problem is present when every house is built, when every street is laid out, when every bit of plumbing is set up, when every sewer is laid, and when every water connection is made. It is the problem of making communities.

For many years we have had in Massachusetts a succession of short-lived organizations to improve the appearance of towns. They have died mainly because beauty cannot easily be engrained upon rottenness. People are beginning to see that, in a town in which every house is of good design, there are those elements of art which when combined make for a beautiful community. The town of Bourneville, in England, has no slum district, no ugly section. It is beautiful alike in all its parts. Civic art has never been heard of there as a problem within itself, simply because it has always been looked upon as an inherent part in the development of the community. The people of Bourneville have not had to try to "graft" impossible store canopies, leaves upon store box architecture, upon unpaved streets, and upon neglected back yards.

Bad homes are responsible for a large percentage of the immorality which the churches are trying to cure; they are responsible for a large part of the sickness which the hospitals, dispensaries and nurses are trying to cure, and for much of the poverty the charities are trying to cure. The housing problem, that is, the constructive problem, is one of the biggest items in home making.

The economic aspects of the housing problem are serious. Towns get, as a rule, what they bid for. That is, if force of circumstances brings a large number of people to a town, the quality of these people will depend in large measure on the kind of homes which are offered to them. If the people have to content themselves with abandoned dwellings, outbuildings, and similar interior homes, they will be an inferior type of people, because self-respecting people will not live in such homes. What is the result, therefore, when a town sets up a call for an increase of population on this basis? Industrial flounders begin to come. The newcomers do not increase the taxable values, because they live in interior homes, and living so tend to pull down other taxable values around them. Their arrival, therefore, brings little, or nothing into the town treasury.

On the other hand, the town has to meet the problems of education, police, courts, jails, hospitals, poor relief. The people who are willing to come, into bad homes are the people who keep the perennial institutions busy and who do practically nothing to help maintain any institutions.

But when attractive homes, on well planned streets, are offered, self-respecting people will come, the taxable values of the town will rise and the per capita demand for all the municipal institutions will be decreased.

It is well, too, not to overlook the economic values of the aesthetic and sociological aspects of the problem. The money value of a well planned and a well constructed house is not only a direct result of its quality, but it is also a result of its location. A well planned house, in a good location, is a good investment. It is not enough, either, to develop a good home. It must be maintained in a good condition. This calls for an active, local health authority. Every town must have a good law the efficient enforcement of which will give the town what it needs in the way of houses, and a board of health that will see that houses are always kept clean and sanitary.

Your housing problem in its proper aspects confronts all towns. The community will rise as the quality of its homes rises, and it will go down as the quality of its homes goes down.

Edward T. Hartman,

Secretary Mass. Civic League.

GARRETT—OLIVER.

The largest and most fashionable wedding of the Autumn, and one which had long been anticipated with great interest, took place on Saturday, Oct. 12, in Ottawa, when Miss Anna, daughter of Hon. Frank Oliver, former Minister of the Interior, and Mrs. Oliver, was united in marriage to Mr. Julian Garrett, CE., formerly of Winchester and Boston and now of Edmonton, Alberta, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund H. Garrett of Boston. The ceremony, which took place in St. Andrews Church, was performed by Rev. Dr. W. T. Herridge. The attractive interior of the sacred edifice was thronged with a large assemblage of guests. The floral decorations consisted largely of palms, smilax and white chrysanthemums. The service was a choral one. The choir sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden" as the bride entered, and at the conclusion of the ceremony the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march echoed through the church. The bride was given away by her father and was attended by a number of bridesmaids. She was lovely in her exquisite robes of shimmering ivory charmuse satin, made with a very long train, the bodice and skirt draped with soft white tulle brocaded in velvet with yoke and short sleeves of fine chantilly lace. The drapery was caught in front on the bodice and skirt with large stars of pearls outlined in brilliants and the broadened train draped low down with a large pearl star, where it parted in two long ends. The skirt was draped up over the left instep and caught with large pearl and brilliant stars. Her long tulle veil was most becomingly arranged beneath a wreath of orange blossoms and she wore her bridegroom's gift, a beautiful diamond crescent, and carried a shower of lilies of the valley and Madonna lilies. Mrs. Garrett, mother of the bridegroom, was charmingly gowned in a costume of pearl gray satin, trimmed with rich lace. Her hat was of black plush, with black plumes and she carried lilies of the valley. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, 10 Somerset street, Mrs. Oliver receiving the guests in the drawing room. Rev. Dr. Herridge proposed the health of the bride, to which the bridegroom responded in a witty little speech. One of the many presents was a large and beautiful painting of Amalthea, made in Italy by Mr. Edmund H. Garrett, the father of the bridegroom. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Julian Garrett left for the Adirondacks and Edmonton. Among the many notable guests present were Sir Wilfred and Lady Laurier, Hon. Frank, Mrs. and Miss Colborne, Hon. and Mrs. Rudolph Lemieux, Sir Joseph and Lady Pope, Hon. George Perley and Hon. Mackenzie King.

MISS JANET RICHARD'S TALK

The Small Town Hall was filled to overflowing last Friday evening with a most distinguished and appreciative audience, which had gathered to listen to Miss Janet Richards in her first public talk of the season.

It was a great pleasure to Miss Richards to be among her Winchester friends again and they showed very plainly how glad they were to see her once more on the platform from which she has given them so many interesting talks. As Miss Richards has been away from America all summer, she touched very lightly on home affairs, but her account of European conditions was extremely interesting and illuminating.

Miss Richards' faculty of presenting her subject in a clear and forcible manner is quite remarkable. So much so that in one of her talks it is possible to understand conditions and happenings that it would take many hours of study to grasp, and even then the view would not be so clear and the knowledge as accurate and comprehensive.

But the talk was not all serious. The latter part was enlivened by amusing experiences of the summer's travels, for Miss Richards has a keen sense of humor as all her friends know, and the evening closed in a burst of laughter and applause.

It is a great privilege to Winchester to have this annual talk from Miss Richards and there could certainly be no pleasanter nor more profitable way of securing a goodly sum for the Tuberculosis Work.

SINGLE COPIES, FIVE CENTS.

Cambridge Progressives wanted to make a deal with the Republican City Committee whereby the candidates for the Mass. House be divided between the two parties. This the Republicans refused to agree to.

A new rule was made in Winchester this fall making it a punishable offense to burn the fallen leaves. The results were obvious. It has meant increased expense to the town in carting them away and greatly increased discomfort to all the residents. For two weeks pedestrians have waded knee deep and ladies have soiled their skirts on dirty, broken leaves, holding all the filth of the streets. With the rain of Wednesday night large quantities of the leaves blocked the street drains, causing the water to run across the streets, down the sidewalks, and form deep puddles, to the discomfort of all who were obliged to be out of doors. The new drains did well in performing their work, but the conditions were certainly worse than on any previous fall for many years. Now after two weeks of this, why not go back to former customs and burn the leaves. The fire department appears to have had no decrease in its calls, the town is probably paying five or six times more in carting leaves away than it did in burning them, and the result is decidedly unsatisfactory. It seems that this rule is "penny wise and pound foolish" with a vengeance. Let us have the sidewalks clear so that we can walk on them, the new street drains free to take care of the water they were constructed to receive, and spend the money it is costing to cart away the leaves that are causing all this for better purposes.

WINTER BOWLING TOURNAMENT.

With the first round in the winter bowling tournament at the Calumet Club completed this week, some very good scores have been made. Both the teams as a whole and the bowlers individually have rolled remarkably high for the opening of the season. Some good figures have been set in the individual work by Dr. H. J. Olmsted, his single of 127, topped by a total of 337, will be hard to beat. The Tigers, as usual, have the best team single and total.

WEAR HUB RUBBERS

This Winter

AGAINST LEGISLATIVE CONSPIRACY.

To the Editor of The Herald: I was most interested in your editorial in the Herald of Oct. 16 and 17 on the Progressive party situation. To be frank, I have favored the election of Col. Roosevelt, but I will never be a party to any conspiracy (for such I consider it) to deliver the state of Massachusetts into the hands of the Democratic party and send Mayor Fitzgerald to the United States Senate. I would consider this most fatal to our fair state. Some weeks ago Mr. Hale addressed a letter to Gov. Wilson, while he was in Boston, asking him "if he would state if he was in favor of turning over Massachusetts to Mayor Fitzgerald and Martin Lomasney, whom the Good Government Association of this section had been fighting against for years." In return, I would like to ask Mr. Hale if he is not a party to just such a scheme to deliver Massachusetts to this body of men, whom he and others have been fighting for years? Candidate Bird has already declared himself in this direction.

To the fair-minded and honest voter who wants to keep clean the fair record of Massachusetts, be he Republican or Democrat, it is his duty—his imperative duty—to vote for the Republican candidates for the House and Senate this fall. Do not make a mistake that will be regretted a year or two hence. The United States Senator is elected for six years. Once chosen, he cannot be removed until his term expires. Do not follow the advice of men like Hale, Nason, Smith, Hill and Bird, whose only desire "is to smash the Republican party," irrespective of what follows. This means much to the laboring man, who depends on good business the next four years.

DEDHAM O. WINCHESTER O.

The High School began its football season last Saturday at Dedham. The game was well worth the trip to witness and the Winchester boys did exceedingly well as Dedham has been playing for several weeks. Dedham kicked off to Winchester in the first period and on a forward pass and line plunges Winchester brought the ball to Dedham's five yard line. Here the ball was tumbled and Dedham secured it and kicked to the center of field. This was the nearest Winchester came to scoring.

The ball was in the middle of the field during the second and third periods and no goal was threatened. Dedham took a decided brace in the fourth period and earned the ball to Winchester's five yard line where they fumbled. Winchester then kicked the ball out of their territory and the game ended. Proctor, Dover, Flinn, Tuttle, Johnson and Woods excelled for Winchester while Scarry, Clapp and Schulz were the stars for Dedham. The Dedham game has given the Winchester boys confidence in themselves for the Revere game Saturday, and the game promises to be a fast one. Everyone should not fail to see it.

Summary.

Score—Dedham 10, Winchester 0. Referee, Farrington; Umpire, Carlisle; Line men, Sukowaske and D. Tuttle; Time keepers, Benson and Robinson. Time, 2 ten and 2 eight minute periods.

WHY EDISON IS A PROGRESSIVE.

Thomas A. Edison, the Inventor and Clear-headed Thinker, Said, Among Other Things, in an interview the Other Day:

"Of course I'm a Progressive, because I'm young at sixty-five—that is the first reason—and this is a young man's movement. There are a lot of people who die in the head after they're fifty. They're the ones who get shocked if you propose anything that wasn't going when they were boys. It's the way the world goes—the young push ahead and do things, and the old stand back. I hope I'll always be with the young."

"I haven't talked much about one of my main reasons," he said. "That's Theodore himself. I've been putting a factory to rights, a factory that's gone wasteful and behind the times, we try to learn the up-to-date method of setting it right, and then we get the best manager we can find. And that's Roosevelt. We never needed a big leader more. We want a strong, forceful man with ideas. He's all that. He's proved it. Most people don't consider, I guess, what a situation a President finds in the White House. All the crooks who've grown up in this curious period are after him to fool him one way or another. They fooled him badly. They even fooled Teddy now and then—but not a second time. Do you know one thing I like about Roosevelt personally? He doesn't care what do you call it?—preserve the amenities!"

"Has it ever occurred to you how hard those other people have worked to get something on Roosevelt, and how he comes out right every time? Again and again they've laughed in their sleeves and said, 'We've caught him now'—and the next thing Roosevelt has beaten them to a pulp. They don't get anything because there's nothing to get. It's like a man on the witness stand. If he's telling the truth, the best lawyer in the world can't do anything with him. But let him tell one little lie, and they raise the chickens with him."

FROM A DEMOCRATIC PAPER.

Some of the Boston newspapers affect to believe that the nomination and election of John F. Fitzgerald as United States Senator would be revolutionary and discreditable. They know better. They don't desire to see him nominated by the Democrats, but the chances are that he will be. If nominated, he will be elected, for the next General Court will be controlled by the Democracy.

As Senator in Washington he could be relied upon to represent the people, rather than the corporations. It is time for Massachusetts to have that kind of representation.—Charlestown Enterprise. Oct. 19, 1912.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

It will be a genuine first night at the Castle Square on Monday, for "Butterfly Baronet" will then receive its first presentation in Boston, and its first performance before a metropolitan audience. This new play is the work of Robert B. Keith Snow, a Boston author, and some of its incidents and characters are taken from a novel by Mary Cholmondeley entitled "Sir Charles Darnley." Into it, however, he has put much that is original, especially in the way of brilliant and sparkling dialogue.

There will be an especially interesting in the production of "Butterfly Baronet," for John Craig will return to the Castle Square stage after an absence of several weeks. He will be especially welcomed back. The role of Ruth Harcourt will be taken by Mary Young, Wilson Melrose will be seen in the title role of Sir Charles Rivers, and the entire strength of Mr. Craig's company will be drawn upon the remainder of the cast.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

But one more week remains for the theatregoers of Boston and suburbs to see "Coming Home to Roost" the new play of American life by Edgar Selwyn at the Hollis Street Theatre, which has scored an emphatic hit.

William Courtleigh and Grace Elston carry the principal roles of the drama. He is the husband, who has been busy amassing the fortune, and she is the wife, whose simple tastes and habits were unable to stand the pace that usually accompanies sudden wealth.

The pace is kept up with amusing situations from start to finish, and interest is sustained until the very end. Others in the cast beside the two principals are such well known players as Philip Haskew, Elsa Berolt, Edith Krenitz, Otto Hoffman, Frank Munroe, William Sargent and George Backus.

There will be the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees. Mail orders given prompt attention.

BOBOLINKS AND ARMY WORMS

Wanton Slaughter of this Beautiful Bird.

Now the clear frosty nights send the tide of bird life southward. The smaller birds migrate at night and so escape the hawks which fly by day. When our birds leave their native fields and woods for the long flight southward, they enter upon a journey fraught with many unknown dangers, and many of them never live to come back. As soon as they reach the middle and southern states they become the target of numerous gunners, both black and white. I spent a part of the month of September in South Carolina and was an eyewitness of the wholesale killing of small birds there for food. I was told that every negro had a musket or a cheap shot gun and all but one that I questioned admitted that they owned guns and shot birds. Even some of the boys were seen hunting small birds with air guns. In September, the Bobolink (known in the Carolinas and Georgia as the ricebird) is the principal game. Millions of these birds have been killed for the markets of this country and they have been shipped even to Paris. I saw many negroes hunting them in the marshes and rice fields and witnessed the operation of plucking the birds and packing them for shipment. One party of gunners had killed in one forenoon more than a thousand birds. Each man had taken from six to fourteen dozen. Others, in pairs, stood upon the birds at night with torches, one man carrying the torch, the other seizing the dazed birds one at a time, bating their heads, and dropping them into a burlap bag. Sometimes the men get as many as 30 dozen each in a night. Formerly when the birds were much more plentiful, vast numbers were taken in this way. The negroes told me that they were paid twenty cents a dozen for "shoot" birds and twenty five cents for "ketch" birds. At this time the Bobolink is storing up energy for its long flight to South America. It grows fat upon the seeds of reeds, weeds, wild rice, wild oats and rice and is a dainty morsel for the table. We have been taught to believe that the Bobolink is a great pest to the rice planters and that it is killed to save the rice fields from destruction. A brief examination of the facts on the ground shows that there is no truth in this tale today, and leads to the belief that rice birds were never shot so much to protect the rice crop as to secure to the hunters twenty-five cents a dozen and to the marketman the profit that he gets by selling them at sixty cents a dozen. The planters told me that they never had allowed them "help" to shoot much shot at the birds, as that would damage the rice, but the "hard-minded" were given large quantities of powder to shoot and long whips to crack at the birds to keep them moving and frighten them away.

This was considered a necessary part of the expense of rice planting and in the days of large plantations it was quite a tax, but rice planting today on the Atlantic coast is almost a thing of the past, killed by western competition. Now there are only a few thousand acres planted to rice, and the killing of the Bobolinks for the market is both unnecessary and barbarous. Every body admitted that the birds were never taken formerly.

Aside from any injury that the Bobolink may do now in the rice fields it is a very useful bird and is particularly destructive to army worms, so much so that in some parts of the South it is known as the "army worm bird". In recent years the fall army worm has become very destructive in South Carolina and in fact throughout most of the southern states. This year it has been so rampant that the United States Department of Agriculture has issued a special bulletin to southern farmers warning them and giving means of controlling the pest. I am not sure that their crops were not ruined by the army worm, until flocks of birds gathered on their lands and destroyed the worms.

Why should they be permitted to shoot these birds? At this it seems sometimes that our human reasoning power fails to cope.

AUTOMOBILE LIGHTS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

This letter is written in the hope that you will publish its contents, since it deals with a subject which is of general interest to the public,—the automobile. While some injustice may result to the normal automobilist from the misdeeds of the abnormal driver, there is, nevertheless, one particular in which even the normal driver is constantly transgressing. This is in the matter of the illumination of the rear number plate. One who watches passing automobiles at night is struck by the number of machines which possess inadequate rear lights. This may be due either to wilful disregard, mere carelessness, or actual ignorance of the law. The law explicitly states that "number plates shall be kept clean and the numbers legible, and during the period when the vehicle is required to display lights the rear register number shall be illuminated so as to be plainly visible at a distance of 60 feet."

The wisdom and necessity of such a requirement are plain. The automobile traffic at night is enormous, the danger of accident great, and the ease with which an offending driver can escape undetected, unless his number plate is plainly illuminated, obvious, and yet large numbers of automobilists are constantly violating the law for one of the three reasons above stated. We recommend the first class to the tender mercies of the Highway Commission; to the second we suggest an occasional inspection of the rear light, and to the latter a brief perusal of the law requiring effective illumination with results visible at 60 feet.

As the Highway Safety League exists for the purpose of trying to make life on the highway and in the automobile a little safer than it appears to be at present, the League considers itself justified in calling the attention of the public to this important matter of lights, and to the fact that it welcomes the membership and cooperation of all persons interested in its object.

FIRST TALK OVER

THE TELEPHONE.

It seems almost incredible that ten days should elapse between the first conversation ever carried on by word of mouth over a wire and the announcement of it in the newspapers of the day. That, however, was the fact away back in October, 1876, when Professor Bell used the telephone line owned by the Walworth Manufacturing Company, extending from their office in Kilby Street, Boston, to their factory in Cambridgeport, a distance of about two miles, for the first reciprocal conversation which ever took place.

The night before this successful experiment took place Professor Bell asked the night watchman of the Walworth Building whether he could use that telephone wire. The watchman told Professor Bell that he could inquire of the head of the firm and let the professor know the next morning whether the privilege would be granted. Professor Bell called at the office and was given permission; the group surrounding him, peering at his "play toy" and wondering what "crazy notions" he had in his head.

One of the officers of the Walworth Company recently told the writer that Mr. Bell had a considerable bill with the Walworth Manufacturing Company in 1876, and that he several times offered to pay the bill in telephone stock. On the morning when Professor Bell received permission to use the telephone wire he again offered enough stock at twenty-five cents per share to pay the bill, but the offer was scorned.

The experiment took place on the evening of October 9, 1876, between Professor Bell and Thomas A. Watson, the latter being located at the Cambridgeport end of the wire. Each at his respective post took notes of what was said and heard.

This experiment proved so successful, Mr. Bell again offered to liquidate his debt with the Walworth Company, quoting not the twenty-five cents per share of the day before, but a price of $2 per share. It is reported that an explosion of laughter followed. Professor Bell was told that his stock was going up too fast and the offer was not accepted.

CHURCHES TO DENOUNCE

CURE FRAUDS.

From thousands of pulpits in all parts of the United States, take cures for consumption will be exposed and denounced on Tuberculosis Day, October 27th. This is part of the program for the movement announced today by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

Literature giving information on fraudulent and alleged "cures" for consumption will be sent to clergymen all over the country, and an organized crusade against the traffic in these drugs and devices will be instituted. The literature will be sent to ministers, either directly from the National Association office in New York or through the many state and local anti-tuberculosis associations scattered throughout the country. It is estimated that over 100,000 clergymen will be reached in this way.

From actual records on file in the office of The National Association, it is estimated that the volume of business done annually by the various concerns who sell take remedies for tuberculosis amounts to well over $15,000,000. The number of these remedies now being used as so-called "cures" is over 500.

These classes of "cures" are distinguished by the National Association. In the first class are included hundreds of devices and drugs which can be bought for any sum ranging from ten cents to five dollars at a drug store. The second class of "cures" includes the "institutes," "professors," or companies of "doctors," who for a consideration guarantee to cure consumption by some secret methods of which they are the sole proprietors. There are nearly one hundred-fifty of these institute frauds in the United States, cheating the people out of millions of dollars annually.

In the third class of "cures" are placed a number of home-made remedies, which either through ignorance or superstition have been advanced as treatments for tuberculosis. Some of these are onions, lemons, rattlesnake poison, coal dust, lime dust, pigs' blood, dog oil, milk "strippings," and even alcohol.

None of these remedies will cure consumption, declares The National Association. No drug, gas or other material has yet been discovered, which, when eaten, inhaled or injected into the system, will kill the germs of tuberculosis without doing serious injury to the body. The only real cure for tuberculosis recognized by The National Association consists of the combination of fresh air, good food, and rest taken under the direction of a competent physician.

ALWAYS WILL BE THUS.

The Boston Post objects because the poor have to pay more for their water than the rich. We agree with the Post that the individual water taker should be shown equal favors with citizens using large amounts of water. But we fear that the long desired equality will never come. The poor man not only has his own burdens to bear but helps to bear the burdens of the rich. The poor pays more for coal, more for meat, groceries, taxes and everything else. The small consumer and the small buyer pays the freight and pays it heavily. It has always been that way and probably real equality will never be attained. Co-operative stores and institutions in a way obviate the difficulty, but even then when the poor man becomes a little better off and can buy in large quantities, he demands a lower figure and wholesale rates. It has always seemed to us that municipalities at least should show equitable dealings toward all.—Melrose News.

A few years ago in winter when coal was unobtainable and many had to use wood in their furnaces, Winchester had considerable wood for sale. The price for Winchester's wood was advanced to the highest market price, which showed that municipalities were after the dollar as well as the speculator. Of course, in this case, the poor man had to suffer.

PROGRESS.

At a meeting of the Winchester Anti-Suffrage Association, October 6th, at the house of Mrs. J. H. Dwinell, a very interesting paper by Miss Alice H. Chittenden, was read by Miss Ella M. Emerson. A few of the most significant passages we ask leave to give in the STAR: "History furnishes many instances where people suffering under some injustice of a tyrannous government have banded together and demanded the suffrage to right their wrongs. But it has remained for the enlightened 20th century to witness the birth and development, not only in this country but also in England, of a well-organized movement among an unfranchised class against having the suffrage forced upon them. This fact is so significant, that thoughtful men and women are beginning to realize that this 'topposition' to woman suffrage must be based upon some fundamental principle, and not upon the mere whim, as is sometimes said of women who do not wish to vote."

"All through the country today there is an increased awakening to the necessity of conserving the natural resources of our prosperity, our forests, water ways and mines, in order that this generation as well as the generations to follow, may justly share in the benefits derived from such resources. Conservation is in fact the watchword of the hour. The association that I have the honor to represent here this evening, as well as sister associations, in other states, are also actively engaged in this work of conservation; for, in opposing the extension of suffrage to women we are seeking to conserve woman's natural forces for the great work nature has given her to do. The conservation of energy strengthens one's forces, while diffusion weakens them. It has been truly said that woman is the vitalizing force of life. But a diffused energy cannot be a vitalizing one. If women must now assume the responsibilities and duties of political life—if she must do man's work in addition to her own—it will mean a diffusion of her own natural forces and energies, and we shall have deterioration and not progress."

"In view of these facts would it not be well for woman to pause, before she is carried away by the cry of 'Votes for Women,' and seriously consider whether she may not better serve her own day and generation as well as the coming race by conserving her God-given powers for her own great work, rather than diffuse and weaken her forces by seeking and attempting to do man's work also?"

These passages seem to us, Anti-Suffragists, to show the direction in which true progress lies, and we are glad to hear that these opinions are gaining ground among the women of our country.

On the evening of Saturday, November 23rd, Mrs. George, of Brookline, once a suffragist, now an anti-suffragist, and Miss Bronson of Washington, D. C., are to speak in Winchester. Miss Bronson was formerly a special agent in the Department of Commerce and Labor to investigate the conditions of labor of women and children in our country. She is a very clear-headed woman who knows whereof she speaks.

We hope the people of Winchester, especially the voters—with special themselves of this unusual opportunity to hear two such able women as Mrs. George and Miss Bronson, speak on this next question of woman suffrage.

Liquor and Labor

By CHARLES STELZLE

WILL the abolition of the liquor traffic create a labor panic? This is a fair question, especially as it is asked by the workingman, who worries more about losing his job than he does about going to hell. To his mind, therefore, the economic aspects of the liquor problem are more important than any other. The accompanying chart presents some interesting information with reference to this subject. The figures employed were taken from the Bulletin of Statistics on Manufactures, 1910, table 1. The tonnage on the railroads of the country derived from the liquor industry amounts to only .003 of its total business. There isn't much in it for the railroad man.

ECONOMIC ASPECTS OF

THE LIQUOR PROBLEM

The United States spent in one year for INTOXICATING LIQUOR $1,800,000,000 for BREAD and CLOTHING 1,800,000,000

Wage Earners Employed

Intoxicating Liquor 62,820

Bread and Clothing 4,936,655

Wages Paid

Intoxicating Liquor $45,252,000

Bread and Clothing $244,196,000

Cost of Raw Materials

Intoxicating Liquor $199,199,000

Bread and Clothing $744,337,000

If the money spent for Intoxicating Liquor had been spent for Bread and Clothing, it would have employed about seven times as many workers. What becomes of the argument that there will be a labor panic if the liquor industry is destroyed?

Of the total crop of grain for 1911 only 3 per cent was used in the liquor business. There isn't much in it for the farmer. These are also government statistics, and the government isn't in the anti-saloon business. Invariably when compared with other industries the liquor business is at a disadvantage. The liquor business employs only one-fifth as many workers for the same amount invested as is the case in the average number employed in the textile, iron, lumber, leather and paper industries. The worker in the liquor business receives only about one-third as much of the profit in the business as those in these industries receive. The individual worker may receive more money, largely because there are few women employed, but it is a well known fact that the brewery worker dies at an earlier age than do the workers in the average industry. For example, between the ages of forty-five and fifty-five the average death rate for occupied males is 29.7 per thousand, but among the brewery workers the death rate at the same age is 30.8 per thousand, more than 30 per cent higher. What about the bartenders, salesmen and other workers in the liquor business? These have been eliminated in this discussion, because whatever argument applies to these workers in the liquor business applies with even greater force to those in the other industries mentioned. It requires more people to sell $1,800,000 worth of bread and clothing than it does to sell liquor of the same value.

HENRY CLAYTON METCALF.

Henry Clayton Metcalf, who has been elected to fill the vacancy in the School Committee, caused by the resignation of Prof. Charles F. A. Currier, was born in Quincy, Illinois. He prepared for the teaching profession at the Illinois State Normal University, from which he was graduated in 1890. His first year's experience as a teacher was gained in the country schools of Illinois. In the autumn of 1890 he entered Harvard University, and in 1894 received the degree of Bachelor of Arts, having specialized in Economics, Government and History. The following summer he went to Europe for study, spending two years in Germany and one in Paris, and in 1897 he received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Berlin University. On his return Mr. Metcalf was offered the newly created professorship of Economics at Tufts College, which he now holds. Without previous experience as a college instructor, he entered, from the very start, upon the work of a full professor.

Professor Metcalf thoroughly believes in making Economic Science an instrument in the practical affairs of life. Since the time that his career as a teacher began he has actively identified himself with a number of organizations working in behalf of human uplift. He is a member of the American Economic Association, the American Sociological Society, the National Civic Federation, the American Association for Labor Legislation, and the Boston Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber's Committee on Industrial Relations, of which he is a member, bring about the passage of the Workmen's Compensation Act, and the has been a vital force in helping to Minimum Wage law in Massachusetts.

Regarding work as the greatest influence in the formation of character, Professor Metcalf sees the importance of seeking in education for the expression of the individual aptitudes, merits and talents, and urges the necessity of giving opportunity for a free choice of occupation. This correlation of aptitudes and work opportunities is now being emphasized under the vocational guidance movement—a movement which has been fostered and promoted by the Boston Vocational Bureau, of which Mr. Metcalf has been a member from its formation until the present time. For years he was active in the Boston Twentieth Century Club, and the Boston Industrial League—the latter an organization practically unknown to the public, but one in which was largely shaped up the original work on the matter of industrial education which later led to the creation of the Massachusetts State Commission on Industrial Education and the new State Board of Education. He is a charter member of the Boston Social Research Council, and as one of the Board of Advisors, is intimately associated with the research work of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union.

In addition to his duties at Tufts College, Professor Metcalf has, for the last three years been invited by the University Extension Commission to take charge of an Extension Course in Economics. He has appeared, during his work in Massachusetts, before numerous organizations, business men's clubs, factory groups, and teachers' associations, where he has lectured on "Employer's Welfare Institutions," "Scientific Management," "Workmen's Compensation," "Economic Chivalry," "Vocational Guidance," "College Efficiency," and "The Social Emphasis in Church Efficiency."

OBITUARY.

Laurence Skillings Sanborn, who passed away Friday, Oct. 25th, was buried from the Church of the Epiphany, Sunday, Oct. 27th. Mr. Sanborn was born and bred in Winchester, where his father's family occupied the homestead on Church street for more than half a century. He traveled extensively for years until his health began to fail, when his mother established a home for him in Pittsfield, Mass., where they have been living together, hopeful for an improvement in his condition. It was during a week's absence from home that the disease became acute, and he succumbed at Glensville, N. Y. The services at the church were conducted by the Rev. John Suter, assisted by the vestry choir and were most impressive. The interment was in Woodlawn Cemetery.

BOSTON ARTIST WELL KNOWN IN WINCHESTER.

Mr. Albert R. Flaver the Boston artist who recently finished a beautiful painting of Mayor Fitzgerald's two daughters is well known in Winchester especially among the Boat Club boys. Mr. Flaver presented to the club a painting of the cave in front of the club house with a knowledge of detail and appreciation for the many kind courtesies tendered him during his most welcome visits at the club. The picture is hung in the assembly hall where the right and shade according to Mr. Flaver gives the best effect on it. The painting is highly treasured by the members and friends of the club and all are very grateful to Mr. Flaver for donating a double portrait.

MR. PRIME AND THE UNITED STATES SENATORSHIP.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

A large number of people have NOT asked me for whom I should vote for United States Senator if I am elected to the Legislature. One very good reason why this question has not frequently been asked me in all probability is that no one has suspected that I would contribute, directly, by my vote, or by voting for another, towards the election of John F. Fitzgerald. It has been properly assumed that my election means a vote for our distinguished fellow townsman, the Honorable Samuel W. McCall. To arrive at this determination it does not appear to me that I shall be called upon to bear the expense of a canvass through the mails of the voters of the district, and I regret that my friend, J. J. Fitzgerald, has made the promise he has made, for he always keeps his word.

This affords me an opportunity to say that, if elected, I shall cast no vote except on my own judgment, based on such information as I may possess, and after due consideration of the wishes of my constituents. Any course such as has been suggested by my opponent, makes your representative a mere automaton, and signifies the failure of the representative form of government for a free people.

The senatorship is but one of many important matters which will come before the Legislature. To attempt to procure instructions from all a member's constituents is highly impracticable, because a large percentage of the voters would neglect to make any answer whatever to such a request.

No general canvass of the voters is promised by me, for we cannot be too often reminded that we, the voters, constitute less than one-tenth of the people, and I propose, if given the opportunity, to represent ALL THE PEOPLE including women, children and aliens, all of whose interests need the careful consideration of an efficient representative, if we would have a full measure of social and industrial justice for all the people.

TWO OF THE AMENDMENTS TO BE VOTED.

The following are two proposed articles of amendment to the constitution which will appear upon the ballot to be voted on at Tuesday's election. In order that every voter may be familiar with them we publish them:

Article of amendment to the Constitution disqualifying from voting persons convicted of certain offenses. "Article three of the amendments to the Constitution is hereby amended by inserting after the word 'guardian hip' in line two, the following: 'and persons temporarily or permanently disqualified by law because of corrupt practices in respect to elections.'"

Article of amendment to the Constitution relative to the taxation of wild, or forest lands. "Full power and authority are hereby given and granted to the general court to prescribe for wild or forest lands such methods of taxation as will develop and conserve the forest resources of the Commonwealth."

TIN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

About twenty Winchester friends of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur V. Rogers surprised them at their new home at 305 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, on Friday evening Oct. 2nd, the occasion being the tenth anniversary of their wedding. Numerous amusing souvenirs in the form of presents, attached to inappropriate verses, and a tin wedding supper, was served during the evening.

Up to October first Dr. Rogers had practiced in Winchester for the last twelve years, and left town for a broader field to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Dr. Henry C. Libby, who had for the last forty years been one of the most prominent Back Bay dentists.

The choice of Dr. Rogers to be associated with his son Dr. A. A. Libby in continuing his practice in preference to other doctors of longer experience is an honor which many others may have well coveted.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

Miss Maya Blanche Haggitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Haggitt, well known as one of the operators at the local telephone exchange, observed her eighteenth birthday at her home on Prospect street, Woburn, last Saturday evening.

During the evening the announcement was made of Miss Haggitt's engagement to Mr. Roger W. Fine of Gloucester, assistant agent at the Winchester railroad station.

A poem written for the occasion by Mrs. E. W. Reed of Boston was read by Miss Beatrice G. Bernall of West Medford. The hostess was showered with many beautiful gifts and the good wishes and congratulations of her friends.

The house was prettily decorated, with Hallowe'en trimmings and a delicious collation was served.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

The Lecture at the Methodist Episcopal Church, Wednesday evening, given by Rev. H. B. Schwartz, D.D., of Yale, was most interesting and well attended. Dr. Schwartz gave a good description of the people, their customs, traditions, religion and school advantages.

There was a very interesting and profitable discussion of the people and their needs.

The discussion of the people and their needs was most interesting and well attended. The discussion of the people and their needs was most interesting and well attended.

Booker T. Washington, the negro educator, spoke at the First Congregational Church last Sunday evening to an audience which filled the auditorium to its full capacity.

CITIZENS OF WINCHESTER:

Do you believe in fair play?
Do you believe in decent politics?

Do you think that a man who recognizes that his opponent is so superior in every qualification for office that his election is assured unless the minds of the people are poisoned by malicious lies, insinuations, and innuendoes, and who recognizing this fact bolsters up these lies by misquotations from yellow journals, is entitled to your vote?

Wilton B. Fay, the Republican Candidate for Senator says that Charles Zueblin believes in free love, and in proof he cites the following clipping from the Boston Post:

This from the Boston Post, January 6th, 1911:

"Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Jan. 6. Professor Charles Zueblin, formerly occupying the chair of Sociology of the University of Chicago, has raised a storm of indignation, protest in this city by his lecture last night at the Vassar Institute on Education and Life. The wonder now is that the Professor was ever permitted to give the lecture, which in the minds of his hearers struck at the very foundation of the home and made a mockery of marriage. In the audience were members of the Vassar faculty, clergymen, representatives of the leading local families, and they listened as it dazed at the astounding views set forth by Professor Zueblin. The keynote of his address was that any woman whose maternal instinct was strong should not be hampered by the conventions. The lecture brought a letter to the local newspaper this morning from Rev. Joseph F. Sweeney, who wrote: 'If any visitor to Poughkeepsie ever deserved to be rotten-egged, it is surely Professor Zueblin. His proposals are an insult to all the people of our city. It is to be hoped that he will never set foot in Poughkeepsie again. If the trustees of Vassar Institute have so little regard for decency as to invite him, I think they will have Vassar Institute all to themselves.'"

In answer to that read this EDITORIAL from the Poughkeepsie Eagle.

DESPICABLE JOURNALISM.

Those newspaper correspondents, apparently Poughkeepsie newspaper writers, who sent to papers in outside cities reports of Professor Zueblin's Vassar Institute lecture of January 4th, purposely misrepresenting him and stating that he advocated the opposite of what he did advocate, were guilty of a most despicable act—an act which deserves not only contempt but punishment. They deliberately tried in order to make a sensational article which sensational papers would print at space rates.

Of course they will plead the statements made in the letter of a local clergyman published in the Eagle and the News-Press, but they know that the letter was written under a misapprehension, that the clergyman was not present at the lecture, and that the letter was only published because it was so astonishing that a clergyman should write such a letter. Doubtless neither newspaper should have published it, but the Eagle published it with comments, showing that Professor Zueblin had not advocated what was assumed, and the News-Press published an answer to it.

We are moved to write this because the false stories sent out by those correspondents have travelled all over the country, have been variously commented upon and have caused a great deal of annoyance. It didn't take the sensational newspapers long to see the news value of making the change of Vassar Institute to Vassar College, and of heading up the article with such lines as "Vassar Girls Gaped at Professor Zueblin's Advice." That was actually published in a Cincinnati paper.

We have not heard from Professor Zueblin but have no doubt that he also is annoyed. Everybody who knows him of course knows that he couldn't have taken the position reported with regard to marriage, and it ought to have been obvious to anybody who knows Vassar Institute or Vassar College that no such sentiments would have been tolerated in either place. The published abstract of the lecture, to be sure, contained some expressions which to persons unfamiliar with the terms used in sociology were liable to misinterpretation, but not such wilful twisting out of their context as was given them by the newspaper correspondents and the head-line writers of the papers that published their stuff.

Mr. Fay says that Mr. Zueblin is not a good man, and that it would be a blot on the record of Massachusetts to send such a man as Mr. Zueblin to the Senate.

Read this letter from Jane Addams to Mr. Zueblin.

I am not coming to Boston on the 4th but am to be sent West to Denver by the Progressive Committee. I have had several letters in regard to the 4th in Boston, and do not know how the rumor started.

I am so happy to learn that you are a Progressive, and wish very much that I might be of use.

With cordial greetings to Mrs. Zueblin, I am,

Sincerely yours,
Signed, Jane Addams, Charles Zueblin, Esq., Winchester, Massachusetts.

Jane Addams has known Mr. Zueblin and his work for twenty years. She is a close personal friend of his, and of Mrs. Zueblin.

Do you think Jane Addams would write such a letter to a man who believed in free love?

Yours sincerely,
Signed, George W. Coleman.

Do you think that a man that stands for all that Geo. Coleman does would write such a letter to a man who is as upright as set in the Mass. Senate?

It is rumored that Mr. Zueblin was obliged to leave Chicago University because of his immoral views. Read in another column what Albion W. Small, the Head of the Department in which Mr. Zueblin taught has written Mrs. Zueblin. Read what John Graham Brooks of Cambridge has written.

We have shown the untruth of all these slanders against Mr. Zueblin. Still some people who seek an excuse for voting for Mr. Fay say that Mr. Zueblin is not practical. People who make that statement are entirely unfamiliar with the civic improvements he has started all over the country. They pay no attention to his endorsement by men and women who DO KNOW what he has done.

ZUEBLIN A GREAT SUCCESS.

All friends of true reform are now on the point of transcribing Mr. Zueblin's great success. All the meetings have been excellently attended, and brimming over with enthusiasm. Even the most cowardly conservative is compelled to admit that here is a man that has something to say, and says it. Mr. Zueblin does not speak like an inhabitant of Mats or an impractical economist. He has studied civic life, and takes in a wide range. He knows what should be done in every city of the twentieth century for the sake of decency. It is almost a pity that he is so young. Zueblin preaches the gospel of efficiency and decency in the management of municipalities.

LARGEST VOTING LIST IN TOWN'S HISTORY.

The Registrar of Voters held his annual session before the election on Saturday. During last week 400 names were added to the voting list, making the total for date 1862 names. This is said to be the largest number of voters the town has registered yet. The assessed polls now number 244.

ZUEBLIN'S QUEER COURSE.

From Boston Transcript, Oct. 29, 1912

Bull Moose Senatorial Candidate Once Declared that Roosevelt "is Known to be a Liar."—Later Advocated Wilson and Seidel Ticket.—Has Praised Taft Highly.

The voters of the Sixth Middlesex senatorial district are much amused over the diverting performances of Prof. Charles Zueblin of Winchester, the Bull Moose candidate for the Senate against Representative Wilton B. Fay of Medford, the regular Republican nominee.

Zueblin, who was formerly a professor at Chicago University, has shown that amazing inconsistency which is thoroughly characteristic of Bull Mooseers. The prayer "Oh, that mine enemy would write a book!" appears to have been granted in Zueblin's case, just as it has in Governor Wilson's. Prof. Zueblin, as the editor of the Twentieth Century Magazine, gave in the February, 1912, issue of that publication presumably his own views of presidential candidates. Roosevelt had not then formally announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination. Here is what Zueblin, now a Bull Moose candidate for senator, then thought about his distinguished leader:

"The biggest man on the horizon is Roosevelt, and his gigantic stature paralyzes most of the politicians. He cannot be a candidate without proving himself a liar. There is no possible reason for supposing that he does not mean what he says in his frequent denials, except that he is known to be a liar. Even at that, he is entitled to be unmolested until he voluntarily announces that he is a liar. Yet, as the Psalmist said, 'All men are liars.' Why, then, be so fussy about Roosevelt? Because there is a better and greater if not a bigger man at hand (La Follette)."

Zueblin's former view of Taft is also interesting in view of his present course. In the Boston American of Jan. 25, 1909, the professor said of Taft:

"This President of ours has put the hands of the clock farther ahead than any one since Lincoln, because he did things."

Here are excerpts from two editorials in the Twentieth Century, for September, 1912, headed "The Twentieth Century Ticket," and "Don't Throw Your Vote Away."

"As a practical political guide to every twentieth century citizen, we recommend to his suffrage next November Woodrow Wilson for President, and Emil Seidel for Vice President. Wilson is the ablest candidate that has been before the people since Lincoln. His running-mate is at least a colorless candidate from a doubtful State, while a vote for Seidel will mean approval of an able municipal executive and a rebuke to the Democratic convention that weakened on its platform after yielding to the popular demand for Wilson. We mean no disrespect to Seidel, but not only can he not be elected, but the Seidelists are not yet ready for victory. To approve of their program in general, and for use when we can reach it, while not recommending the greatest roadman he recommended by voting for the ticket of Wilson and Seidel."

One may vote the Democratic ticket and still vote this year and throw his vote away, but if he vote for Seidel for principle and for Wilson for immediate national advancement in efficient government, he may be the truly practical citizen, the man or woman of vision, the statesman-like, forward-looking, democratic patriot. If local election laws make this difficult, stand on your constitutional rights. The electors are chosen to express the people's will."

Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey for President.

Emil Seidel of Wisconsin for Vice President.

Zueblin ought to get together with himself.

GEORGE EVERETT PRATT.

Mr. George Everett Pratt, died at his home on Grove street last Friday, after a long illness. Although he had been critically ill during the week it was thought that he had some hopes of recovery until the end. He was in his 64th year.

Mr. Pratt was widely known in this town where he had made his home for the past 25 years. He was born in Somerville, Oct. 28, 1847. His parents being Daniel and Sarah Ann Pratt.

He was for many years bookkeeper for the jewelry trade, associated with Charles W. Kennard, Bigelow & Kennard and W. H. Foster. Upon Mr. Foster's retirement about two years ago Mr. Pratt also retired from active business. He was greatly interested in the Unitarian Society, in which he was a devoted worker, having been a member of its standing committee, and for many years, treasurer of its society school, which office he held at the time of his death. He was also very much interested in the Unitarian summer meetings at the Isles of Shoals, being a member of the committee in charge. He was a member of the Weymouth Parkman Lodge of Masons and of Parkman Council, Royal Arcanum.

Mr. Pratt was greatly liked by all who knew him. His genial personality and unassuming character endeared him to everyone as was attested by the large attendance at the funeral services, which were held from his residence on Monday afternoon.

He is survived by his wife, Elsie S. (Platt) Pratt, and two brothers, Daniel W. Pratt of this town and Charles H. Pratt of Somerville.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Joel H. Metcalf of the Unitarian Church, the remains being taken to Leominster for interment.

THE LEAVES.

Why They are Carted Away Instead of Burned.

It has been suggested that our editorial of last week regarding the disagreeable features of the piled leaves about the streets did not present the facts in sufficiently clear manner.

It was not our intention to enter into the facts, but rather to express our opinion on the inadvisability of continuing the experiment. It is not our intention furthermore, that any reader of the STAR should form an opinion under any misapprehension, and we are pleased to present the matter to our readers in full.

It was decided this fall by the board of fire engineers to enforce a former law regarding burning leaves by residents. This law was to the effect that all residents must obtain a permit from the fire engineers to light fires. It was further decided not to allow any leaves to be burned in the streets or within a distance of 50 feet of any building.

The reasons given for this were several:

1. The danger from fires, caused from burning leaves or rubbish.

2. The danger to children from playing with such fires.

3. Damage to the surface of the streets where leaves were burned.

4. Danger to automobiles from stopping over a smoldering pile of leaves or passing a fire.

Our editorial said that it was a punishable offense to burn leaves. That is, unless citizens obtain a permit from the fire engineers and burn their leaves at least 50 feet from a building it is punishable; also if they burn the leaves in the street it is punishable.

We still think that it is preferable to go back to the old custom of burning the leaves in the streets. In our opinion the damage to the streets by the water, blocked by leaves in the drains, after a heavy rain is greater than that caused by any burning of leaves. The leaves in the streets are proving the greatest discomfort.

The burning of these leaves is done almost wholly by town employees who do not go away and leave the fire burning, would not allow children to play with the fire, and could if necessary warn any careless chauffeur of the danger of leaving his car standing over a smoldering pile of leaves.

We do not think that any fires have come to our notice which were caused from burning leaves. The majority of the fires about this season of the year are from burning over ground, not piles of leaves. However, if this is deemed dangerous, the present regulations could continue.

We have not the slightest doubt but what the new enforcement of the law and rules were done with the desire to improve the conditions and safeguard property. We do not think that it has worked at all successfully.

As we have already said, the leaves are dirty, make bad walking in dry weather and worse in wet, block the street drains and cause general discomfort. Furthermore the great part of the citizens are complaining of them.

We do not recall hearing any complaint of the burning of the leaves. As matters now stand the property owners are either allowing the leaves to stand or raking them into the streets, thereby filling the walks more than under normal conditions. It is costing the town considerably more to cart them away, and in this respect it does not seem to be able to take care of them, as they are very thick on all streets where shade trees are numerous.

We think we voice the majority of residents in our statement.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

A very interesting and attractive program upon Folk-song was given by Prof. John P. Marshall of Boston University, illustrated by Miss Edith Bullard soprano.

Prof. Marshall said that Folk-song is the ancient popular song, never written but learned orally by each generation. Strange to say they are always in correct musical form, the unessential is dropped, and only the national characteristics retained. With us music does not show radical character, and does not occupy the important position it does in foreign countries.

The typical English song is jolly, full of fun and most popular were the native songs. Miss Bullard sang three of these—Barbara Allen, Polly Oliver, and Drink to me only with thine Eyes, each a gem, as it has stood the test of centuries. Two from Irish "My Love's an Arbutus" and "The Valley Lay Smiling."

In France every historical period produced its own songs, so none of these were sung and the beautiful Lullaby "An Clair de la Lune."

Germany is the land of universal folk-song, one of which was adopted by the South at the time of the civil war. "This was sung, "Maryland my Maryland."

Spanish Folk-song is mostly in the dance meter. "Habanera" used in Carmen was sung as an illustration. In Russia every state in life has its songs, most of them gloomy, full of despair, they carried even into the dance music. Though said they are very beautiful as the "Minka" which Miss Bullard sang illustrated. In Italy there are fewer folk-songs than in any other country, as Italy was the birthplace of the opera, and that is the song of the Italian peasant.

Miss Bullard has a beautiful, well trained voice of the right calibre for this simple music. Her last selection was our own "Way Down Upon the Swanne River."

The first meeting of the Home Economics class will be held on Monday afternoon, November 4, at 3 o'clock in the High School assembly hall. Mr. Daniel C. Palmer, State Commissioner of Weights and Measures, will give a lecture illustrated with lantern slides on "The Effect of Disinfectants and Measures on the Consumer's Pocket-book."

All members of the Fortnightly are invited to attend. A record of 25 will be changed there outside of the club. A Drama Class is being formed under the auspices of the dramatic committee for the reading of modern drama and some of the old comedies. This class will be held every other Tuesday morning at 10:30, the first meeting to be November 13th at 3 Hillside avenue, the home of Mrs. Wm. E. Clark, chairman.

All interested are cordially invited to join the class. Plans for the season will be talked over and decided upon.

BURNING LEAVES.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

In view of the criticism of the recent order of the Chief of the Fire Department relating to burning leaves and the evident misunderstanding of the rights and obligations of the citizens with regard to setting fires, the Selectmen call attention to the following points:

Since the year 1857 there has been a general law making it a punishable offense "to be concerned in causing, or making a bonfire within ten rods of a house." In the year 1908 the legislature passed an Act to be effective in any town accepting the same, under the provision of which it was made a punishable offense to set a fire in the open air between the first day of April and the first day of December, except by written permission of the forest warden, but permitted the burning of debris, rubbish, etc., on ploughed fields two hundred feet distant from forest or sprout lands.

This Act was accepted by the town at the March election in 1909. In 1911 the old law relating to bonfires was repealed, and the act of 1908 amended, so that Section 1 now reads as follows:

"It shall be unlawful within any city, or within any town which accepts the provisions of this act for any person to set a fire in the open air between the first day of March and the first day of December, except by written permission of the forest warden or the chief of the fire department or in cities that have such an official, the fire commissioner. Provided, that debris from fields, gardens and orchards, or leaves and rubbish from yards, may be burned on ploughed fields by the owners thereof, their agents or lessees, and provided further, that persons above eighteen years of age may maintain a fire for a reasonable purpose upon sandy or barren land, if the fire is enclosed within rocks, metal or other non-inflammable material. In every case such fire shall be at least two hundred feet distant from any building, and shall be properly attended until it is extinguished. The forest warden shall cause public notice to be given of the provisions of this section, and shall enforce the same. Whoever violates the provisions of this section shall be punished by fine of not more than one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than one month, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

It will be seen that under this state law, which the citizens accepted, it is a punishable offense to set any fire within fifty feet of a building or within two hundred feet of forest or sprout land, and, within the written permission of the chief of the fire department, to set any fire except in the months of December, January and February, anywhere except on ploughed fields or enclosed etc., on sandy or barren land, and in all cases the fire is to be properly attended until extinguished. It is impossible, so far as the provisions of this Act are concerned, for the chief of the fire department, in his discretion to issue permits to burn leaves in the streets, but he must determine in each case that the proposed fire would be fifty feet distant from any building. As many of the houses are within fifty feet of the street, this presents a difficult situation for the chief to handle, and however fair and careful his action might be it would doubtless give rise to complaints of favoritism and discrimination. While this offers an objection which is of some importance, the principal objections to the lighting of fires in the streets appear to be as follows:

The danger to buildings resulting from flying sparks and improperly attended fires and the danger to children from playing about the fires with the possibility of a resulting liability to the town in case of injury. The risk to automobiles, left standing near the curb, while passing or standing, the damage to the oil surfaces of the streets, the annoyance from the low hanging smoke, and the possibility, although it may be slight, of danger to health.

On the other hand, the considerations in favor of permitting fires to be maintained are, the expense to the town of removing the leaves, the possibility of interfering with the proper use of catch basins and inconvenience to the public.

The Selectmen have carefully considered the points in favor of and against allowing fires in the streets and believe that the objections to permitting any such fires outweigh the points in favor of allowing them, it appearing that the setting of fires may affect life and property, whereas not allowing them results merely in inconvenience and some additional expense to the town and to individual citizens. The Selectmen hope, that the citizens will co-operate and be patient under any annoyance which the situation may cause and not throw their burdens on the town by taking leaves and rubbish from their property onto the public streets in violation of town law relating to the subject (Article 3, Sec. 6.)

No person shall place, or cause to be placed in any public street or way of this town the contents of any sink, cess pool or privy, nor place or cause to be placed any rubbish or garbage therein, except for the purpose of immediate removal therefrom.

IMPORTANT ACTS TO BE VOTED UPON.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Winchester, Mass., Oct. 28, 1912.

Dear Sir: At the coming election on November 5th, the citizens of Winchester are called upon to cast their votes not only for the several candidates, with whose names we are by this time no doubt quite familiar, but also upon the question of approval and ratification of two proposed amendments to the constitution of the Commonwealth, and of the acceptance of an act already passed by the General Court. This act was printed at length in your last issue, so that we are, or should be, informed as to its subject-matter, but as to the proposed amendments to the constitution your columns are silent. It space permits, perhaps you will print the following short statements with regard to these proposed amendments.

Chapter 21 of the Resolves of 1912 provides for the amendment to Article 3 of the amendments to the constitution of the Commonwealth, by inserting after the word "guardianship" in line 2, the following: "And persons temporarily or permanently disqualified by law because of corruptive practices in respect to elections."

Article 3 of the Articles of Amendment would then read as follows: "Every male citizen of 21 years of age and upwards, excepting paupers and persons under guardianship, and persons temporarily or permanently disqualified by law because of corrupt practices in respect to elections, who shall have resided within the Commonwealth one year, and within the town or district in which he may claim a right to vote, six calendar months next preceding any election of Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Senators, or Representatives, shall have a right to vote in such election of Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Senators, and Representatives, and no other persons shall be entitled to vote in such election."

Chapter 115 of the Resolves of 1912 provides for the amendment to the constitution by the addition of the following article: "Full power and authority are hereby given and granted to the general court to prescribe for wild or forest lands such methods of taxation as will develop and conserve the forest reservations of the Commonwealth."

Very truly yours,
HERBERT A. WADLEIGH, Society Deliberative Assembly.

DALLINGER CONFIDENT OF WINNING.

The Hon. Frederick W. Dallinger of Cambridge, the Republican candidate for Congress in this district, expresses confidence in his election next Tuesday, despite the fact that he has both Democratic and Progressive Party opponents.

"My progressive record at the state house, both as representative and senator, was such that I shall most certainly draw a heavy progressive vote," states Mr. Dallinger, "and I am not discouraged by the false statements as to my legislative record, and the malicious base stories as to my personal character, circulated and told on the platform by my Democratic opponent. His method of campaigning will naturally lose him the votes of self-respecting Democrats. I look for a heavy vote next Tuesday and expect to win by at least 500 votes in the district."

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Bufford of Calumet, Mass., observed their golden wedding anniversary at their home on Wednesday. During the afternoon and evening they received many of their old friends and neighbors, who called to offer congratulations upon the happy occasion. Many appropriate gifts and large quantities of flowers were received by the couple to brighten the day, and they are both enjoying that greatest of gifts, good health. They were assisted during the afternoon in receiving by their two granddaughters, Miss Estelle and Miss Melora Davis.

Do not let the opportunity pass by for another six months. Buy shares in the new series on sale at the Winchester Co-operative Bank Saturday and Monday evening, 7 to 9 o'clock. A dividend of 5 per cent. has always been paid.

Mr. Fryling attended the meeting of the No License League in Boston, Tuesday.

THE ATTACK ON PROF. ZUEBLIN.

To the Editor of The Boston Journal: Word has reached me of what is meant to be an attack on the character of Professor Charles Zueblin, who is a candidate for the State Senate from Winchester. I say, upon his character, because political opponents have stooped to circulate rumors about Mr. Zueblin's opinions on marriage and sex questions from which nine persons out of ten would infer loose morals or direct immoral influence upon others. His opponents plainly mean, by doing this sort of work, to convince voters that this scholar and gentleman is morally unfit to represent them.

For twenty years I have known Prof. Zueblin with intimacy. I was for some years doing the same kind of work at the University of Chicago that he did. We were again and again over the same field in university extension work. He talked with me at length before resigning his position at the university, and it is the grossest perversion to say or insinuate that his leaving the university was because of these attributed opinions. The founder and head of his own department at the university, Prof. Albion W. Small, has already answered these detractions and will make short work of any such charge to any one who will write him, as he will of the other approach.

I have, I think, every scrap of what Prof. Zueblin has published on marriage and sex questions, and I possess also his private syllabus of lectures. At Poughkeepsie, at the Vassar Institute where the mischief began, I followed him immediately after the lecture which a layman (who did not hear the lecture) turned into a noisy scandal. Every person I met who did hear the lecture expressed indignation at the attack. The paper in which the perversion was published openly retracted, but as rumor traveled a thousand miles before truth can put on her boots, the press and prudent persons for some time carried on the battle.

Prof. Zueblin's view on marriage are those held by scholars who stand by the monogamic (one-man-one-wife) family. In his private syllabus as in his lecture, he tells why the family should hold the woman and the man faithful—namely, because of the child. For the sake of the child and society both, the monogamic relation holds its sanctities. In a lecture given in most parts of the United States, he asks the question, who an unmarried woman should not yield to the maternal passion. Before he could answer his own question, the reporter saw his chance. To stop with the question, as it were Mr. Zueblin's opinion would be hot stuff, indeed, and so this plausible lampooning started on its way. The immediate answer to his own question is that family and society would suffer.

I have read Mr. Zueblin's latest article on marriage, which appeared in the July number of the Twentieth Century magazine, under the title "The Family." As editor of that magazine, Mr. Zueblin in this article, on marriage, a social institution, has responsibilities that lift it above vagrant individual loquacity. He

How can we make wedlock more sacred and more successful for the coming generation? and answers it with more solemnity than the church itself. The perpetuation of the immortal fiction of society is more important than the union of two souls, are his words.

More contemptible than the distorting of his Vassar Institute lecture was another, in which he proposed the public recording of six months of engagements, as well as marriage announcements, with the express purpose of lessening the huge evils of haste and merely impulsive marriage. Some persons of desperate imagination or worse, passed this on to the public as a picture of six months' trial marriage.

Prof. Zueblin is now absent, filling a lecture engagement in the Pacific coast. That Wilton B. Fay or any other self-respecting person should put such an affront upon gentlemen by having as to circulate this satirical calumny deserves its fitting rebuke in Mr. Fay's constituency.

The community lucky enough to have, as its senatorial representative, a man of such force and disciplined training in social reforms as Prof. Zueblin is known to possess all over the United States, is to be congratulated by every well-wisher of good morals and a sounder path of life.

MR. ZUEBLIN A STRONG MAN.

October 23, 1912.

Mrs. Rho Flak Zueblin,
 Winchester, Mass.

My dear Mrs. Zueblin: I was delighted to learn from the newspapers that Mr. Zueblin has been prevailed upon to be a candidate for the Massachusetts Senate. In these times of the problem of selecting representatives of the people who can be trusted to represent the best in the people, it is certainly encouraging to find that a man of Mr. Zueblin's character, ability and acquired fitness for such work, is willing to put himself at the disposal of the public.

Since I began to get acquainted with Mr. Zueblin, twenty years ago, I have never for a moment felt any hesitation about my earliest impression that he was bound to prove himself one of the choicest spirits of our time. I am not at all restrained from making this confession by the fact that I have not always agreed with him in details of opinion. The chances are quite as great that he was right and I wrong, when we did not agree, as the reverse.

You know personally what a harmonious group of men the members of our sociological staff were through many years. The qualities which made Mr. Zueblin always a delightful member of this group were never confused or belocled in a single instance in his relation with any of us during his long connection with the University of Chicago. We all felt, too, that the same qualities which made us value and love him, made him also a splendid influence upon the students with whom he came in contact. We one and all felt that however we might differ with him on details of social opinion, as each of us differed with every other in the group, we regarded him as altogether a salutary and stimulating influence and we always felt that in the ethical and intellectual foundations of his views he was standing on the same platform that we were.

No man is worth having in a University who has not enough individuality to provoke dissent from some of his conclusions. Mr. Zueblin did that, but always in a way which made him respected even by those who did not think in detail as he did.

We miss Mr. Zueblin more than ever in our faculty. We regretted at the time and we still regret, that we could not make it worth while for him to stay here. We knew that it was to his advantage to enter on this career, but his departure was a distinct loss to us.

Personally, I shall feel that the regret which I shall always feel at his resignation from our faculty will be diminished more than it has been thus far if his neighbors in Massachusetts have found him out sufficiently to call him into their service in the Senate.

I am sure that he will be not merely a well meaning, but a strong and clear sighted representative who will do all that is in the power of one member of the Senate to fulfill the campaign pledges of his party.

Sincerely,
 ALBION W. SMALL.

Head, Sociological Department, the University of Chicago.

Progressive Voters

Before Going to the Polls

NOTE THESE FACTS

In his six years at the State House Hon. Frederick W. Dallinger was not only a supporter but a leader in Progressive Legislation. Single handed and opposed by both State and County Machines of his own party, he secured sweeping reforms in the governing of counties.

Single handed he secured Insurance Legislation putting out of business fraudulent insurance companies and protecting the policy-holders, the People.

His strenuous fight against the Bell Telephone "Grab" bill, which was to allow that public service corporation to issue watered stock, won him editorial support in both Republican and Democratic papers, placed him on the Boston Post famous Roll of Honor, and, best of all, Killed the Bill.

Dallinger has not only fought for every progressive measure in the interest of the People while a member of the legislature, but since that time has worked ardently for Direct Nominations, the Direct Election of United States Senators, the Senatorial Preferential Act and other Progressive Measures. As a member of the Republican State Committee he led the fight against Machine Dictation.

Mr. Dallinger stands for National Child Labor laws and other National Labor laws in the interest of the People and to protect States now having just labor laws. He favors Tariff Revision by Scientific Adjustment, and River and Harbor legislation by Scientific Methods, and he favors National Regulation of Corporations doing interstate business.

Progressives, Vote for Mr. Dallinger and you vote for a man who can be elected, and a man who stands for Progressive Principles.

A vote for Mr. Long means to aid in the election of the Democratic candidate, who stands opposed to the Principles of the Progressive party.

H. AND S. CLUB MOVES INTO NEW QUARTERS.

The H. and S. Club has abandoned its old quarters for new. The new club house is situated overlooking the beautiful Mystic Lakes. Like all other modern clubs, regardless of size it is unique and fitted with the latest improvements and conveniences.

The opening, which was on last Monday night, was a formal affair and nearly all the members assembled for the occasion. The reading of the new constitution and by laws enacted by Commodore James A. Newman was the feature of the evening. Mr. Newman had to abandon his declaration at certain paragraphs on account of the hearty applause tendered him. The Constitution appurtenant to everything concerning the club in general, as conditions, social entertainments, ice skating, bowling, golfing, tennis, etc., in all of which the members are proficient. During the meeting the following members were appointed captains of teams: Frank Gerlach, paddling; Philip Sheridan, tennis; John Sheridan, ice skating; Marshall Berry, bowling.

The club is proposing to enter the Middlesex Bowling League this winter and is practicing occasionally under the supervision of Captain Berry. With the exception of the two veterans, Berry and Ward, the club is practically new at the game. But aside from this the boys are ambitious, which means that Captain Berry has a tough proposition confronting him in selecting the five men to represent the club. The following members are out for the team: Captain M. Berry, F. Gerlach, J. Sheridan, J. Newman, S. Rogers, C. Baldwin, E. R. Murphy, E. Evans, J. Ward, P. Sheridan, Dr. W. H. Murray, D. Cabot.

The various ice boat owners are rapidly designing speedier craft for the coming winter. The boys are content with a hard season. It is rumored that Mr. Ward is likewise strengthening his position. As this aggregation has a very good record, a tough proposition they will apparently meet stronger competitors this winter in the H. and S. exponents of the sport. Full details will be printed later in the STAR columns regarding the sport and the handsome trophies offered to winners in the competition races by a leading Boston paper.

The following H. S. members have taken advantage of the beautiful weather of late, their preparations were speedier than expected and they are now waiting for the lakes to freeze over. Frank Gerlach, John Sheridan, James Newman, James Frazer, Safford Rogers, and Philip Sheridan.

The best place to deposit is in the Winchester Co-operative Bank, because it leads to a systematic practice of saving. One, two, three, five, and up to twenty-five dollars may be deposited each month. Shares on sale Saturday and Monday evenings. Call or write in regard to same.

Metcalf was elected to serve as a member of the School Committee until his successor should be elected and qualified.

The committee on accounts returned the statement from the town auditor showing the state of the incidentals account to September 16, 1912, with the recommendation that a separate account be established, to include all salaries of elected town officers and town counsel, assessor of weights and measures, inspector of buildings, clerical assistant and any other official or employee whose salary was not included in a department appropriation.

A report was received from the town engineer that he had inspected the pole on Main street in front of the residence of J. H. Dwinell, and found it more or less decayed on the outside at the ground line, but that the inner part seemed to be sound and in his opinion not dangerous.

A petition was received from the Postal Telegraph Cable Co. for location of poles and wires on High street from a point approximately 650 feet west from Cambridge street to Ridge street and through Ridge street from High street to the Waterbury line for the purpose of relocating and reconstructing the present line and referred to the town engineer. A hearing was appointed on the same for November 11, 1912, at 8 p. m.

Said pipes to run to the opposite side of the street in each case as shown on plan filed with the petition and dated October 25, 1912.

The town engineer recommended that the permission be granted, but suggested that the Edison company return the existing pipe in the shortest possible way, which reference to the plan shows is proposed in one case but not in the other and it was ORDERED: That permission to install and maintain the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston to lay and maintain a two-inch iron pipe in Everett avenue to proposed pole about 100 feet west of Stratford road, and also to proposed pole about 200 feet west of Stratford road, said

MORE ALLEYS AT CALUMET CLUB.

Although but a short time has elapsed since the Calumet Club changed its bowling capacity by the addition of two alleys, its equipment is in present inadequate to meet the demands of the members, and it is now proposed to add still two more alleys.

The matter is in the hands of a committee, composed of Messrs. Charles C. Rogers, Charles S. Tenney and George S. Lathrop, which proposes to raise by bond issue the funds necessary, and to install two new alleys at the club next Spring. Without doubt the fund of $2,000, divided into $25 bonds, will be subscribed promptly. Already it is reported that over one-quarter of the amount has been secured and notices were sent out this week to the members asking for support.

It is understood that the line of supports in the bowling room between alleys 2 and 3 will be removed, the weight of the floors above being carried by a truss. This will give room for one alley without any change in the exterior. The other alley will be placed outside of the present No. 1 alley, a jog in the building providing for about one-half of it, and an addition at the rear furnishing room for the run.

THE VALUE OF INTEGRITY.

The test of time is the severest business test. For over fifty years our firm has enjoyed a reputation for integrity second to none in the country. This fact accounts for their "unimpaired" business reputation.

Every lot of merchandise is sold on honor; the fabrics are absolutely all wool and non-fading, and the A. Shuman & Co. label on clothing is a guarantee of service and satisfaction. From the time the business was founded, A. Shuman & Co. have given true and loyal service to its customers.

The merchandise has always met the statements made in the newspapers through advertising. The mark down sales are genuine and honest, and the public's quick response is substantial proof of faith and dependability.

The phenomenal success of A. Shuman & Co. is due to fair and square dealing with the public and giving dollar for dollar, and they now stand at the head of the clothing industry in this country. Dependable merchandise sold in a convenient, well-lighted store, is sure to win the confidence of new customers, and it has found the confidence of the old.

MURPHY-CARROLL.

Owen Murphy, of Hudson street, Winchester, well known conductor of the Winchester Ry. Co. and Miss Della Carroll of this town, were united in marriage last week at St. Mary's Rectory by Rev. Fr. Rogers. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the future home of the couple at 10 Main street, after which they left on a short honeymoon.

IN REPLY TO MR. BIRD.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have received a letter from Mr. Charles S. Bird in which he asks me to join in requesting the Governor and council to call a special session of the Legislature to pass a senatorial primary bill. Last summer, when the senatorial primary bill was pending in the Legislature, I took occasion publicly to declare myself strongly in favor of its passage, although it must in fairness be conceded that the same question is not presented by the proposition to call a special session on the eve of election.

But I am not disposed to neglect the opportunity of pressing upon Mr. Bird's attention a subject which is pertinent to his letter. In many of the legislative districts which the Republicans hold from the Democrats by narrow margins, his party has put up candidates who stand no possible chance of election, but who may divert from Republican candidates a sufficient proportion of their normal support to elect Democrats and give to the latter the control of the Legislature.

It is apparent that the course of this new party in nominating third candidates in such districts is tantamount to an active alliance with the particular gentleman who is likely to be the Democratic nominee for United States senator. I have no disposition to make a booby of that gentleman in order to alarm anybody, or to say more about him than that I doubt not he will endure with Christian resignation the verbal castigation which some of Mr. Bird's followers are administering to him when he reflects upon the powerful practical support they are lending to his candidacy.

But the election of a senator from Massachusetts, very important though it be, is far less important than the good government of the state. No patriotic citizen of the commonwealth can be lightly absolved from his obligation to her, nor is he at liberty to treat that obligation as a mere incident in a national movement participated in by him because he thinks a national convention acted unjustly. It is in Vermont the Progressives remained with their party to make the Legislature overwhelmingly Republican, if in Maine they kept an eye single to the interests of their state and helped reclaim the Legislature from Democratic control, why should the Progressives of Massachusetts feel called upon to throw to the winds those principles of local government which had previously animated them? If we regard Massachusetts simply from the standpoint of the taxpayer, she raises each year in the aggregate more than $70,000,000, or twice as much per capita as is raised by the national government itself. The subjects over which she exercises control relate to the education of children, to police and fire protection, to the building of roads, to the administration of justice and to those other subjects which come nearest to the people in their government. Her Legislature has jurisdiction not only over the state, but over the subordinate instrumentalities of government, such as counties, cities and towns whose charters it may change or whose boundaries it may sweep away at will.

But Massachusetts is vastly more than a mere business proposition. She is a venerated personality, holding a proud position among all the political organisms of the world, with a great history, which is the pride of all her people. The commonwealth has been governed by laws passed by legislatures which have been Republican, undeviatingly ever since that party was formed nearly 60 years ago. I think one would assume a heavy burden if he should undertake to name a state, for any length of time under Democratic control, or indeed, any part of the earth's surface, that has during that time been better governed or has furnished better examples of legislation passed in response to the crying impulses of the age.

I doubt that the time has come to change the government of Massachusetts, and to make it more in line of Boston. I believe that the good with which which prevails in the city of Boston, I believe that the good sense and wisdom of her people will not fail her, as they have never failed her in a great crisis in the past. But if that time shall come on the 5th of November and the control of the Legislature of the commonwealth be given over to the Democratic party, then, for that result the party of which Mr. Bird is the leader will be in a position to claim the larger share of the responsibility and the glory.

THE DRESS OF WOMEN.

The following letter by a Winchester lady has been clipped from a Boston daily:

Recent editorials in the morning Herald, and letters in the "Public Letter Box" have severely upbraided women for wearing the dresses and toilet accessories now in vogue.

There is another side to the question which should be heard.

Men have taken into their own hands the designing, manufacturing and selling of women's clothes. The share of women in this enormous and profitable business is negligibly small.

Two classes of women can have garments made suited to their own ideas of beauty and propriety. One is of those who have the ingenuity, skill, time and strength to make their own clothes. In the other are those who have the money to employ first-rate dressmakers, and the force of character to insist on having beautiful and proper garments not so far from current modes as to make the wearers conspicuous. The rest of womankind must wear what the market, controlled by men, affords. I have heard many women denounce the present fashions. I have never heard one admire them. The foolish women who wear indecently transparent waists, sheer and delicate, though they might please the man, did tempt me with $1.49, $2.98, or 35c.

I wish that the gentlemen who so sharply criticize the wearers of the really elegant fashions that pass would do a little shopping themselves. They might not find it a simple matter to find hats, purses, or just the right length and also harmonious in color. They must often be out, this takes time, and sometimes an additional expense, and this perhaps for several hats, two purses to each hat. The average woman has not a superabundance of either time or money for her shopping.

Women buy, but they must choose from what men make and sell. By all means, let the punishment fit the crime, but first identify the criminal and do not award retribution to the helpless victim.

McCALL FOR SENATOR.

The Progressives are sincere men but they handle political figures with strange credulity. They are opposed to Mayor Fitzgerald as United States Senator, and they are unconsciously misled, and the fact is never so patent as when they attempt to disavow it.

According to their latest pronouncement, they are going to elect many members of the Legislature, and so are the Republicans. Then the Progressives elect together and elect the man best qualified for the Senatorship.

That "listen good," as the slang expression has it, but meanwhile what are the Democrats going to do? It is not to be taken for granted that the Progressives will support a Republican candidate. And has it occurred to them that in the event of a really serious schism—a house divided against itself?

There would be few, if any, Progressives of the Legislature, elected to the Legislature. Apparently not. If these two elements are going to get together in support of any particular candidate for United States Senator they would better do so before election. It may be too late, after that date.

By the way, why not unite now on Samuel W. McCall and let Republicans and Progressives combine in candidates for the Legislature pledged to Mr. McCall.

"QUINCY ADAMS SAWYER" AT THE BOSTON THEATRE.

A special production of "Quincy Adams Sawyer" with a cast chosen with excellent regard for their ability in this line of country impersonation, opens a limited engagement at the Boston Theatre this afternoon (Saturday, Nov. 2). There is no question that, in these strenuous days of business life, when competition is so fierce that those who succeed do so only at the expense of a tremendous output of energy, the majority of the people who attend the theatre do so to be taken out of themselves. The play is a tonic in its brightness and its total freedom from the hackneyed and the conventional. As a rural drama it is quite unlike all other plays of its class. Its sentiment possesses a quaint and delicate unobtrusiveness that is quite its own. The laughter that it invariably creates is of a kind that no one can regret.

Special prices will prevail during this engagement of one week. Matinee will be given daily.

Winchester 20, Revere 6.

Revere and Winchester clashed here last Saturday. The town people were most agreeably surprised at the playing of the home team. Revere, having many victories to its credit this season, was expected to inflict a severe punishment upon Winchester. Coach Guillon was highly pleased with his team as they have rounded into fine form since the Dedham game.

Revere was kept upon the defensive throughout the whole contest and merely scored on a fumble which Winchester made on Revere's one yard line. The game was very interesting and was witnessed by about three hundred people.

Winchester's line showed improvement since the previous game but the most marked improvement was in the back field. The interference worked to good advantage and was very noticeable. James Flinn was certainly the star of the game, breaking through the Revere team for long gains. Flinn's attempt at goal from field was an excellent kick, hitting the cross bar but bouncing back. The three touchdowns were made by Flinn and also the two goals. Woods, Tutin, Anderson, Johnson, Randlett and Proctor played well for Winchester while Turville, Galliger and Man excelled for the visiting team.

The next game with Lexington promises to be a fast one as that high school is represented by a strong team.

Winchester's cheering section although small made its singing and cheering heard. Let's have more next time.

The summary:
Score, Winchester 20, Revere 6. Touch downs, Flinn 3, Turville 1. Goals, Flinn 2. Time four 8 minute periods. Referee, Grannon, Empire. G. Proctor, Linesmen, head, D. Tutin, Colburn and Penalligan. Timekeeper, Hanson.

WILD FOREST LANDS.

In addition to the act relative to pensions for town laborers printed in last week's STAR, and to be voted upon at the election next Tuesday is also another relative to the taxation of wild or forest lands which is of a great deal of importance. Under the present state law, all timber standing on forest land is taxed to its full value each year, and as a result many of the landowners are unwilling to allow the young growth to reach maturity. Rather than pay taxes on the young trees year after year, they cut them down as soon as they are large enough for cordwood, and, according to the experts, this practice is resulting in an increasing deforestation of the state.

For a number of years the Boston Chamber of Commerce, the Massachusetts Forestry Association, and others interested in the welfare of the state have urged the passage of an amendment to the constitution allowing a mitigation of such taxation and encouraging the growth of heavy timber. Twice, as is necessary, this amendment has passed the Legislature, in 1911 and 1912, and is now to be passed upon by the voters.

Should it be accepted, a commission is to be appointed to study the existing conditions and to frame a law doing away with taxation of young growth, at the same time compensating the cities and towns whose tax revenue depends largely on forest lands.

A second amendment that has passed two legislatures and is now to be submitted to the people disqualifies from voting "persons temporarily or permanently disqualified by law because of corrupt practices in respect to elections."

THE DOCTOR'S QUESTION.

Much Sickness Due to Bowel Disorders.

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that ninety-eight per cent of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver, and that this condition must be removed gently and thoroughly before health can be restored.

Regular Bowels are a positive, pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of their great remedial value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case when they fail to produce entire satisfaction.

Regular Bowels are eaten like candy. They act quietly and have a soothing, strengthening, healing influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, grip, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effects. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Two sizes, 25c and 10c. Sold only at our store, The Royal Store.

THE WINCHESTER STAR.

VOL. XXXII. NO. 19.

WINCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1912.

ELECTION IN WINCHESTER.

Town Again Polls Record Vote—1586 235 Increase Over Record of 1904.

A perfect fall day, still and balmy, aided in bringing out the largest vote on Tuesday that the town of Winchester has ever had. The fair weather, augmented by the most interesting presidential election this country has ever known, resulted in an enormous vote all over the United States.

Winchester's total vote was 1586. Its next largest vote was in 1904—1351. The total registration this year was 1802, in 1904 the registration was about 1600.

The keenest interest of the local voters was centered in the fight for Senator and Representatives. Winchester candidates being prominent for the offices. The Senatorship went to the Republican candidate, Wilton B. Fay of Medford. The interest centered in this contest in the vote for Wilton B. Fay of Medford and Charles Zuehlbin of this town, the latter a Progressive.

In the Representative contest Mr. Winfield E. Prime, Republican, won out. In the contest in Winchester he defeated Mr. James J. Fitzgerald, Progressive, by 63 votes.

The town went for Taft as predicted, although Roosevelt lost to him by only 48 votes. The Progressives were the most active of the three parties in the campaign, and on the morning of election day claimed to control 750 of the votes. Their actual strength outside of the offices with local candidates appeared to be a little over 400, although Roosevelt and Zuehlbin ran close to 600.

Mr. Detrick, Dem., won in the eighth congressional district, his vote being 12,386, to Dallinger's 11,209, and Long's 6680.

The vote was steady throughout the day, and early in the morning all previous big figures were surpassed and a record vote assured.

The voting was done as usual in the small Town Hall, it being rearranged for the election, this year. Ten new voting booths had been added, making a total of 30, and with this addition there were times when from six to eight voters were waiting inside the railings for a chance to use a booth. The voters did not have to wait any length of time, however, and were passed quickly and promptly by the tellers at both ends. In fact the rush hour from 7 to 8:30 was handled the best for many elections. In leaving the polls the voters passed into the main hall by way of the rear entrance, and at the ballot box checking list the tellers were placed on a raised platform, which was an improvement over former conditions.

The enormous vote filled the ballot box before eight o'clock, and it became necessary to straighten out the ballots at frequent intervals. The old ballot box was brought out in case it was needed, but was not used.

The tellers and election officers were under the direction of the Selectmen and consisted of the following: William Adams, Arthur W. Hale, Howard Cosgrove, Frank E. Rogers, Bernard E. Matthews, James H. O'Connor, Fred A. Parsley, Robert H. Sullivan, Daniel W. Pratt, James R. Livingstone and Harry V. Nutter.

The large ballot and big vote resulted in much more work than usual for the tellers and clerks, and the vote was not counted until 8:30. The Medford vote for wards 1 and 2 was not announced until late in the following forenoon, the polls there not closing until 5 p. m.

Following we give the vote in Winchester, and the district vote for Representative and Senator. In the more important offices the vote is given at the right for 1912 and 1904.

THE ADVERTISING CARNIVAL.

Fast reaching their completion are the plans of the Fortnightly ladies for their great Advertising Carnival of next Friday and Saturday. That the Fortnightly is well versed in the management of fairs has already been demonstrated to our townspeople, but this year the club is undertaking an entirely new proposition, something as unique as it is interesting. For not only is the Advertising Carnival to include all the usual features of the ordinary fair, with its over-lavish booths of home-made merchandise, but it is also going to offer the added attraction of professional displays and advertising.

As many as half a dozen firms will occupy individual booths which they will decorate and arrange to suit themselves, while over a hundred advertisers will be represented by samples of their wares, by posters, by clever vaudeville skits, and by various devices of their own choosing.

Another unusual feature of the Carnival will be the decoration of the hall, instead of the customary crepe paper flowers and streamers, the walls and balconies will be ornamented with the gay posters of the advertisers.

The entertainment, too, will carry out still further the advertising theme. There will be the "Song and Dance of the Danth Clansmen" Women led by Dr. Humes and Mr. Willey, the "Dance of the Campbell Soup Kids," and the "Song of the Chorus Ceylon Tea Girls." In the Motor Car will be repeated by request.

In addition to the many other attractions of the Carnival, there will be a sale in the small Town Hall which will be open at all hours for the sale of coffee, tea, chocolate, rolls, sandwiches, ice cream, and other refreshments, and workers to stay through the afternoon and evening, if desired.

The doors will be open each day at 2 p. m., and will close at 10 o'clock. Tickets of admission will be 10c for adults and 5c for children, and every one is urged to come and see the Carnival, whether he buys anything or not.

For it will be a sight worth seeing, and moreover, the price of every ticket sold and of every sale made will go toward the support of a good cause, namely the philanthropic work of the Fortnightly here in Winchester. Below is the list of the ladies in charge.

PROFESSOR CURRIER.

His Work on School Board Deserves an Expression of Gratitude.

November 5, 1912.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

It is not right that Professor C. E. A. Currier should retire from the School Board without an expression, by those who are familiar with his work, of the debt of gratitude which is owed to him by the town of Winchester.

It is no uncommon thing for the town to be served most efficiently and loyally by its public spirited citizens, but it is doubtful if any citizen, within the last quarter of a century at least, has given to the town such loyal, effective and expert service as so great a person I sacrifice as Mr. Currier. When he came to the School Board about eleven years ago, he brought with him a knowledge of educational matters probably not possessed by any citizen of the town. Not only is he head of the Department of History at the Institute of Technology, but he has been chairman at one time of another of its committee on relations with secondary schools, and also an active member of the committee on entrance examinations.

This expert knowledge has been used in a most practical way—something which cannot be said of the methods of many educational theorists. His handling of the financial budget of the School Board has been a remarkable piece of work showing business capacity combined with the power of impressing upon the town meeting his views as to appropriations. He never asked for anything which in his judgment the committee ought not to have. As a result he gained the confidence of the town to an extraordinary degree and always got what he asked for.

Until the election of the present superintendent Mr. Currier performed no small part of the duties of superintendent. I recall in one year he made more than one hundred visits on the schools. All this service was rendered without compensation, at great personal sacrifice, and often in the face of criticism. Combined with all these qualities, he has a love for and loyalty to Winchester which is not excelled by any citizen.

Had Mr. Currier died in office the citizens would have contributed generously toward some form of memorial. Why not give him an opportunity to enjoy in his life time some form of appreciation? I suggest that the school board secure a tablet which shall be placed in the High School which shall be inscribed with appropriate words of appreciation.

I am sending today a check to Marcus B. May, Esq., of the School Board, as a starter towards such a fund.

WIDE-AWAKE BIBLE LECTURE.

Evangelist A. M. Graham has accepted the invitation to deliver his famous Bible lecture on "The Bible Plan of the Ages," illustrated by chart, next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Waterfield Hall.

He is pleased to come here and thinks it a good sign that both Catholics and Protestants, in looking back to that period often termed the Dark Ages, find that now we are able to think more logically along spiritual lines than our forefathers, and a good sign, also, that our hearts are in truer and nobler condition, even though our heads have not yet gotten into proper adjustment with our hearts, and we still look at crooked doctrines and try to imagine them altogether straight.

He claims that, theoretically, Protestant doctrines stand with the Scriptures and with Catholics, and declares that Heaven is the place of perfection, that there is no change to any who enter there, hence that all trial, all repentance, all chiseling, all polishing in all character must be accomplished in advance of an entrance into the abode of the saints. All agree that only the saints will ever enter Heaven, the "pure in heart," the "overcomers," the "little flock," who now walk by faith in the footsteps of Jesus.

"But," queries Mr. Graham, "what about the remainder of mankind? Our larger hearts will not consent that all except the saints must spend an eternity of torture, even if this is the logic of our creeds, reason protests. Three-fourths of humanity today are heathen and full that proportion of humanity altogether have never heard of God and the term of salvation. What about them?"

This lecture is said to be of special interest to Christians and to non-Christians as well. It is said that the speaker tackles the problems of life and death in a practical way, meeting fearlessly the questions propounded above. The lecture is said to be broad-minded enough to permit of closest reasoning and to afford a solid Scriptural basis for every assertion made.

All expenses connected with this lecture have been met by voluntary subscriptions. There will be no admission fee, or collections of any kind. It is to be absolutely free and open to the public.

FREE LECTURE.

First Church of Christ, Scientist, Winchester, announces a free lecture in Christian Science, by Mr. Frank H. Leonard, C. S. B., of Chicago, member of the Board of Lecturers of the Mother Church at the Winchester Town Hall, next Monday, at 8 p. m. The Town Hall has been chosen for this occasion because it is believed a very large number of non-Scientists in Winchester and vicinity, and in the surrounding communities, will be desirous of hearing this important and instructive speaker.

No admission fee, no collection, but no invitation extended to the Scientifics of Winchester to attend the lecture, as they are not in admission charge.

Mr. Leonard is an able exponent of the doctrine of Christian Science, having given to the world, by Mrs. Baker Eddy, whether in agreement or disagreement with this doctrine, wholly or partially, those who may attend this lecture will, at least be enlightened with regard to its principle and aims.

PROGRESSIVE MOVEMENT APPLIED TO TOWN PROBLEMS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

It is much easier and far more dramatic to work to save the nation at election time than it is to be an actively good citizen of Winchester throughout the year, including the ten or fifteen hours of town meetings. The extent to which the people have failed to rule, corresponds so closely with the extent of apathy of the people and of mere parlor citizenship as to suggest a relation of effect and cause. The great accomplishment of the recent campaign is in awakening all over the country a sense of civic responsibility, raising even to the point of aggressive action hosts of able men, particularly those not over middle age, who heretofore have never worked to solve a governmental problem. The people will rule when they will to rule and great will be the resulting benefits. In state and national affairs this can be accomplished only in cycles of elections, but locally nothing hinders immediate progress. Winchester has no bosses, on machines, no party lines in local elections, and no graft in office. It has the most sanely democratic type of government in the United States and perhaps in the world. The people of Winchester have always had and now have full opportunity to rule town affairs. What is the result? Are civic conditions approximately perfect? No. We yield to no suburb of Boston but we should not be satisfied until we can answer yes to such questions as these:

Are we doing all the town as such can do to make living conditions in the district north of the Center better and to encourage land owners and tenants here to do the same? Are we in a sufficiently broad way educating our foreign population in the rights and obligations of citizenship in a Republic? Have we seen to it that these people are not living in overcrowded and unsanitary houses? Are our industries conducted according to the highest standards of law with respect to the safety and health of their operatives and neighbors? Have we exterminated all unsightly and unhealthy hog-holes? Are we making the most of our ponds and streams and their banks? Are the public service corporations giving us the service we have a right to expect?

Every citizen should feel responsible for the answer to such questions. Let us have criticism, but for every adverse criticism let there be both a constructive suggestion and a step taken to enforce it. The Deliberative Assembly offers the facilities of an organization devoted to the welfare of Winchester. With a large membership of the truly progressive voters of Winchester (the maximum age limit is 15 years) could help mightily. The people of Winchester united and determined can accomplish any reasonable end.

Yours truly,
Charles E. Dutch

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

Rally Day was observed by the Sunday School last Sunday. A large number being present from all departments of the school. The songs were sung from a large screen and Bible verses were given between the singing.

"Flags" and "Rally Day Hymns" were given to all present.

A fine program was carried out. The school was addressed by Mr. Harry T. Wynn, Superintendent of the Baptist School, and also by Mr. Geo. S. Cabot of the Congregational Sunday School. Some choice solos were given by the boys soprano, Master Harry Herbolzheimer of Reading.

The pastor delighted the younger scholars as he opened a box of 100 rolls of candy and later had them distributed. The Sunday School rooms have been put in most beautiful and attractive condition since the fire of last summer.

Tuesday evening the Young People's Society of the church held the first of a series of fall and winter socials, after a short business meeting when three new members were voted into membership the meeting was given into the care of the social department, the remainder of the evening was spent in a helpful way. Mr. Raymond Adams entertained the company with the stereopticon. Poems were read and illustrated songs sung from the screen and a general good time enjoyed. Refreshments were served and all declared the gathering a success.

The all day meeting of the Ladies' Aid will be held Thursday at the parsonage.

THE ELECTION RETURNS.

The election returns were received in Winchester on Tuesday night at the Casino Club and at the headquarters of the Progressive party on Walnut street. At the Casino Club there were about 100 present. An operator was stationed in the hall and the returns given out as fast as received. During the evening a collation was served. The Progressive vote was worked in the same way. The crowd at the room could not be accommodated, many waiting outside to receive the messages. At both places the first returns showed a landslide for Wilson, and the messages during the evening were all of the same tenor.

WINCHESTER ORCHESTRAL ASSOCIATION.

Public Drawing of Subscribers' Seats, November 19th.

The Orchestra's opening concert for the season takes place Tuesday evening, December 4th.

Rehearsals are progressing most satisfactorily, and the Orchestra under Mr. Hadley's able leadership is working enthusiastically and with better results than ever before.

A delightful entertainment may be looked for on the opening night. A full program will be given in a later edition of the STAR.

The public drawing of Associate Members seats for the season will take place at the Town Hall, Tuesday, November 19th at 7:45 p. m. It is hoped that the weather will be more propitious than it was on this occasion last year, and that a somewhat larger attendance will be present. The names of all subscribers will be placed in a box and drawn therefrom by lot. The first name drawn will have the first choice of seats, provided the owner of the name is present.

Subscribers not present either in person or by proxy will have their seats assigned to them by the Executive committee after those who are present have made their choice. Ample notice will be sent by mail to each subscriber, but members who have not sent in their subscriptions prior to November 19th cannot participate in the drawing.

JOHN CAMPBELL WAS RESPONSIBLE.

Everyone who attended the recent electric show in Mechanics Building, knows what a big success it proved to be. And yet but few know the immense amount of work that it entailed. More than two years were required to work out the details, but it was well worth while. Winchester was interested in the show because one of its citizens, John Campbell, was the moving spirit.

When a big Exposition is pulled off, somebody has to work day and night. There are people who do this and let everybody know about it; and there are others who do it and nobody knows anything about it. In the latter class are the men who, while not exactly sleight-of-hand artists, are sleuths. Not always do they have to be sleuths in the detection of crime, but they may be sleuths in the discovery and bringing to light of novelties and big features. John Campbell has been this kind of a sleuth.

He, more than anyone else, was responsible for the magnificent exhibit of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., where were shown many of Edison's latest inventions. He also was responsible for the installation and successful operation of the loud speaking telephone equipment, with its ninety stations distributed over the great building. He is the prime inventor, chief criminal and arch fiend in connection with the "Talking Punkin".

Mr. Campbell has been busy in the electrical field for some time. He began in 1892 on marine work. In 1897 he took charge of the installation and operation of the first electric light plant in Old Orchard, Mass. In 1903 he assumed the management of the City Point from Works electric lighting plant. From there he went to the Boston and Maine Railroad, and later in 1906, he took charge of the operation of the electric lighting plant that was installed at the Navy Yard in Charlestown. In 1907 Mr. Campbell became a consulting engineer in the electrical field. In 1909 he organized and assumed the management of the Electric Auditing Co. He gave up that business in July, 1908 to take charge of the Special Service Department, which was organized in the Boston Edison Company at that time.

The new craft is 150 feet long with a beam of 45 feet and 8 inches, while the depth of her hold is 30 feet 3 inches. This gives her a gross tonnage of 1700 tons.

Her displacement is 6600 tons and the 6000 horsepower engines with which she is equipped give her a speed of 18 knots.

Much attention has been given to passenger accommodations, and with the 250 staterooms, she can carry 700 people besides her crew of 90.

In the forward end of the steamer and leading from the grand entrance, there is a large social hall of music room, 50 feet by 100 feet, all of which are several "staterooms de luxe." The dining saloon, which accommodates for 150 people, is on the main deck, forward of the grand stairway and is 60 feet by 35 feet. She has six decks, all necessary life saving apparatus in compliance with the new federal law, is equipped with Lord Kelvin's sounding machines and a powerful wireless telegraph set.

This popular line promises to become more popular than ever with tourists next summer.

MISS ISABELLE HINDS.

Miss Isabelle Hinds, sister of town engineer James Hinds, passed away at her mother's home on Forest street Monday after an illness of several months. She was 48 years of age, and for some time had made her home in New York, coming to this town about six months ago.

She was born at Newburg, N. Y., and was the daughter of David and Elizabeth Hinds. She is survived by her mother, three sisters and two brothers.

The funeral services were private and held on Tuesday from the residence, Rev. William Fryling of the Second Congregational Church officiated. The burial was in the family lot at Wildwood Cemetery.

Commenting with the 15th of November the postoffice of Winchester will have an additional letter carrier. The new carrier will be James W. Kelley, who is at present first substitute. This will give the postoffice a force of nine carriers.

In accordance with the recommendation of this department the carriers' schedule will be so arranged that they will work 8 hours out of every 24. The present schedule covers 12 hours. To make this change, the mail about town will be delivered a half hour later in the forenoon and a half hour earlier in the afternoon.

"IMAGINATION IS LIFE."

At the Unitarian Church Sunday morning Mr. Metcalf will speak of the importance of imagination in all departments of life and especially in the realm of religion where the faculty of imagination and faith are so near akin.

3rd ANNIVERSARY.

This month of November marks the 3rd anniversary of "The Colgate Services." Winchester was the first field to be worked, but now these services have been extended throughout greater Boston.

"The Colgate Services," taken as the latest example of what they stand for are coming to be recognized as the leading and most profitable in Boston. This reputation is sustained by fulfilling the requirements of every patron in a conscientious manner.

At the "Advertising Bazaar" to be given by the Fortnightly on Friday and Saturday of next week "The Colgate Services" will be represented in a space in the center of the big hall. One of our Native workers will be there to demonstrate and answer any questions regarding the way in which advertising is being done in the world.

We extend a cordial invitation to all. Wm. Homer Colgate.

WISTARIA CLUB DANCE.

The fifth annual dancing party of the Wistaria Club was held in the Town Hall Wednesday evening, about 500 attending. The dance was the most successful ever held by the club. The hall was decorated in the most tasteful fashion by the young ladies, with festoons of beautiful wistaria blossoms and potted palms and ferns. The orchestra was placed on the stage. During the evening refreshments were served by Young the caterer.

OUR ANNUAL OFFER.

Once every year the Winchester STAR makes an annual offer of a reduction in rates to secure new subscribers. This is done in order to interest every man, woman and child in Winchester in this paper and to give them an opportunity to become steady subscribers to the Winchester STAR.

Our regular subscription rate is $2 per year, but to all new subscribers who pay Two Dollars in advance, the issues from this date until January 1st will be mailed without extra cost. There are, practically no restrictions on this offer, except that it is for strictly new subscribers whose names are not now borne on our mailing list, and there will be no transfer from the name of one member of a family to another of the same family in the same house.

The new Progressive party can give the older organizations points on how to manage a political campaign.

The defeat of Hon. Frederick W. Dallinger for Congress is to be regretted. He would have been an excellent Progressive Congressman, and a fitting successor to Mr. McCall. His turn will come in time, however.

The political overturn has resulted in a Democratic Congressman and a State Senator for this district for the first time in many years. This was looked for when the Progressive party became active in State offices.

A candidate for congress from Framingham announced that, "If elected I will stand for the people against the coal trust, railway monopoly, the express trust, the money trust, beef trust, shoe machinery trust, the Harvester trust, oil trust, steel trust, cold storage trust, and all illegal combinations." He should have also included the gas trust. But it was too bad that such a versatile man should have been defeated. He evidently put too much trust in the simplicity of the voters in his district.

A determined effort will be made to secure the active cooperation of the Charlestown United Improvement Association and the influence and personal good will of its seven thousand affiliated members in obtaining for Charlestown the removal of the elevated structure along Main street. The question will be taken to the Legislature. It was proposed, a short time ago, to eliminate the grade crossing in Winchester by elevating the tracks of the Boston & Maine Railroad through the town. Elevated railroads are hideous, dirty and an injury to property and scenery, and Charlestown realized this years ago.

W. H. S. NOTES.

Wray Rohman has appointed Gilbert Sweet, 13 manager of the track team. Raymond Stroudridge is captain of the football team and Howard Proctor, 14 was elected in his place.

The first of the senior orators were given in the Assembly Hall last Tuesday. Florence Amos spoke on "Clara Barton" and Hilda Johnson spoke on "The Swedish Emigrant."

There will be a football game this afternoon at Stoughton and everyone ought to go to Stoughton and cheer the team on to victory.

The next football game at Winchester will be played with the strong Arlington team next Wednesday, Nov. 14. We are going to trim Arlington in football the way we did last time in base ball at Arlington. So everybody come and see the game.

A boys V. A. meeting was held Monday after recess. The secretary read his report for October and it was accepted. It was moved and seconded that the president appoint a committee for a dance which will be held sometime in December.

Two senior orations were given Tuesday morning. Marjorie Burwell spoke on "The Montessori Method" and Francis Gietty spoke on "Advertising."

The first number of the Recorder was issued Monday and is a vast improvement over previous years. It contains an excellent editorial written by H. Wray Rohman which is well worth reading.

The students are planning to form a Glee Club about the middle of the month.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF SANTA MARIA COURT.

The annual banquet of Santa Maria Court, D. of L. of Winchester, will be held Monday evening, Nov. 18, in the K. of C. Hall. SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

November 4, 1912.

Board met at 7:35 p. m. all present.

Records of the previous session approved.

The separation of the highway department payroll for the week ending November 2nd was received from the superintendent of streets and ordered transmitted to the town auditor. The principal items for the week were: Repair work on Pond street; surface drainage work on Lincoln street; sidewalk construction on Swanton street, Johnson Flat, Oak and Holland street, cleaning streets and the collection of leaves. Total payroll $84.02.

The monthly report was received from the town auditor showing balances to the credit of the various appropriations October 31, 1912, to be expended under the direction of the Selectmen.

The monthly report of the Chief of Police was received and filed.

Mr. George S. Horstford, Business Manager, Lyceum Comedy Co., 41 Belden street, Dorchester, appeared before the board and asked for permission to use the Town Hall on such evenings and Saturday afternoons as it was not rented for other purposes for the purpose of conducting a moving picture exhibition with descriptive songs and lectures. The matter was discussed by the board with Mr. Horstford but no action was taken.

Mr. Arnold Whitaker, Town Auditor appeared and asked that the committee on accounts confer with him at an early date in regard to the condition of certain accounts.

In regard to the practice of the Winchester Automobile Company and other automobile concerns in backing automobiles across the sidewalks, Mr. Jewett made a report and the matter was referred back to him for further attention.

A letter was received from the Bay State Street Railway Company filing with the board its acceptance of locations for tracks as follows:

The Bay State Street Railway Company hereby accepts, subject to and in accordance with all general laws thereto applicable, the location for its tracks in Church and Main streets, and relocation in Forest street from the present easterly end of the turnout in said street to the Stoneham line, in the Town of Winchester, established under orders of the selectmen of said town dated July 28, 1912, July 15, 1912 and September 12, 1912, respectively, and certified by the Honorable Board of Railroad Commissioners of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to be consistent with the public interest in its order dated October 14, 1912.

A letter was received from Henry C. Metcalf as follows:

"I thank you for your notice of the action of the Convention electing me to membership of the School Committee, and qualified. Through you I wish to express to the Board of Selectmen of the Town of Winchester and to the members of the School Committee my sincere appreciation of the confidence thus bestowed. I am looking forward to the new work with much interest."

Under the authority of the vote passed at the town meeting of June 10, 1912, it was voted that the license forms and applications therefor submitted by the committee on Town Hall be printed and the cost charged to the Town Hall account.

Under suspension of the rules, Messrs. Charles N. Harris of 1 Hillside avenue, George Nelles, 5 Wolcott road, and Phineas A. Nickerson of a Church street, were appointed a board of appeal under section 8 of the building by-laws of the town of Winchester adopted at the town meeting of March 10th, 1912.

The town council recommended that members of the board attend the public hearing to be given by the joint board of railroad and highway commissioners November 7th to consider whether any change should be made in the present apportionment of the cost of abolishing grade crossings as provided in Chapter 125 of the Resolves of 1912.

Selectmen Pond and Jewett reported progress for the week on the grade crossing matter.

On the letter received from the Arlington Gaslight Company October 21st in regard to providing ventilating pipes for their governor pit at the corner of Everett avenue and Sheffield road, the town engineer reported that he had talked with Mr. Locke of the Arlington Gaslight Company concerning the method of ventilating the pit and Mr. Locke stated the company would place a hollow iron post, one of the kind used for gas lamps, inside of which the ventilating pipe would be placed, and to which the street sign Sheffield road would be attached. The company would attach the sign and keep the post painted and in good repair as long as it was used for the purpose. It would be necessary to dig a shallow trench from the governor pit to the point where the post would be placed. The matter was referred to the highway committee with full power.

On the complaint of Timothy Sullivan, 65 Nelson street, presented October 21st that the electric poles on that street were wrongly located not leaving enough space for travel, the town engineer reported that he had taken measurements from the fences on the westerly side of Nelson street and which were well defined as to line and position, and found that they were respectively 12.75-14.1-15.1- and 14.2 feet from the westerly line, that there seemed to be plenty of sidewalk room except along the property of Timothy Sullivan where the grading projected into the sidewalk about two feet. If the sidewalk at that place were made wider and the poles were set uniformly seven feet at their street face from the westerly line, there would then be enough room for a new foot and walk and a three foot planting space and the street face of the pole would be one foot distance from the gutter, and that this depended on whether the work of constructing a foot space on the easterly side of Nelson street were undertaken or not. The report was referred back to the town engineer for recommendation.

On the request of John W. Richardson, Postmaster, presented October 28th and referred to the town engineer, the latter reported that he had made a plan for renumbering and it was voted that Railroad avenue, be renumbered in accordance with the plan of the town engineer.

A letter was received from the committee on the petition of the town of Winchester and the town of Stoneham, dated October 20th, 1912, by Mr. Metcalf and himself for the town of Winchester and by William L. Carter, Street Commissioner and Fred C. Chase, City Engineer for the town of Stoneham.

The Open Door to Long Distance Calls

Sometimes the magic of a long distance call will open a door that otherwise might remain closed. Big men make big deals by telephone. The telephone intimates that time is precious and that glittering generalities may be omitted. It enables the dealer to concentrate upon the material facts presented. It protects him from losses. That's why he likes it.

If written confirmation of his oral approval is desired, that can be obtained simply by asking that it be forwarded.

Try it and satisfy yourself.

PREPONDERANCE OF MEN.

By the census of 1910 Massachusetts has 53,929 more females than males, but in the country at large there are 2,662,288 more males than females. Besides Massachusetts, there are only four other states where the feminine population predominates—Rhode Island, Maryland, North Carolina and South Carolina.

The census reports show that the western states are responsible for bringing up the ratio of the males, there being 129.5 males to every 100 females in the Pacific states, and 127.9 to every 100 females in the mountain states. The outnumbering of female population by male is due largely to the preponderance of male immigration.

The foreign born population there are 129 males to every 100 females, the native born white population ratio being 102 males to 100 females.

Boston has 11,179 more females than males. In Cambridge the excess is 4,517. In Lowell 3,244, in Providence 3,750, in Philadelphia 28,082.

In Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Louis and Pittsburgh, males predominate by a slight margin, and the borough of Brooklyn is the only part of New York City where women predominate.

As a general thing the sexes are very nearly on a par in the cities, but in the country districts the men are in the large majority. The classification of the cities show 21,496,181 males and 21,127,202 females, and of the rural population, 25,836,099 males and 23,512,787 females.

STEEL ON HAND FOR NEW GAS HOLDER.

Iron and steel for the new 500,000 cubic foot gas holder of the Arlington Gas Light Co. has arrived from the manufacturers, Davis and Farnum of Waltham, and is ready for erection at the gas company's works on Mystic street, Arlington.

It is impossible to say just how long the work will take but it will be pushed with all available speed. At the same time the company has just completed through the Light, Heat and Power Corporation of Boston the installation of new purifying machinery which doubles the capacity of the plant in this respect. There was no need of apparatus to increase the purity of the gas as it ranks very high in grade, but the company wished to be doubly sure of maintaining this standard while it increased its capacity at the same time.

During the past month the Arlington Gas Light Co. has completed new mains as follows: In Arlington, extension on Massachusetts avenue, Lafayette street, Bartlett avenue, in Belmont on Beech street, Wilson avenue, Francis avenue, in Winchester on Cambridge street, Wedgemere avenue, and Foxcroft road.

Isaiah v. 7-16—Nov. 10.

"We unto them that rise up early in the morning, that they may follow strong drink; that tarry late into the night, till wine inflame."—Vs. 11.

TODAY'S lesson had its primary force in connection with the affairs of natural Israel in the days of the Prophet. But when we remember that Natural Israel types Christendom, we find a value to this lesson very pertinent to our time. "And He looked for judgment [justice], but behold, oppression; for righteousness and, behold, a cry of distress." As to the national cry and the reason for it, see verse 8, which reads: "Woe unto them that join house to house, that lay field to field, till there be no place, that they may be placed alone in the midst of the earth." Here we perceive that a spirit of selfishness prevailed in Israel's day, as it does today; as then property was disposed to accumulate in the hands of the more successful, so it is today. As then landlordism took possession of vast areas, neglectful of the fact that "the earth bath the Lord given unto the children of men," and not merely to a few, so it is today.

A Time of Trouble.

Divine disapproval of human hardness, selfishness and neglect of poorer brethren, and forgetfulness of the fact that we are all children of one blood, amenable to the laws of the same Creator, brought upon the Israelites Divine judgments. We believe that the Scriptures with "Corporations have equal clearness tell 'grasped land' of a great 'time of trouble' now impending over the world, especially over Christendom—a time particularly mentioned by St. James, saying, "Go to now, ye rich men, weep and howl for the misery that shall come upon you."

This trouble is mentioned in today's study, verse 9: "The Lord of Hosts said in his hearing, Of a truth many houses shall be desolate, even great and fair, without inhabitant."

If we rightly appreciate what the Scriptures foresaw respecting times not far ahead of us, we will see that many of the great and rich will be in a sad plight in their countryside homes, as will be some of the poorer in the congested cities, for the time of trouble, it is declared, will be upon all.

Musio, Revelry, Intoxication.

The text given us for today's lesson comes next in our study. In the days of Israel's prophecy many of the rich indulged in intoxicating liquors, music, revelry, etc., to their own injury as well as to the neglect of their responsibilities to God. They asked, "Am I my brother's keeper?" even as Cain asked this question. By their accumulated wealth they had more than heart could wish, while others were needy.

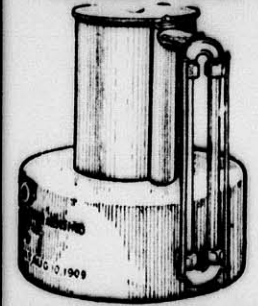

And how about today, is it the same? We answer, Yes, and no. With many it is the same exactly, but with a considerable number of the wealthy of our day it is very different, we are glad to say. Continually we have evidences that some of the wealthy consider their possessions as a trust from the Almighty, to be used in His service, and for the sake of humanity. But alas, there are comparatively few. The majority of the rich, like the majority of the poor, are selfish to the core.

When the selfish rich and the selfish poor shall join issue in a great struggle, as the Bible clearly declares they will do, then the world will see the time of trouble prophesied—"such as never was since there was a nation"—a time of trouble which Jesus declares will never be again, because, following that great trouble, upon the ashes of the present civilization, Messiah will establish the Kingdom of God, for the blessing of all the families of the earth—the rich, the poor.

Thus Solomon, according to the Bible, will be the ultimate condition of the earth. Socialists, not aware of this teaching of God's Word, or if aware of it, not taking it into the truest of all mankind, who are now in the hands of the comparatively few. To appear dangerous, impractical. To us it appears as the Scriptures indicate, that failing to accomplish their benevolent designs, Socialists will become bitter anarchists, and plunge themselves and the whole world into the most awful trouble ever known. We need the conversion of the world to a heart harmonious with God and the principles of righteousness.

Will this ever come? Ah, yes! The mouth of the Lord hath spoken it! But it cannot come through any power of ours. "Wait ye upon Me, saith the Lord, until that day." "For then will I turn to the people a pure language, that they may all call upon the name of the Lord to serve Him with one consent." In His own time, following the great time of trouble, God will have the world. Mountains the earth shall be glorified and with Messiah, constitute the long promised Kingdom of God for the blessing of humanity.

After the items of business had been disposed of a social hour closed a very profitable and enjoyable evening. Light refreshments were served by Mrs. L. W. Adams and Mrs. Marilla Armstrong.

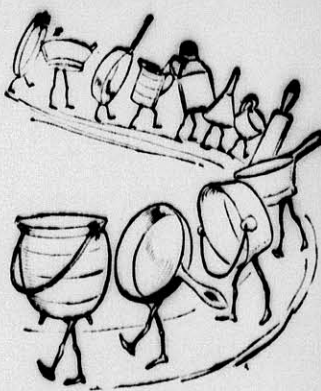

The ladies showed much interest in the coming supper to the men and a large attendance is expected from both classes.

YOUNG AFFAIRS AND MINE.

The Spectator often wonders why it is that most people as they walk along the streets have such an unpleasant expression. It one will observe even casually the people he meets in a day he will be impressed with the pained and disagreeable countenance. We live in a rush, and the average person is bent on some errand of business and is absorbed in that, we are all rushing to get something or somewhere. With this absorbing our attention we haven't time to attend to our facial expression. The Spectator is not certain, however, that this is a matter of permissible indifference. It one does not believe that his countenance adds to or detracts anything from the lives or expressions of others, let him pause for a moment before that non-celebrated "Billiken." It is almost impossible to look at the little imp and not smile. The Japanese teach their maids in the hotels, and those also in higher walks of life, the art of smiling. They are compelled to practice before a mirror. One cannot stay long in Japan without being inculcated with the disposition to "look pleasant." The "look pleasant, please," of the photographer goes deeper than the photograph plate. No one wants to associate long with an animated vinegar cruet. A disposition is easily guessed from the angles of the corners of the mouth; a disposition is molded by compelling those angles to turn up or down. If a merry heart maketh a glad countenance, it is also true that a glad countenance maketh a merry heart—in the one who has it and in the one who beholds it. "Iron sharpeneth iron. So a man sharpeneth the countenance of his friend."

A young STAR reader wants some advice of The Spectator. The young man says he has a nice "nest egg" laid aside and now is thinking seriously of entering the marriage state. Well, The Spectator's advice is just this: "Don't wait for the woman to come to you, beware of the flirt, for if she flirts with you she may flirt with number two. The good wife will not come to you asking if you want a housekeeper. You will be obliged to go after the good wife. Seek for her until you find her. You can get her. See that she has a womanly character for a woman without a character is not worth having. Let her be one to whom you can look as your better half, for after all the good wife is more a superior being than a pet. There are many here in Winchester who will not acknowledge this, but it is true of the woman of noble character. Choose a wife of good habits, for evil habits grow like weeds. Many a woman has been led to the marriage altar as pure as a lily in appearance, but there has been back of it an evil habit of habits, and often has been the case that the beautiful woman turned out a miserable wreck, for it was only artificial beauty. Remember the statistic is not always real. You do not want a sample of art for a wife. Never marry for beauty. It will fade away some day. Choose a wife with the right kind of a tongue. Never take a woman for a wife who can say bad things about other people or who can tell evil or unkind things about others by the yard. Do not take a wife who is that or you will have a storm in your house some day, such as the Atlantic and the Pacific never dreamed of. Take one who is always anxious to speak good and kind words about others. This, young man, is The Spectator's serious advice on "choosing a wife."

A very close friend of The Spectator's who lost a little daughter, told him how he went out to his stable, intending to put an end to his own life. He was called into the house by his wife, the suicidal impulse passed, and he never again felt any inclination to self-murder. Little did that wife think that she was saving a husband to herself by her call just in the psychological moment. A man in Boston, who had been in business, sent some securities to be sold in Europe. He did not receive the returns in time and committed suicide. Two days after his death news came from England that his securities had been sold at a price which would have fitted him out of all embarrassment. The moral is, a man should always wait two days before killing himself. The Spectator has at hand some sad statistics of the causes reported for the suicides of a single year, which numbered nearly 10,000. 4000 were from despondency, 1000 from insanity, 2000 from domestic infelicity, 2000 disappointment in love, and only 123 from business losses. These figures show that financial reasons are less prominent than some suppose as a cause for suicide. No cure for this tendency of self-murder can be certain, but The Spectator would urge the cultivation of optimism, and throw down any tendencies one may find to pessimism, either in himself or in his friends. This is a good world to live in on the way to a better. Browning gave a good word in his words, "Gods in the heaven, all's right with the world." The suicide is like a deserter in life's battle, and the deserter is universally condemned. One ought to stand at his post until he is fairly relieved. What shall we think of the man who takes his own life because he has family troubles, and leaves a wife and children to struggle for daily bread without the help of the natural bread winner? In the opinion of The Spectator and all right thinking men, public sentiment is too tolerant of this, talk about being tired of life, when man ends in going out of life through one's own act.

Psychologists used to wonder years ago just how to analyze the strong inclination to throw one's self over the edge every time one happens to be on the brink of a high monument or building or tower. They have never wholly explained it, though, doubtless in dis-sociating the cerebral from the spinal nervous systems they have hit upon the germ of truth which will ultimately explain such sensations. The chronic vision of the sufferer and the curious illusion of "seeing backward"—that travelers often experience in railroad trains at night when looking out of the car windows are sensations that have also puzzled science considerably. A Winchester gentleman who has made a study of psychology has discovered what he believes is a brand new sensation for the mind visionists to dissect. The next time you have to stand in a trolley car, and if you are a man it will be quite soon, he said to The Spectator, support your weight pretty steadily by means of one arm and the strap. I mean by that do not change arms to rest yourself. After you have ridden about 15 minutes, notice the result. If you will for a moment free your mind of other things and concentrate your idea on the arm that has been stiffened out above you, you will have a most ridiculous sensation of having an extremely long as your natural arm plus the strap. Until you break the spell by flexing your arm you will actually feel as if your own arm is pushing up against the wooden railing upon which the straps are hung. Pushing, moreover, and not pulling. I have tried this simple little experiment again and again. Although my eyes tell me that my other senses are deceiving me, I feel for all the world as if I were pushing up on this arm instead of pulling down. The feeling is strongest when the car is rounding curves and the pressure downward on the strap is greatest. Now, can psychology explain this?

The Spectator.

The young ladies of the Philathea Class of the Second Congregational Church are certainly adepts in providing entertainments. All that they undertake is successful, and the diversion to a bean supper in the church last Friday evening was successfully accomplished and carried out. The beans were delicious, and the good housewives at the Highlands need be given no points on how to prepare the succulent bean, as all who partook of them will testify. The pies and cake, too, were excellent, so too was the coffee. Every seat at the tables was occupied, and when all had their wants attended to, there was precious little left. This is testimony enough for the quality of the food. After the tables had been removed there was a spelling bee. The supper cost but fifteen cents per head, which was an indication that the cost of living is being reduced.

WILL GO TO TRIAL.

Judge Littlefield has overruled the motion to quash, made by Attorney John P. Feeney in the case of the town of Winchester vs. Charles S. Smith of Winchester.

Dr. C. J. Allen, chairman of the board of health is the complainant, and Smith is charged with having carried in and through the streets of Winchester, horse-drawn ashes, and refuse substances, without a license from the health board.

The case was heard on October 29, and at that time Mr. Feeney appearing for the defendant filed with Judge Littlefield a motion to quash the indictment.

The refusal of Judge Littlefield to allow the motion, means that the case against Smith for alleged violation of a town by law, will now go to trial, and the final decision of the court will be awaited with unusual interest in Winchester among men engaged in the same business as the defendant.

Dear Sir:

It is a great privilege and pleasure to me to add my word of commendation and appreciation of the "Colgate System" of cleaning.

It is nearly eighteen months since I adopted this system of cleaning our rugs and upholstery with results that have been perfectly satisfactory in every way.

By this monthly method of cleaning our rugs are kept free from dust and in fact, the whole house is much more easily cared for than formerly.

I believe that the most dirt and germs in a house comes from the rugs and carpets, consequently the process of Vacuum Cleaning from a sanitary point of view, is certainly of great assistance to every housekeeper.

Wishing you great success in your work.

I am,

Most cordially yours,

NEAR LIGHTS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR.

Dear Sir: Several newspapers, left to themselves, have lately called attention to the fact that the rear number plates of automobiles are constantly being run down at night and wrecked by automobiles with their headlights on. This is a very serious matter, and one which the League believes that it is its duty to call attention to. The law requiring adequate illumination of rear number plates, the Highway Safety League, realizes the importance and necessity of urging upon the owners of other vehicles an equal regard for the law. The League believes that violation in both cases is due largely to ignorance and to thoughtlessness. As one statute requires the rear number plate of an automobile to be illuminated at night so as to be plainly visible at a distance of sixty feet, so another statute provides that other vehicles shall carry a light or lights visible from the front and rear during the period from an hour after sunset to an hour before sunrise (with the exception of vehicles propelled by hand or carrying a load of straw or when on a street lighted at intervals of 100 feet or less).

Our investigations show that hardly one out of three automobiles complies with the rear number illumination law. We can easily believe that the other two-thirds which have even a worse record, are so badly lighted, being so badly run down at night and wrecked by automobiles with their headlights on, are so inadequately lighted that they are almost invisible.

The driver of a team can complain with better grace of an offending autoist whose blunder does not contribute to the disaster, and if all vehicles carry lights at night, public opinion will induce, and a sense of business will induce, a large majority of autoists to see to it that their own vehicles are harmless on the light question.

Yours very truly,

L. A. French, G. Brooks.

OUR ANNUAL OFFER.

Once every year the Winchester STAR makes an annual offer of a reduction in rates to secure new subscribers. This is done in order to interest every man, woman and child in Winchester in this paper and to give them an opportunity to become steady subscribers to the Winchester STAR.

Our regular subscription rate is $2 per year, but to all new subscribers who pay Two Dollars in advance, the issues from this date until January 1st will be mailed without extra cost. There are, practically no restrictions on this offer, except that it is for strictly new subscribers whose names are not now borne on our mailing list, and there will be no transfer from the name of one member of a family to another of the same family in the same house.

Fresh air enthusiasts are advocating open cars all the year around in Boston. Those persons should go north.

Attention of the School Board is called to the rear yard of the Wadleigh schoolhouse and also the sidewalk adjoining. The fine coal dust and cinders must result in a tax on mothers or the public laundry. And aside from this is the generally bad appearance of the surroundings.

The Registrars of Voters are being overworked these days because of the numerous recounts demanded as the result of close votes. It is needless to state that their salaries are not keeping pace with the work. Years ago, when the salaries were the same, a recount was almost unknown.

On January 1, 1913, a fund of $10,000,000 will be available for pensions, sick and accident benefits and life insurance for the 175,000 employees of the Bell Telephone system and associated interests. This is an indication of the interest this great company takes in the welfare of its employees and which in return interests the employees in the progress of the company.

The Republicans having a majority of 54 on a joint ballot in the next legislature, the election of a successor to succeed Senator Crane in the United States Senate will result in the selection of a Republican. Samuel W. McCall is a leading candidate and his chances are considered to be quite good. His long experience in the House makes him particularly well qualified for the higher office.

The appeal for funds for the establishment of a night school for the Italians is a subject worthy of the attention of our citizens. The fund desired amounts to $300. We have in Winchester about 1000 Italian residents—about the same percentage to population that there is in the City of Boston—and comparatively few of this number speak or read the English language. A large majority of these people are not only willing, but eager, to improve their knowledge, and a careful reading of the article on this matter in another column signed by Rev. Joel Metcalf and others is recommended.

Why not have all Winchester electric leaving Sullivan Square run as express to Wintrop Square. This would give Winchester and Woburn people, who are of necessity obliged to use these cars exclusively, a chance to get a seat, and would prevent the cars from being filled with Medford and West Medford people to their exclusion. The two latter places have a much more frequent car service, yet it oftentimes happens that so many of them take the Winchester electric, that patrons traveling clear through cannot find room. The express system is used to great advantage in other places, notably in Springfield, where a similar situation exists. This should also be taken into consideration when we get the through electric to Harvard Square, via Arlington.

The leaders of the slogan for a busier, better and bigger Boston are making a serious mistake in so persistently attacking President Mellen and the Boston & Maine and the New York and New Haven Railroads. Criticism long ago took the form of persecution, in which every move made by Mr. Mellen was wantonly attacked. Certain men in the Boston Chamber of Commerce, for some reason known to themselves, are using that great organization not to build up transportation facilities on the New England roads but to pull them down, and about every city and town in the State is now feeling the effect in curtailed passenger service. The time has arrived when the New England railroads should be given a square deal and the persistent knocking should be stopped. There are ample laws to take care of the railroads (perhaps too many) and why not assist in building up the railroads instead of pulling them down. This would prove to be a step in the right direction. It is a serious matter making a political football of the railroads.

WINTER BOWLING TOURNAMENT.

Teams 2 and 5 split even last week in their match, each taking two points. Team 5 won the first string easily and gained such a lead that team 2 could not overcome it and lost the totals by ten pins. High singles were made as follows: Bond 108, 101 and 304, Caldwell 105, Russell 103, Richards 103, Borey 100, Newman 100. Team 7 won three points from team 4 with fairly good scores. Tarbell was high with a single of 108. Team 6 lost three and its lead in the tournament by dropping an easy match to team 9. Purrington rolled a fine single in the first with 129 and got a total of 305. The match between teams 8 and 11 was postponed.

MYSTIC VALLEY LEAGUE.

The Calumet Club opened the Mystic Valley games on Wednesday night by winning 9 points from the Melrose Club, the latter taking 4 points. Calumet won everything but the whist. Comins and Smalley, last year's billiard team, which next to the Kernwood couple were the most feared men at the game, won their first match handsly. Cutler and Stevens also made easy work of the pool games. The bowling team rolled a fine match and except for a three pin loss of the third string would have taken all four points. Newman created a fine record right at the start. He rolled singles of 123 and 127, and a total of 349—the latter figure making a mark which will be hard to beat.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE GAINS.

The rapidly increasing numbers of men and women who care to ask themselves what a true democracy is and who are honest enough to acknowledge that it is a government of the whole people by the whole people, are not by a part, have been gladdened and inspired by the remarkable result of the recent election in four states, which reveals the number of equal suffrage states from six to ten. Amendments to their constitutions were presented to the voters in six states this fall. These were Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Kansas, Oregon and Arizona. In each state one of these amendments gave suffrage to women on the same terms as men.

A most remarkable campaign of education was waged in each of these states. Everywhere the results of these campaigns showed how earnest were these women to know what the cause really means and how ready they realized its justice. The large vote everywhere cast attests the value of such educational campaign work, however laborious it may be.

As has always been the case, however, the question has been submitted to the voters, that the various interests have been massed against the amendment, and in spite of the remarkable work done, they were powerful enough in Ohio and Wisconsin to defeat it. Ohio, however, passed the initiative and referendum amendment and under this amendment can be brought before the voters whenever it is again considered advisable, and active campaigns are still going on in both states. Michigan, Kansas, Oregon and Arizona passed the amendment by good majorities. The comments of some papers that certainly have never helped the cause, and in some instances have ignored or condemned it, show how rapidly public sentiment has changed in a very few years.

This seems most natural. Good and sufficient reasons for opposition to Equal Suffrage do not seem to exist, because the claim for it rests on eternal justice. Prejudice is the only real barrier and this must yield to enlightened thought. Why prolong the struggle?

Her Compliment.

Sam Jones, the evangelist, was leading a revival meeting in Huntsville, Tex., a number of years ago, and at the close of one of the services an old negro woman pushed her way up through the crowd to the edge of the pulpit platform. Sam took the perspiring black hand that was held out to him and heard the old woman say: "Brother Jones, you sho' is a fine preacher! Yes, sah, de Lord bless you. You's de everybody's preacher. You's de white folks' preacher, and de niggers' preacher, and everybody's preacher. Brother Jones, yo' skin's white, but, thank de Lord, yo' heart's de as black as any nigger's!"

What Surprised Him.

The minister of a certain church was greatly exercised by the drowsy habits of his people. Taking them to task on this score on Sunday afternoon, he remarked: "I see a great many of you overcome with sleep. I do not wonder at it, for the weather is oppressive, your work is hard, and many of you have come a long way. Therefore," he added, "I am not surprised to see many of you sleep, but what surprises me is to see many sleeping who have such a comfortable sleep here in the morning."—Pearson's Weekly.

Sydney Smith's Sharp Tongue.

Sydney Smith was at a party one evening when, seeing Mrs. Grete, wife of the historian, enter, wearing a rose colored turban, he suddenly exclaimed, "I now know the meaning of the word grotesque!" He professed his cordial liking for both her and her husband, saying: "I like them. I like him, he is as lady-like and I like her, she's such a perfect gentleman."

How to Abolish Socialism

By CHARLES STELZLE

THE American workman is the most highly skilled workman in the world. He is the most highly paid workman in the world. But compared with what he produces he is the poorest paid workman in the world. With us it is not so much a question of production. It is a matter of distribution. It is not a question as to whether the workman is receiving higher wages than he received fifty years ago. It is a question as to whether he is receiving a just share of the common product of capital and labor. This is the labor question in a nutshell, and we cannot evade it. The average workman isn't concerned about a general dividing up of all wealth, but he does insist that in the future he shall be given a square deal. He doesn't want charity. He wants work, and he wants justice. In this he is to be commended. There are some people who are tremendously disturbed about the growth of socialism, and they are seeking to destroy it. But social

Mr. Pond reported progress for the week on the grade crossing abolition and at his suggestion Mr. Jewett was added to the committee for conference.

Mr. Jewett reported that the Bay State Street Railway Co. has discontinued the stop on Church street at Sheffield road without permission from the board, and it was Ordered: That the Bay State Street Railway Company be requested to make the stop to take or discharge passengers on Church street at Sheffield road.

On the conference with the town committee on By-Laws, Mr. Pond reported that he had spoken to the chairman of that committee in regard to an early conference and Mr. Jewett agreed also to call his attention to the desirability of an early meeting.

A letter was received from Charles E. L. Wingate asking for extra lights on Bacon street at Ravenscroft road, between Lakeview road and Everett avenue, near the vacant lot and in front of No. 86, claiming that the present lighting is inadequate for the large amount of travel now passing in the early evening, that no light is furnished by the houses which set back 45 feet and that it is often dangerous in places where the carriage steps are built on the edge of the sidewalk. The town engineer reported that he had examined the location and suggested that the light on pole No. 122 be changed to the Postal Telegraph pole at the corner of Bacon and Ravenscroft road; that a new 60 c. p. incandescent be installed on a pole to be erected on the easterly side of Bacon street about half way between Lakeview road and Central street; that the existing lights at Central street and Cottage avenue remain in their present position but that the candle power be increased from 40 to 60; that the existing light in front of No. 84 Bacon street remain in its present position but the candle power increased from 40 to 60; that a new 60 c. p. incandescent be installed on a new pole on the property line between the residence of Messrs. Fattée and Barrett. The engineer submitted a plan of the proposed changes, with his report, and the matter was referred to Mr. Jewett to investigate and report at the next meeting of the board.

On the petition of the Postal Telegraph Cable Company of Massachusetts dated October 24, 1912, presented October 28, 1912, a hearing was declared open. The clerk reported that all abutters had been notified as per list furnished by the town engineer. Superintendent Ryan appeared for the company and Mrs. Julia Dudley appeared by proxy and remonstrated against the location of the poles as petitioned for on the ground that she did not wish to have them located in front of her property on her side of the street. No other remonstrants appeared and the hearing was declared closed.

After discussion it was Ordered: Notice having been given and a public hearing held as provided by law that The Postal Telegraph & Cable Company of Massachusetts be and hereby is granted locations for and permission to erect and maintain poles with the necessary wires and fixtures thereon, upon, along and across certain public ways, in said town as requested in its petition dated October 24, 1912, namely:

High street from a point approximately 680 feet west from Cambridge street to Ridge street, through Ridge street from High street to the Wolcott Winchester town line, for the purpose of relocating and reconstructing its present lines and poles to be of chestnut and painted as shown on the plan filed with said petition, marked "Plan of Winchester, Mass., High and Ridge streets, proposed locations of the Postal Telegraph & Cable Company." The wires on said poles are to run not less than 10 feet from the ground at any point. There may be attached to said poles not more than one cross arm, which shall be reserved for one cross arm at a time, and on said poles for the Telephone, Fire and Police Signal wires owned by the town and used for town purposes.

On the construction work being carried on by the Bay State Street Railway Co. on Forest street from the turnout to the Stoneham line, under orders of the selectmen dated July 25, 1912, September 12, 1912, and respectively, a complaint was received from J. A. Larocay that the Railway Company were very dilatory in carrying on the work and cleaning up the streets.

A letter was received from W. W. Howe, of 240 Forest street, making a similar complaint.

Mr. Michael McNulty, of Stoneham, the owner of farm property on Forest street, appeared before the board and complained that the railroad people had removed a portion of his wall along the highway and that he was for that reason unable to use for his cattle the pasture there and was obliged to feed his stock inside, the cost of which he claimed to be in excess of $1 per day. He also reported loss of fruit through the dumping of gravel, etc., on his land where the apples had fallen. The complaint of Mr. McNulty was referred to Mr. Jewett for further attention.

The town engineer recommended that a letter be addressed to the General Manager of the Bay State Street Railway Co. concerning the slow progress of the work both on Forest street and Cambridge street and the clerk was instructed to write a letter along the lines suggested by the town engineer.

A letter was received from Mrs. Amelia H. Pond, Cambridge street, asking for the return of the property at the corner of Cambridge and High streets. Her original request was presented June 1, 1912, and referred to the town engineer who reported July 14, 1912, that the cable crossing Mrs. Pond's property could be removed by setting a new pole which the Postal Company were ready to do, that disposition of the matter would be satisfactory to the property owner. At that time the matter was referred to the committee on By-Laws. Mr. Pond reported that the property was being returned to her and that the matter was closed.

A letter was received from Arthur H. Martin, of Winchester, asking that when repair work is done on the street the same be returned to the superintendent of streets with full power.

The engineer stated that he was not yet ready to report concerning Timothy Sullivan's complaint of the location of the electric poles on Nelson street.

Mr. Pike reported in regard to the acceptance of Lawson road. The matter was discussed by the board and referred to Mr. Pike to confer with the town engineer.

A letter was received from Mr. P. E. Fitzgerald relating to the change of grade on Holland street at the corner of Swanton and the necessity of cutting down the sidewalk in front of his property and establishing the grade there. Also that part of the gravel should be taken out and replaced with loam on the incline as it sloped to Swanton street; also that the gutter should be paved and that a driveway entrance located about 20 feet south of his house should be cut down so that teams could get in and out. Mr. Fitzgerald also called attention of the board to the fact that the contractors were working on Sundays. The matter was referred to Mr. Jewett and superintendent of streets.

A petition was received from the James J. Fitzgerald Contracting Company for permit to build a granolithic stepstone on the loam space in front of H. W. Brown's property, to Norwood street, and referred to the superintendent of streets with full power.

A request was received by telephone from Walter H. Dotten, 12 Allen street that the entrance to Allen street from Highland avenue be put in condition. There is no gutter at that point and the street washes badly. The matter was referred to the highway committee.

Mr. Jewett offered the following order which was passed and ordered submitted to the Massachusetts Highway Commission for approval as required by law.

Ordered: That no proprietor of a public garage within this town shall allow automobiles to back in or out of the same over any sidewalk unless the sidewalk is guarded by gates or barriers satisfactory in construction to the superintendent of streets. Any person violating this order shall be subject to a fine of not exceeding $10 for each offense.

A request was received from Jos. Moulton, to Madison avenue, for the installation of an incandescent light in front of 9 Madison avenue and referred to the town engineer.

The superintendent of streets was instructed to remove the fence on the Canal street property of the Reynolds estate which encroaches on the town property some 18 inches. The expense of the work to be charged to the Reynolds estate.

A request was received by telephone from J. J. Fitzgerald for permit to build a granolithic sidewalk on Everett avenue abutting the vacant land between the Niles and MacAlman properties and permission was granted to lay the sidewalk without any expense to the town, it being the sense of the board that public convenience and necessity did not demand the outlay at this time.

Mr. Pike called attention to the granolithic sidewalk on Church street in front of the Ramsdell property where the existing granolithic had been damaged by the men laying the new granolithic sidewalk. Referred to the highway committee.

Warrants drawn for $155.24 and $180.03.
Adjourned at 11:20 p. m.
Frank R. Miller
Clerk of the Board.

Next regular meeting November 18th. The board will open their session to the public each meeting night from 8 to 9:30 to hear any citizens who may desire to present matters in person.

Blank forms for petitions of other applications have been prepared by the selectmen and may be had at the Town Clerk's office, also at the State Engineer's office, and will be mailed by the Clerk on the selectmen on request.

DON'T BE BALD.

Nearly Any One May Secure a Splendid Growth of Hair.

We have a remedy that has a record of restoring baldness and promoting hair growth in 90 out of every 100 cases, where used according to directions for a reasonable length of time. That may seem like a strong statement. It is, and we mean it to be, and no one should doubt it until he has put our claims to an actual test.

We are so certain Revell's "Hair Tonic" will eradicate dandruff, not to prevent baldness, stimulate the scalp and hair roots, arrest premature loss of hair and promote hair growth, that we personally give our positive guarantee to refund every penny paid us for it in every instance where it does not give entire satisfaction to the user.

Revell's "Hair Tonic" is as pleasant to use as clear spring water. It is delightfully perfumed, and does not grease or gum the hair. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. With our guarantee back of it, you certainly take no risk. Sold only at drug stores. The Revell Store, Frank N. Abare, cor. Main and Mt. Vernon streets.

A Nebraska paper, whose editor isn't emulating the late George Washington, says that one day a short time since, a farmer went out after a load of straw. Having no pole, with which to bind his load he took his axe and commenced to chop down a stalk of corn for the purpose. He had it nearly cut in two when one of the ears of corn became detached and fell crushing him to the ground. It broke his neck and one of his legs, or seven pieces. He would have died, but for the hearty giving properties of the Nebraska climate, which made a well-nigh instant recovery. He had walked half way to the house.

HIT RESPONSIVE CHORD LAST WEEK.

Teachers and Students Helped by the Week's Lessons.

A Splendid Article This Week—Sunday School Recitation Made Enjoyable by Reading These Excellent Sermonettes. A Splendid General Knowledge of the Bible Will Necessarily Follow.

Of interest to all our readers are the Brooklyn Tabernacle Articles on the International Sunday School Lessons. These articles are written for everybody—the teacher, the pupil, the stay-at-home and the skeptic. All will find this week's lesson "worth while."

Some people can prosper and maintain a respectable standing among their fellows without being familiar with Shakespeare, Virgil or Emerson, but none can afford to lack a general knowledge of the Bible. No matter how many cares rest upon an individual he is not excused if found ignorant of the general teachings of the Scriptures, acknowledged to be the World's Most Wonderful Book.

By a perusal or, better still, by a systematic study of a series of these articles on the Sunday Lesson, a splendid general knowledge of the Bible will necessarily follow. Therefore we again with pleasure call our readers' attention to the one-column Brooklyn Tabernacle Bible Study, on the International Sunday School Lesson, appearing regularly in this paper.

On Monday Grocer John W. Rice missed some $7 from his money till in his store on Cross street. As it was an occurrence which had happened previously he reported it to the police.

Officer McCauley, was sent to investigate and succeeded in recovering $4 of the amount. It seems that two children, a boy and a girl, 10 and 11 years old respectively, had made a purchase of some vinegar, which necessitated Mr. Rice's going to the rear of his store. During his absence they had climbed over the counter and taken the money from the till, which was not locked. They had been in the habit of buying the vinegar and stealing various things while he was getting it, and admitted previous thefts of $8 and $1. Their purchases of vinegar were dumped into the hold nearby. They were taken to the Woburn court and their case placed on file owing to their tender age.

Getting Around It.

A Washington official was talking about a certain resourceful corporation.

"They can get round anything," he said, "a touch of admiration in his voice. "They remind me of a Narragansett girl."

"A Narragansett girl, driving a sixty horse power gray roadster, admitted:

"Yes, I've accepted David."

"Why?" and the girl beside her, "you told me positively that, if David proposed to you, your answer would be a word of two letters."

"The other girl, blushing a little, said softly:

"But I answered Dave in German."

YOUNG AFFAIRS AND MINE.

The Spectator met a genuine tramp on lower Main street the other afternoon and the Spectator couldn't help reflecting that the only man who approaches literalness in his obedience to the Biblical injunction "Take no thought for the morrow" is the tramp, and if everybody in Winchester should obey it we would all become tramps first and starve to death afterwards. The savage, whose roof is a palm tree, into whose hand the bread fruit falls, and whose drink is the milk of the coconut, can afford to "take no thought for the morrow" if he is willing to remain a wild man forever. But the gulf of separation between him and the modern world—a gulf that has been bridged by thought, by anxious, laborious thought, and by thought alone—between the savage who can only count the number of his fingers, and a Newton, calculating the return of a comet, or the pathway of a star. All that constitutes modern civilization is only a crystallization of the upheaving, seething thoughts of man, thoughts which reached beyond today, and took in tomorrow until he has conquered it and made it his slave—every power that confronts him is an enemy. Thought is the only force that can conquer. Can we look a successful business man in the face and tell him to "take no thought for the morrow"? If we measure things by their influence on human welfare we must put worry very near the front rank of evils; for perhaps there is nothing in American life that is a greater destroyer of happiness. Our only defense is in ourselves. It is a question as to whether we will master it and calmly control our circumstances or whether we will let them master, worry and hurry us. Care is the friction of life, and if there was no such thing as friction nothing could ever be done. Most of life's worry is about purely imaginary evils. "Worry" truly kills more people than work. Is it not really best to do all we can calmly, to plan as well and wisely as we can, then hope for the best, and only take the worst when it really comes? There are better ingredients now, and then in the cup of life, but it is so wondrous, so mysterious, so delicious a draught that, however it ends we should be thankful for it every day. Nobody, but ourselves, can poison it, and we shall find enough in it that is sweet and sparkling if only with our own hands we do not make it bitter with the wormwood of gratuitous worry.

Speaking of your inability to get equal rights with the men, said a well known Winchesterite to his wife, "I will never be able to understand why it is right for you to attend social affairs all day, while I go to Boston and work hard at a calling that is very distasteful."

"The money I have is a serious detriment," The Spectator recently heard a rich man say. "My relatives are getting around watching me to see what I can do for them in it. If I had no money, they would all get busy and do something for themselves. My money has already been the ruination of half a dozen people, and I have not half as much as it is supposed I have."

Tongue twisters have always interested people from the time the first one was originated. They are great tests of a person's ability to get the tongue around some of the curious combinations of language. The Spectator is always interested in them, and he finds that a great many other people here in Winchester are. The other day The Spectator was handed the following list of tongue twisters:

"The black horse blighted the bright brown blossoms."

"Two loads totally tired tried to trot to Tedbury."

"Strict, strong Stephen Stringer snared six sixty sixty snakes."

"Susan shined shoes and socks, socks and shoes some Susan. She washed shining shoes and socks, or shoes and socks shoes Susan."

"A haddock, a haddock, a black spotted haddock, a black spot on the black back of a black spotted haddock."

A little Winchester Miss of the Spectator's acquaintance was in the full of noxious for a caller the other day while her mother was dressing to entertain the visitor. The Spectator's little friend divided her attentions between the lady caller and her pet maltrese, and in fact gave considerably more of her attention to the latter. The lady noticed this, as she was trying to pay special attention to the sweet faced little friend of the Spectator. Finally, when she got very meagre response, she remarked, in the condescending tones that she had used during her one-sided conversation with the child: "You seem, little one, to think a great deal more of your kitten's purring than you do of your mamma's friend, who loves children dearly." "Well, you see, my kitty purrs as if she meant it," was the unexpected reply.

There is a very little lady in a certain household here in Winchester. The Spectator believes she is aged five years. The other night this little lady's sister had a caller in the person of her "best fellow" and during the absence of the little lady's sister from the room the little lady engaged the "best fellow's" attention. The little lady asked him to shake his head. Naturally he was much perplexed at the odd request and asked the little one what she wanted him to shake his head for. "Papa said you was a rattle-brained idiot, but I didn't hear nothing rattle."

MRS. ELMIRA SWAN DAVIS.

In the passing away of Mrs. Elmira Swan Davis Wednesday, Nov. 13th, at the home of her daughter Mrs. John S. Blank, Winchester loses one of her oldest residents.

She had been in failing health for some time and had been seriously ill with a nurse attending her for nine weeks, from which her loved ones feared she would not recover, but her strong constitution enabled her to rally and she had seemed to be steadily improving for the last two weeks. Wednesday evening after a very happy, cheerful day and a peaceful sleep, she awoke and realized that the summons had come, for she said, "This is the end," and in an hour's time she had gone to meet her loved ones.

Mrs. Davis was the daughter of John Swan and Sarah Hall Mason. Her father John Swan the fifth was born and lived in his father's home-stead which was situated on the estate now known as the Country Club, until 1818, when he purchased the Edward Gardner estate on what was then Gardner's Row, the present Cambridge street and in this house which is still standing and occupied by his descendants, Mrs. Davis was born, Jan. 18, 1828.

She was married to Samuel Hubbard Davis of this town March 13, 1855. Mr. Davis passed away nine years ago.

The first John Swan was born at New-castle-upon-Tyre, England and came to Boston in the "Globe" from London, Aug. 6th, 1635 at the age of eighteen years and he settled in what was then Cambridge.

Mrs. Davis was a most interesting person to meet, few knew the history of this town better than she did. She remembered distinctly when as a small child she rode from Winchester to Lowell, Mass., in the packet on the old Middlesex Canal which went through her father's farm at that time.

Other three children, Mrs. Davis is survived by her daughter Mrs. John S. Blank, her two sons having passed away some years ago. Also six grandchildren, Mrs. Edward W. Berry of Medford, Mrs. Clyde W. Bell of Hudson N. H., Mr. John S. Blank, Jr., Mr. Wesley Blank, Mrs. Mildred Davis and Mrs. Frank W. McLean of this town. Also five great grandchildren, Miss Ruth Winn, Elmer, Edward and Elizabeth Berry, and John S. Blank, 3rd.

Funeral services were held at her late home 4 Myrtle street, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 and were conducted by her pastor, Rev. Henry E. Hodge of the First Baptist Church and her former pastor Rev. Joseph Fadden of Fitchburg, Mass.

Mr. Fadden spoke of Mrs. Davis active work in the church and her many sterling qualities. "Still, Still with Thee," "Rock of Ages" and "Abide with Me" were rendered by the Weber Quartette of Boston.

The bearers were four grandsons, Mr. Edward W. Berry of Medford, John S. Blank, Jr., Harry E. Winn and Frank W. McLean of this town.

Burial was in the family lot at Wald-wood.

"Life's race well run, Life's work well done, Life's Victory won. Then comes Rest."

Francis M. Cutler, Winchester High School, 1912, Harvard 1915, has been elected to membership in the University Chess Club, and has won a place on the group of ten chosen to represent the university. The chess team, determined by a long series of games since college opened in September, consists of one freshman, two sophomores, five seniors, and two graduate students. Last Saturday evening they played a team in the Boston Chess Club, and Francis was the only one to best his opponent, a man rated the sixth best chess player in Massachusetts. Tonight the University team will meet the Yale team at New Haven and tomorrow they will see the Harvard-Yale football game. Without wishing to seem unfriendly to our Yale friends in town we venture the opinion that in both contests their boys will have to struggle for all that they win.

Asked a prominent citizen of his best friend recently. "It certainly is a peach."

"Well," said William, mournfully, "you see it was like this. I went down cellar this morning to chop some wood for the kitchen range and get the fire started. It was cold and dark down there and in chopping the wood a piece bounced up and struck me in the eye, and you see the result."

"Ha, ha," laughed the prominent citizen, "that is a good one. How a man of your intelligence can stick to old-fashioned methods of building the fire gets me. Don't you know the best way to start the kitchen fire is by using Standard Charcoal Co.'s Hardwood Charcoal. It is quicker than wood and gives you a hot glowing fire a few seconds after lighting. It requires no kerosene to make it burn."

Standard Charcoal is put up in light paper bags, and is for sale by good grocers everywhere. One bag contains enough to build five fires.

ANNUAL SUPPER.

The annual business meeting of the Unitarian parish was held in Metcalf Hall at the church last week, Thursday evening. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather about 300 were present and the attendance was one of the largest in the history of the church for any similar affair.

A bountiful supper was served by the members of the Ladies Friendly Society, after which the regular business meeting was held. Reports from the various committees and officers were read, showing the society to be in a strong financial and social condition. About $5,500 was spent this year on repairs to the church edifice above the usual running expenses.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Charles A. Baldwin, the retiring chairman of the Standing Committee, for his interest and able direction in both the management of the society and overseeing the complete renovation of the church edifice.

The following officers were elected: Standing committee—Vincent Farnsworth, Harry C. Goddard, Frederic C. Alexander, J. Herbert Duvall, Ralph S. Vinal, Nathaniel G. Hall. Secretary—Arthur G. Williams. Treasurer—Harold K. Barrows. Two members of the Hospitality Committee—Mrs. Arthur G. Williams and Mrs. Robert B. Metcalf.

THE GRAND TRUNK AND THE PATRIOTS.

Malice like ambition, frequently over laps itself and falls on the other side, which perhaps is the reason that at this very moment certain worthy individuals who pose as the guardians of Boston's liberty and the patrons of her progress are indulging the sad reflection that foresight is better than hindsight.

The words "I told you so" are ever hateful, but truth compels the reminder that it was not for want of timely warning and vigorous protest that the people of Massachusetts, beguiled by their loving "friends," while placing their heel on the neck of the New England "octopus" took to their bosom with childlike confidence the Canadian-English serpent.

So far, fortunately, nothing has been injured by the Grand Trunk's apparent abandonment of its paper subsidiary in New England except the feelings of the people who were deceived and the pride of the patriots who deceived them. And no other injury is likely to come of it in the future. On the contrary, it results in showing the loud voiced "patriots" and "friends of the people" in their true light, it will have proved a blessing in disguise.

The erstwhile worshippers at the Grand Trunk shrine are now turning against it in the hope of extracting themselves from an embarrassing predicament. They talk loudly of "broken faith" and "gold bricks," and question whether the Canadian road has not sold its birthright for a mess of pottage.

They forget, of course, that the question of good faith was raised when the Southern New England was before the Legislature with its extraordinary petition, and that they scoffed it down. They forget that the gold brick was shown to them even then, and they refused to see it. But even with such excellent forgetteries as they possess, they must ever be haunted with the memory of their traitorous attempt to deliver Massachusetts birthright to the tender mercies of Threacettle Street, demanding not so much as a mess of pottage in return.

In the frenzy of the chagrin and disappointment, the patriots are striking blindly at friend and foe, and, of course, Mellen comes in for his usual share of abuse. Another Mellen deal? Another shackle on the ankle of New England transportation, placed there by the all powerful hand of Mellen?

While the patriots' backs were turned, Mellen actually dared to propose a plan which would relieve the people of New England of a $75,000,000 burden and prevent the violation of a time-honored Massachusetts policy, which forbids unnecessary duplication of facilities and ruinous competition.

Think of it! All the time he was not engaged in tomenting the Balkan war, Mellen was endeavoring to circumvent the patriots by giving New England a better and more economical service through a traffic arrangement with the Grand Trunk. Everybody knows, of course, that he caused the Balkan war in order to make money tight, and having made money tight, all he had to do then was to put the screws on a few lords and dukes of England and the thing was done. It was so ludicrously simple, that the wonder is some one hadn't thought of it before.

The assertion that the Grand Trunk's statement that Mellen bought it off. But that places the patriots in a serious dilemma, one horn of which is that Mellen dictates the policy of the Grand Trunk, and the other that the Grand Trunk's invasion of New England was a bold up from start to finish.

Which horn of the dilemma do the patriots wish to take? Do they want to admit that they proposed to give the people of Massachusetts another Mellen road under the guise of a competitor, or do they want to admit that the Grand Trunk is in the black-knitting business and still insist on its coming in?

Just what caused the Grand Trunk to suspend operations in New England? It is not that it did not know, but it is a pretty strong feeling that Mr. Mellen did not dissemble in his statement to the public, whatever may be true of Mr. Chamberlain. It was a wise man who said that a railroad president is perfectly safe in telling the truth, because no one will believe him, anyhow. Mr. Mellen has had more experience than the Grand Trunk's president.

When the whole story comes to be told, however, it will unquestionably appear that the Canadian government and the London financiers have had a pretty important finger in the pie. It was never any part of Canada's plan to subsidize the Grand Trunk to the amount of $3,000,000 for the purpose of building up the port of Boston, nor did the London lords and dukes ever contemplate the expenditure of $3,000,000 of $3,000,000 for a like purpose.

This was the clear asset to those who kept their feet on the ground when the prospect of a Grand Trunk in Massachusetts first dawned upon an excited populace, and the patriots were warned of it when they proposed to surrender the State House to the invading aliens. But they paid no heed to the warnings and denounced the warners as enemies of their state.

It is ridiculous to assert that Mellen is preventing the Grand Trunk from keeping faith with the people of Massachusetts. The Grand Trunk has one of the most liberal charters ever granted a railroad, and it wanted to come to Boston and had the price to pay, no power on this side of the border could keep it out.

Furthermore, and this is also a very important fact to remember, there is no power on this side of the line which can cause the Grand Trunk, against its will, to continue its activities in New England.

But these don't assuage the people, over the Grand Trunk. It is not a weak and suffering railroad, but a strong and healthy one, and it is not a Canadian-English serpent, but a Canadian-English serpent.

The Grand Trunk's policy in the late President Hayes of New England was justly, never to be known. He had a grudge against the New England president, and probably wanted to get even. At all events, he rejected a very liberal traffic agreement offered him by Mr. Mellen and went ahead with his project, even though he must have known that he could not keep the promise to the people of Massachusetts who were made in his behalf.

Interested patriots in Massachusetts were willing to aid him. Under the slogan of competition and freedom things went merrily along. The old shouters shouted and the public believed, never thinking to look for the nigger in the woodpile. Terminals and freight yards were to come to East Boston. That lover of the people, Eugene Noble Foss, would see to that. Being a large holder of land that would be boosted in value, he heard the voice of the people with singular distinctness and he was for the Grand Trunk.

The governor is a fine type of the professional protector of the public interests. But he is gifted with a keen sense of values, and it only illustrated his proverbial luck that the public interests and the Foss interests should run on parallel lines at that time. The Grand Trunk got all it wanted, without any guarantees of good faith, and the price of land went up in East Boston. Everything was lovely and the goose hung high.

The next thing was to finance the projected road. No help in this direction could be expected from the Canadian government. Over in London it might be different, but there, unfortunately, they had an idea that the cost of the new road was to be about $4,000,000. British stockholders are not proverbially astute American geographers, and their idea of New England conditions and distances were distinctly Haysy.

When they found the cost was to be at least $5,000,000 they balked. Then came the Titanic disaster, the death of Mr. Hays, the appointment of his successor, the visit of Mr. Smithers of London to Boston, and a Grand Trunk awakening.

Mr. Chamberlain was a railroad man looking for business and not revenge. His stockholders were looking for dividends and not invasions. He had inherited the New England situation, in which he never had believed, and so when Mr. Mellen came to him with the traffic agreement rejected by Mr. Hays, it is easy to conceive how glad he was to consider it.

There is the story. It is easy to understand the yells of the saboteurs. The land boom is busted. Mr. Foss must not be blamed if he feels it keenly.

If the papers, correspondence and records of the Grand Trunk invasion of New England, now in the office of the President of the Grand Trunk Railway, are ever given publicity there will be a panic scurrying to rat holes of eminent reformers and shouters of righteousness in these parts, and a very large number of damaged haloes and soiled wings will be for sale. It is to be hoped that this interesting literature will be forthcoming, as its publication will throw a strong light on about as odious a congregation of humbugs and hypocrites as ever deluded an easy going public.

Turn on the light—Truth.

OUR ANNUAL OFFER.

Once every year the Winchester STAR makes an annual offer of a reduction in rates to secure new subscribers. This is done in order to interest every man, woman and child in Winchester in this paper and to give them an opportunity to become steady subscribers to the Winchester STAR.

Our regular subscription rate is $2 per year, but to all new subscribers who pay Two Dollars in advance, the issues from this date until January 1st will be mailed without extra cost. There are practically no restrictions on this offer, except that it is for strictly new subscribers whose names are not now borne on our mailing list, and there will be no transfer from the name of one member of a family to another of the same family in the same house.

But two more states are needed to make the Income Tax law effective. There will be no boasting then of large salaries.

Winchester's election officers understand their business pretty thoroughly. Consequently a recount is hardly worth while, resulting only in needless work for the Registrars of Voters.

The United States in its own business permits no competition. Why should it lend its aid to create competition in the people's business. The government is not sincere. Everyone knows that competition means war, and all know what Gen. Sherman said about war was true.

When the people demand that the electric railroads make quicker time between the terminals, the officers of the railroad should be assisted in their efforts to do so by discontinuing stops that seem to them to be too close together. There are several of them in Winchester on both sides of the town. The less stops the quicker the run, and the willingness of some of the patrons to walk short distances will greatly assist to that end.

In discussing the strength of large cities and towns in district elections, the Wakefield Item says: "Medford controlled the senatorial contest this year and Cambridge can evidently put a Cambridge man in the National House any time it wants to. The old convention system had its evils of course, and the trend of public opinion is toward direct election by the people of all their officers. But so far as the senatorial and congressional offices are concerned locally it means that the smaller towns will wait a long while for representation."

People who desire to live in a respectable residential neighborhood have their troubles, and they are at times very vexatious. The principal one is sometimes extortion, and this is brought about by the person who secures a piece of land in such a neighborhood, and then announces that he is to erect a business and tenement block, when there is no necessity or demand for the same. The person who makes this announcement, does so for the purpose of practicing extortion on the owners and occupants of houses near the contemplated building. In other words, he demands an extortionate price for the land as an inducement for giving up his plans.

Woburn people, since the electric cars took the upper level at Sullivan square, are experiencing the same trouble that Stoneham has. Which is, that the Woburn cars are monopolized almost entirely by Somerville and Medford passengers, thus crowding the former to such an extent that it is almost impossible to get onto a car. Winchester people experience the same trouble. Woburn's city government has a committee which is taking the matter up with the Elevated, but the outcome appears to be problematical. Of course if these cars were to run express to Winthrop square, the trouble now experienced would be obviated. But it is extremely doubtful if this would be allowed. Passengers have the right to take a car no matter what its destination, and get off wherever they desire. People are beginning to think the same conditions would prevail on the Winchester-Arlington cars if they should run through to Harvard square.

A letter was received from Robert S. Goff, Vice President and General Manager, Bay State Street Railway Company, stating that Superintendent Myers would confer with the board in relation to the stop on Church street at Sheffield road. Superintendent Myers was present and said the discontinuance of the stop was due to a general order of the company discontinuing what seemed to be superfluous stops throughout its system. That the distance from Sheffield road to the next stop was very small and he suggested as a compromise that the cars in both directions be stopped on the southerly side of Bacon street.

At 8 p. m. the adjourned hearing on the acceptance of Lakeview and Ravenscroft roads was declared open. For the petitioners appeared Messrs. Edward L. Baldwin, Fred O. Fish, Geo. E. Snelling and Louis S. Redding. The town engineer submitted a plan and grade plan of the two roads and an estimate of the cost of constructing the same.

The plans and manner of division of cost was discussed, and the hearing was adjourned to December 2, 1912, at 8:30 p. m.

A petition was received from John H. Howard, Martha Y. Allison, Mrs. John G. Hovey and five others for a street light to be placed at the corner of Laurel and Fletcher streets and referred to the town engineer for recommendations.

On the petition of Jos. Moulton presented November 14th, for an incandescent street light on Madison avenue in front of No. 6 the town engineer reported that he had made an inspection of the street and found there is a 60 c. p. light on Main street at the foot of Madison avenue and one at Mr. Moulton's easterly line, a distance of 47 1/2 ft., with no light between the two. It seemed to him that a 60 c. p. incandescent ought to be installed in front of No. 4 instead of No. 6 as requested, thereby dividing the distance between the Main street light and the light at Mr. Moulton's equally, 23 1/2 feet between lights. Existing poles are now on the northerly side of the street. The new light ought to be placed on the southerly side of the street on account of a shade tree which would obscure the light if placed on pole which is now in place in front of No. 6, the matter was referred to Mr. Jewett for further investigation.

Mr. Jewett reported that Mr. Pike has had a conference with the Boston & Maine R. R., in regard to the Cross street bridge and suggested that a letter be written the Boston & Maine R. R. Department of Ways and Bridges asking that they take into consideration the necessity of so changing the present railroad crossing at Cross street as to do away with the wooden pier that now stands in the highway at that point.

Warrants drawn for $221.47 and $262.71.

Adjourned at 10:15 p. m.
Frank R. Miller,
Clerk of the Board.

Next regular meeting November 26th. The Board will open their session to the public each meeting night from 8:00 to 9:00 to hear any citizens who may desire to present matters in person.

Blank forms for petitions or other applications have been prepared by the Selectmen and may be had at the Town Clerk's office, also at the STAR office, or will be mailed by the Clerk of the Selectmen on request.

Correspondents are requested to send in all matter for next week's issue of the STAR early, as Thursday will be a holiday and the office will be closed.

Mr. John M. Nulty, well known to Winchester residents as gateman for many years at the centre railroad crossing, has been retired by the Boston & Maine and pensioned. Mr. McNulty had been in the employ of the railroad for 15 years, and it has pensioned him in recognition of his faithful service.

Mrs. Henry C. Holt of Epping, N. H., formerly of this town, was in Winchester this week visiting friends.

WINTER BOWLING TOURNAMENT.

MYSTIC VALLEY LEAGUE.

Calumet visited the Medford Club on Tuesday night, getting the worst of it. The local club took everything in whist and billiards, but lost in bowling and pool. Medford won 7 and Calumet 6 points.

In billiards Comins and Smalley made easy work of their matches as usual. In pool Dr. Cutter lost his match by one point in a most sensational finish, tying his man at 72 and losing on a most difficult shot. Stevens dropped his game by 7 points to Freeman, one of the strongest men at pool in the league.

The bowling team was decidedly off form, and with the exception of the first string, which lost by 5 pins, never came near defeating Medford. Weed's 277 was high for Calumet. Medford rolled only an ordinary game.

The whist team made a straight win and took all three points.

The public drawing of subscribers' seats for the Orchestral concerts took place in the small Town Hall Tuesday evening. About fifty members of the association were present and much interest was shown as names after name was taken out of the box and read by Mr. Herbert Dwyer, who presided as official drawer. Mr. Stanley Redding marked out the numbers on the large plan of the hall. Mr. Sylvester Taylor had charge of the tickets, and Mr. Wm. D. Richards distributed them to the different subscribers who were on hand.

Subscribers who were not present had seats drawn for them by various members of the committee and these will be distributed by the secretary as rapidly as possible.

LET US PROGRESS!

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As one of its younger progressive citizens, the writer rejoices, per information in late STAR articles, at the advent of the deliberative progressive movement in the hitherto somewhat backward town of Winchester. Surely a burning and shining light will soon illumine all this place! No such revival of civic virtue was ever known in this great country during a presidential year or will ever be known in this particular community again. Some of our torpid citizens, members of old political parties, even those over forty-five, may be warmed up and somewhat thawed out at the sight of flaming torches of earnest progressives thrust into the dark places in the body politic of the town of Winchester. While all the world wonders, we onward Christian soldiers of municipal and political reform will not only attack the wicked mechanical nastodon which is viciously dumping offal from the bowels of the earth into the mill pond, but will also boldly charge the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and quickly overcome its powerful force of political bosses for delving the mill pond with street washings. The town itself, with its score of Rip Van Winkle town fathers, all over age of progression, will next be dumounded and rolled in the dust for a similar offence at the outlet of the town brook back of the Town Hall.

Keep the lights a-going and the brass bands a-playing, Brother Progressives, for all too soon we will be over progressive age ourselves, our lights extinguished and we will be put upon the shelf and kindly smothered by softly creeping old age. Remember in these days of wicked political parties (all wicked but ours) there is only one source of pure and uncontaminated civic virtue for us to go for inspiration in our great work of making over the whole world and especially Winchester, and that is at the fountain head of virtue of all kinds, the prophet of Oyster Bay. We never had any such John the Baptist or Peter the Hermit in this great country before calling upon the people to repent of their sins and be as perfect in all things as the prophet himself. Not even Washington or Lincoln carried a candle to him as an exhorter and expounder of civic virtue. When he did surpass him in a few paltry deeds. All progressive souls in Winchester should take hold and straighten out Winchester affairs while such a great light is burning and before the town is cast into outer darkness again by its extinguishment for all must die. Great men, progressives and prophets pass away as surely as common people, therefore we must profit by our present great light for none such will ever appear again to tell us how to live. Even now, if we may believe those who wish to resume ways of slothfulness and ease at present disturbed by our progressive clamor, voices his political light is waning, but even so, his soul is marching on and will continue to march on and command all true souls who believe in him, and there are no other true souls. His believers and conferrers must take their punishment in contemplating a most dismal hereafter for our beloved land if they pervert and wickedly do not follow him. Let us then be up and doing.

Let us clean out the mud flaps of Winchester both physically and politically and lift up the level of existence in this little corner of the world to the level of paradise before sin crept in and there was no need of a prophet going up and down the country at his own great expense, telling the people of their great wickedness and how to save themselves from the wrath to come by implicitly obeying him. This is true progressive duty, to progress as our great prophet directed us, after they even in Winchester local affairs.

MR. ZUEBLIN AT THE "SUNDAY COMMONS."

Mr. Charles Zueblin will address Dr. Fleischer's "Sunday Commons" on Sunday next at four o'clock at the Theatre, next Monday, in "My Best Girl," written by Channing Pollock and Renold Wolf, while the fitting loss with which it is imbued were composed by Mr. Crawford himself and Augustus Barratt. There will be a special matinee Thanksgiving Day in addition to the regular matinees Wednesday and Saturday. We all remember Mr. Crawford not only for his performance in "Three Fairs" but in vaudeville and other entertainments. Among those who will appear with Mr. Crawford are R. A. Stanwood, Maud Raymond, Harry Fairleigh, John Hendricks, Corahnn Waide, W. J. McCarthy, Florence Mackie and others. There is a chorus which can sing and dance aside from the fact that it has the good looks now necessary in such adjuncs. There are some nineteen musical numbers and Mr. Crawford's introductory song, "If the Morning After Were the Night Before" is in his very best humor, and then he has a fascinating dancing number called "Come Take a Dance with Me" which speaks for itself.

Methodist Church Notes.

The first night of the illustrated lecture course at the Methodist Episcopal Church occurred last evening. The first speaker, Hon. Geo. W. Pennington of Boston, failed to be present, but the pastor gave his beautifully illustrated lecture "In the Sunny South in the footsteps of the Blue and the Gray."

The lecture was full of facts, fun and fury, vim, vigor and victory.

A large number were present. The pictures were thrown on a large screen by a double oxyhydrogen lime light stereopticon. The dissolving effects were very pleasing.

Mr. Pennington will give his lecture the first week in January.

CASLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"The Return of the Native" is a rare thing. Yet restaurants may count themselves fortunate in having a chance to see again, if only for a brief interval, one of their favorite stars, George Hensell, who does not know a him for many years the favorite of thousands of Castle Square theatregoers, is coming back to Boston, but only for a single performance, Dec. 2.

There will be other Boston favorites in the cast including Kate Ryan, Edna Luckett, Edna Jewett, Madeline Moore, Charlotte Adams, Robert McLennan and Wallace Wooley. And in the way the occasion will mark the first appearance of a Boston stage of Miss Jewett, who, prior to her stage advent, was an active and popular member of Winchester's younger social set. The reason for the single performance is to enable New York managers and producers to witness the play. Here is hoping to its success.

THEATRE.

In this holiday week no more appropriate and enjoyable performance than that given by Mr. Henry Miller and his excellent company in "The Return of the Native" at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, could be recommended for Thanksgiving Day. The play is full of the beauty of youth, the tender sympathies of maturity and the brilliant wit of clever folk. Not in sixteen years has Mr. Miller appeared in a stage story that gave such opportunity to make his entire career. It is exquisitely written and beautifully depicted, and possesses that rare quality distinction. Furthermore it never once strikes a false note or theatrical note. Mr. Miller will on Monday next enter upon the fourth week of his Boston engagement.

Matinees will be given on Wednesday and Saturday and on Thanksgiving Day.

Is the Church Making Good?

By CHARLES STELZLE

Is the church losing its grip upon the life of the nation? Look at a few figures. In 1800 only seven persons out of every 100 of the total population in this country were members of the church. In 1850 there were fifteen in every hundred; in 1870, seventeen; in 1890, twenty; in 1900, twenty-two; in 1910, twenty-four. There seems to be a crisis on just now. The chart shows that from 1900 to 1910 both the increase in population and in church membership was the same. It's a tie! What will the next decade show? It's rather unsafe to prophesy. But meanwhile what should be the outcome? Is the church as an institution worth supporting? Let's be frank about the matter. The church was not created by priests and ministers. It grew out of the natural religious instincts of the people, for every man is naturally religious. The persistence of religious institutions shows that they are factors of importance in the life of the community. For many the church is the most powerful of all the agents of social control. Its place among social institutions is unique. From this standpoint alone the best interests of society will be better served by strengthening the church instead of battering it down, and as all social questions are fundamentally moral and religious the religious element in the church cannot be dispensed with. As a matter of fact, the church does its best work in the realm of idealism.

Josh Billings once said, "Before you can have an honest horse race you must have an honest human race." There's lots of horse sense in this expression. Before you can have an ideal social system you must have ideal men. It's the chief business of the church to develop such men—men with muscle and mind and morals, men who will fight for the right and a square deal. Those who believe in the general proposition that it's better to have strong men than weak, educated men instead of ignorant, good men instead of bad, might well sincerely look into the matter as to how the church is working out its job.

CURRENT EVENTS IN EDUCATION.

School All The Year Round.
A few years ago the idea of school or college all the year round would have been hotly denied, today it is an established fact in a number of educational institutions, public and private. It is not merely that the summer session has been widely introduced, but the summer work, from being a purely voluntary and separate affair has come in some instances to be an integral part of the year's work, according to reports received at the United States Bureau of Education.

The Harvard Engineering School is a recent instance among higher institutions. The course for the master's degree in engineering at Harvard now takes two years, and there is no summer vacation. The course is divided into first summer, first year, second summer, and second year. The students work from 8 to 10 hours a day, and the total vacations in a year amount to about four weeks, the time being chiefly at Christmas and in the spring. The summer term begins June 22 and closes September 22. A number of other universities follow a somewhat similar plan. The University of Chicago has for some years maintained a summer term, having equal weight with the three other quarters of the year.

Even in the elementary school the plan has made some headway, particularly in the large cities. Cleveland, Ohio, formerly had an all-year schedule which included the summer term as one of four quarters, and a modified form of the Cleveland plan is in use in Newark, N. J., where it is being gradually extended from year to year. In the New York City schools, where the problem of sufficient school accommodations is a serious one, the authorities have recently had under consideration an all-year plan which will it is claimed, take care of practically all the children, with out recourse to half-time. An interesting indication of the attitude of the students themselves toward the all-year plan is afforded by the new Central Commercial and Manual Training High School at Newark. Forty percent of the pupils of this school voted in favor of continuing the school throughout the summer. It is claimed by the advocates of the all-year plan for public schools in the large cities that the children are healthier and happier in school than on the streets. It is further urged that by taking advantage of an optional summer term, children who are compelled to leave school at an early age will be able to advance further in the grades than at present. Backward pupils will also have an opportunity to make up back work, but this has always been more or less a feature of summer sessions.

In the case of the higher institutions, particularly the technical schools, a new movement for all-year work is undoubtedly part of the nation-wide demand for scientific efficiency that is making itself felt in every phase of American life. The feeling is that education, especially of an advanced character, is not child's play, alone, but serious business, and should approximate the conditions of efficient business.

It is claimed that the all-year plan, especially of children, is required to do competent work. A list of the phone The Mills Kitchen Furnishing, Crockery and Glassware Shop, 28 Mt Vernon street, Tel. 363-M, 317-M, 311-M.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The New York Times very truly says that the comparatively few men who believe that the suffrage should be extended forthwith to women, though they may not be very wise or thoughtful men, deserve more respect than the men who, believing the contrary, and knowing that the vote will secure to woman no new privilege, that she either deserves or requires, and that the enfranchisement of women must inevitably result in the weakening of family ties, yet dismiss the movement with the trivial comment: "The situation, the times, goes on to say, is dangerous. Women will get the ballot and play havoc with it for themselves and for society, if the men are not firm and wise enough to prevent them. There is no reason to suppose that the right to vote would allow feminine discontent. If women are granted the right to vote, they will demand all that that right implies, an apportionment of high offices and a share in executive, legislative and judicial responsibilities. In the pursuit of all the privileges and duties of men, woman is deliberately endangering many rights which she now enjoys without legal sanction. She receives honors and privileges which the coarser man will soon learn to withhold from her when she is less him at the polls. It will be a sad day for society when woman loses the respect which she now receives from all but the basest of men. Or the effect upon the home and the family of the revolution wrought by woman suffrage. The Times says:

"Millions of men labor all their years to keep up a home, of which a woman is mistress. Poor enough the home may be, and the measure of toll its upkeep demands of the man may age him prematurely and deprive him of all the freedom which he instinctively desires. But most men throughout the civilized world have been doing their duty as husbands and fathers as citizens, according to their lights. That the triumph of woman suffrage would tend quickly to change the point of view of these millions of plain men is not to be doubted. It would mean the loss of their independence, and for the State to recognize it, the men will be let her uphold it and enjoy it as best she may."

THE KINGDOM IN TABLEAU.
Mark ix, 2-13—Nov. 24.

"A voice came out of the cloud, saying, This is My beloved Son: hear ye Him. And when the voice was past, Jesus was found alone." Luke ix, 35.

Our studies continue to appertain to Messiah's Kingdom of Glory. Today's lesson tells of a tableau illustration given to His disciples respecting it. The lesson deeply impressed the Apostles who witnessed the vision, Peter, James and John. St. Peter referred to it afterward in his Epistle (II Peter i, 16-18), saying, "We have not followed cunningly devised fables when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but were eye-witnesses of His Majesty when we were with Him in the holy mount."

Jesus prepared His disciples for the transfiguration vision, saying, "There be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death, until they see God's Royal Majesty having come with power." The occasion will be remembered. Jesus had foretold His death, quite contrary to the previous expectations of the Apostles, and now He sought to draw their minds gradually to a realization that His death would not mean a repudiation of the promise of the Kingdom and its glory, but a fulfillment of their expectations on a higher plane.

Jesus was to formally offer Himself to Israel as King, riding upon the ass, five days before His crucifixion, yet He would be despised and rejected and crucified, but His Kingdom Office and work would thereby be confirmed. His authority to be King of the earth, to release mankind from the power of sin and death, to uplift humanity and bring the earth to Paradise conditions, would all be founded upon His sacrificial death at Calvary.

All this was presented to the three chosen disciples. Jesus took them to the mountain-top and was transfigured before them. His flesh and His garments shone and glistened white, after the manner of angels, the vision thus representing the Lord after having experienced His resurrection change. Then with Him talked two men, "who appeared in glory," says St. Luke. In some manner the Apostles recognized these two men of the vision as Moses and Elijah. They heard these discourse with Jesus respecting His descent "which He was about to accomplish at Jerusalem."

Then came a voice from the overshadowing cloud, saying, "This is My beloved Son, hear ye Him" and suddenly the vision vanished. Several good lessons may have come out of this. It would be a great refreshment and strength to their faith to witness this vision, which showed them that the death Jesus had foretold, was a certainty and known of God and of divine approval. The voice from God would also encourage their faith.

As the Apostles, with Jesus, were coming down the mountain side, wondering about the meaning of the vision they had seen, Jesus said to them, "See that ye tell no man the vision until after the Son of Man is risen from the dead" (Matthew xviii, 9). The fact that Moses and Elijah appeared as real to the Apostles as though they were in life does not contradict the words of Jesus that what they saw was a vision. Remember the many visions given later on to one of these Apostles, St. John, recorded in the book of Revelation. In those visions St. John saw angels and men, heard voices, etc., just as in this vision.

The Meaning of the Vision.
We have St. Peter's words that what they saw on the mountain represented the Royal Majesty of Messiah, the Kingdom of Messiah. Moses represented the faithful of Natural Israel, the "House of Servants." Moses as a servant was faithful over all his House. Elijah represented the Christ in the flesh, the House of Sons. All of the converse of spirit begotten people of God, during this Age, are represented by Elijah, who God promised, should come before Messiah would set up His Kingdom.

In other words, the Elijah class is composed of Jesus and all of His footstep followers throughout this Gospel Age, in their earthly or fleshly condition. Spirit begotten, but not yet spirit born. There is no doubt whatever respecting the Kingdom promised, that it will come, that vision on the mount confirmed it. The Kingdom merely awaits the sufferings of those who will be the members of the Body of Christ. At the Second Coming of Jesus these will be blessed and glorified, and the class represented by Moses will also be blessed and used as instruments of the Kingdom. Thus in the vision the entire Kingdom was represented, that of all, by Jesus Himself, secondly to Elijah, who represented the Church class, and thirdly by Moses, who represented the faithful on the earthly plane.

PHILOMATHEAN SOCIETY.

The Philomathean Society met in the Assembly Hall of the High School last Tuesday evening, and had a very interesting and instructive evening. A short business meeting was held. Mr. Edwin Lovering, principal emeritus of the school, was elected an honorary member.

Three candidates presented themselves for admission to the society. They were required, as is the rule, to make a speech before the members. Mr. Favor spoke on Agriculture, its advantages and opportunities to the Agricultural school graduate.

Mr. Warren then described the various systems of train signaling, the block, semaphore and train despatching methods. Mr. Lane spoke on some of the faults of the planks of the new Progressive Party.

A debate was then held on the question: Resolved, that Sunday baseball should be prohibited. For the affirmative were: Messrs. Favor, Noyes, and Hilton. For the negative, Messrs. Getty and Coit. A decision in favor of the negative was speedily rendered by the judges, Messrs. Lovering, Thompson and Sweet.

Mr. Getty took half in a general way, showing that it is a clean sport, and stating the many advantages to players and spectators. Mr. Favor presented the argument that the Lord set apart Sunday for a day of rest and quiet. Mr. Coit argued that rest may be obtained at the ball game as easily as at home. Mr. Noyes drew a comparison between the United States and Rome, in baseball games and gladiatorial combats, which were the main reason for the moral degradation of Rome. He argued that before and after the ball games, the crowd congregated on the street corners. Mr. Getty refuted this last statement. He spoke of the great problem of amusements for young men on Sunday, showing that at ball games, no gambling or other vice is allowed, and that Sunday baseball is the solution of the problem. Hilton spoke of the excitement which attends ball games, and said that this was not the spirit of Sunday. Mr. Getty spoke of the influence which a clean game like baseball has, and showed that 35 per cent of the boys in the period Sunday use ball. Noyes, in his closing speech, gave by far the longest discussion of the whole. He summed up the various points brought out by himself and his colleagues, and concluded with the statement that Sunday was for other purposes than sport.

DIALECTIC SOCIETY.

The Dialectic Society met in Room 12 of the High School last Tuesday evening. A business meeting was held, after which there was an excellent debate. It was announced that at the next meeting there will be a speaker. The debate was on the question: Resolved, that immigration to the United States should be further restricted. Those for the affirmative were Misses Clara Niedringhaus, Miss Miriam Martin, and Miss Rachel Metcalf. Those for the negative were: Misses Dorothea Hendelton, Gertrude Lingham, and Miss Rachel Emery. A rebuttal was participated in by each in turn. The judges were: Messrs. Brown, Weeks, and Foster Noyes. During their absence a vote on the personal opinion of the members was taken, and resulted in a large majority for the affirmative. The judges, however, decided that the negative had presented the best arguments, and they were declared winners. The meeting adjourned early, and most of the members stepped into the assembly hall and listened to the closing speakers of the Philomathean Society debate.

KILLED AT WEDGEHIRE.

An unknown man, thought to be one of the laborers engaged in the construction of the new sewer being put through below the Bay on Mt. Hill, was struck by the 5:12 mixed bound train just below the Wedgemere station Wednesday evening. The train was stopped and the man taken on board, but he was so badly injured that he died before reaching Boston. It is thought the man stepped on the mixed track in front of the train, and the outward express due at that time.

Yesterday afternoon it was found that the man was Patrick Lantry, residing in Woburn. He had secured work on the sewer early Wednesday morning. He leaves a family in this town employed in the family of Mr. Wm. C. Newell of Main street.

LOVES HER DOG.

Miss Tolman finds Recreation from Music in Long Walks with Her Pet.

"Our animal friends are more human than we are, because they can understand us while we cannot understand them," asserts Laura Tolman, the violinist of Winchester, to the Boston Globe.

Miss Tolman has a highly artistic temperament and through the charm of her music and her winning personality exerts an unusual influence over animals. Miss Tolman's pet dog, a small, white, fluffy, grand old dog, yellow and white St. Bernard dog, Leporello.

He is a beautiful creature, well marked and tall, standing as high as his mistress' waist. He is extremely heavy, but so careful in his movements about the house that he never disturbs anything on a never seems to be in the way.

That he is faithful to the violinist is shown by his narrow escape at Quabbin. Leporello and Miss Tolman had been visiting there. But it became necessary to send Leporello home. First Miss Tolman, with Leporello, went across the St. Lawrence, where, with reluctance, a tip, and a severe warning to give her pet a short chain, she left him with the baggage man at the wharf, until a friend should come to take him home.

Naturally enough, the baggage man thought he knew better, and gave Leporello a nice long chain. The result was that when the man left the room for a moment he returned to find the chain out of the window above the river, swinging an empty collar. The next day they found Leporello, weak, exhausted, half dead, on the opposite bank, where Miss Tolman was staying, so far below the starting point that he must have had to swim 20 miles. But he had found his mistress, and nothing else mattered.

Leporello is very accurate at gauging time. One night when he came rubbing his soft, moist nose against his mistress' hand asking to go to walk, Miss Tolman patted him and said: "Not now, Leporello; come back at 8 o'clock." Promptly at 8 Leporello was there at the music room door.

After this, thinking that the chimes of the half clock gave him his signal Miss Tolman changed the clock when it should be 8 to 10 minutes of 25 minutes after. It was always the same. He came back at 8, whatever the clock said. Miss Tolman has no theory to offer for the dog's ability to judge the hour, but certainly she is that does it.

Leporello is not successful, however, in matching his wits against Miss Tolman's parrot. "Leporello, Leporello," calls Polly sweetly, and then laughs her head off derisively. "Oh," when the dog obediently comes. "Polly," finds the dog's reaction too by shouting "Leporello," at his nose and making the man rush out to prevent his animal from running away. He finds the cats by opening them to come and eat, and then saying "Seat."

Nevertheless, in spite of his sense of humor he is very polite. He has been taught his manners and has learned his lessons well. He never neglects to say "thank you," and he bows half a dozen times when Miss Tolman gives him a peanut. He never neglects his "good morning" or "good night," followed by a loud "snick." It may be leaving he calls "goodbye." On rare occasions he will sing "Way Down Upon the Swanne River," which Miss Tolman has taken great pains to teach him.

When Polly is disenchanted with events, he does not hesitate to ruffle up his gray plumage, spread out his brilliant scarlet tail feathers and tell every one so. One day when he and Miss Tolman were travelling to the Cape, he became very disgruntled because of the many changes of cars.

After amusing all the passengers by shouting "What? What?" each time the conductor called off a station, when they at last reached their destination he sat back on his perch and remarked in the "back" bored tone: "Well, what next?"

Miss Tolman's affection and influence over animals are not confined to her household pets. In fact, birds and squirrels and even spiders recognize her friendship for them. Miss Tolman and Leporello are acquainted with many of the Winchester birds which they have met on their walks. She calls them, feeds them and talks with them.

The squirrels come to her from street corners to ask and play, never scattering off before she can reach them. Leporello, a small, white, fluffy, grand old dog, yellow and white St. Bernard dog, Leporello.

Spiders are very common friends in this household. One day a web in the corner of the music room in February, when she had her rehearsals, he would drop to the top of the piano and listen to the music. Afterward he would spin himself up again. There was also another spider.

One season when Miss Tolman was touring the South, a large spider crawled across the platform where several musicians were preparing for a concert. "Kill that spider," shrieked one of the men. "Don't do it," commanded Miss Tolman. "I will play to it." She played an exquisite air. The spider sat perfectly still in the center of the platform. When she had finished, pushing him with her bow, she said: "Now go over in the corner and listen to the rehearsal." Immediately he obeyed and stayed there until the music stopped, when he disappeared.

The musician who had wished to have the spider killed was a tonished, not knowing Miss Tolman's influence over dumb creatures. Perhaps an explaining reason for this influence is that this violinist has the ability to sympathize under all conditions. Her animals at home know this, especially Leporello and Polly, and when she is away they wait patiently for her return home.

18TH ANNIVERSARY.

The members of Waterfield Lodge of Odd Fellows observed the 18th anniversary of the institution of the lodge Monday evening in the apartments, Brown's Block. The members were assisted by the Daughters of Rebekah, who did a great deal toward making the evening one of the pleasant in the history of the lodge. Over one hundred and twenty-five Odd Fellows and ladies were present, many of the latter being Daughters of Rebekah. At 6:30 a delightful supper was served provided by the ladies. At 7:30 there was a brief lodge meeting, followed by a roll call at 8:00, and this in turn by a very enjoyable entertainment furnished by C. G. Bartlett of Everett. The only speaker of the evening was Mr. E. H. Higgins who gave a brief history of the lodge and its growth, and of its great benefit to sick members and their families.

The committee having the anniversary in charge were: G. A. Ambler, C. H. Forsyth, T. W. Hartley. The following served as a reception committee: G. H. Hamilton, N. M. Osborne, C. J. Allen, James Johnston.

The lodge is in a flourishing condition, numerically and financially. The supper committee composed of Daughters of Rebekah, was as follows: Chairman, Mrs. Guernsey, N. G.; Eta M. Powers, V. G.; Sister Alice J. Hersey, Margaret Nauflits, Jessie Horne, Orelia Higgins, Alice Poole, Josephine Arnold, Aida Eva Tracy, Maud Tracy, Maud Hartley, Grace Hamilton, Ethel Jewett. And these ladies are deserving of much praise for the excellent supper.

ASSISTING ARTIST AT NEXT ORCHESTRAL CONCERT.

Mrs. Olive Whitely Hilton, who will be the soloist at the opening concert at the Orchestral Association next Tuesday evening, is a resident of Belmont and has lived in or near Boston all her life. She uses her rich mezzo-soprano voice with great expression and feeling and changes from her high to her low register with an ease that shows long study and careful training. Mrs. Hilton is a pupil of Rose Stewart and formerly studied under Stephen Townsend. She is also a brilliant performer on the violin and has frequently been heard with her instrument in concerts in and around Boston, but singing is her forte, and she will be heard next Tuesday night in the Aria from Beethoven's "Death of Joan of Arc" accompanied by the full orchestra. This is a most beautiful number and will add greatly to the enjoyment of the evening. In the second half of the concert Mrs. Hilton will sing a group of songs including Strauss' "Allerseelen," "Down in the Forest" by Ronald and "A Birthday" by Woodman.

OLIVE WHITELEY HILTON

The Orchestral numbers of the program will be as follows:

Overture "The Naiads" Sterndale

Suite "In Hollan" Christiana Kreiss Waltz "The Beautiful Blue Danube" Strauss

TIMOTHY J. O'BRIEN.

Timothy James O'Brien, a well known Winchester boy, died at his home on Seaton street early Monday morning of pneumonia after a week's illness. He was 35 years of age. Mr. O'Brien had been employed by the highway department for several years recently being flagman for the steam road roller. He was born in Boston and was a graduate of the Winchester public schools.

Mr. O'Brien leaves his mother, Mrs. Dennis O'Brien, two sisters, Mrs. John Tansy and Mrs. Robert H. Sullivan, and three brothers, Jeremiah H. O'Brien, Martin F. O'Brien and John O'Brien.

The funeral services were held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in the residence of St. Mary's Church, 1000 Main street.

Mass was celebrated by Rev. Francis J. Rogers of St. Mary's Church, assisted by Rev. Fr. Shanley, who is Waterbury's superior in the diocese. The bearers were Messrs. Daniel Kettig, David Sullivan, Thomas Nolan, Edward Maguire, Jr., John Haley and Patrick Connolly. Forty members of the highway department marched with the remains to the church and grave in token of their respect.

The burial was at Calvary cemetery, Montvale.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

Interpretative Dances Proved Very Enjoyable.

Miss Virginia Tanner, the well known interpretative dancer, gave the members of the club a great deal of pleasure by her wonderfully graceful dancing. Her different dances were so distinctive that it is impossible to say where she excelled. The first number, "La Tarantella," expressed the spirit of the Spanish people as well as did her beautiful costume. Every movement was so charming, and one is constantly admiring her graceful hands. Her old French dances were full of stately rhythm, and her costume for these was like a portrait of long ago France.

Her oriental dances reproduced the spirit of the East in its beauty and tragedy. The throbbing of the drums and the weird harmonies of the violin carried us in imagination to far-off places.

In the Arcadian Idyl and Humoresque simplicity was the dominating feature, combined with happiness and freedom. La Mer, her last number, was a representation of the sea. Her shimmering garb expressed the idea perfectly, and her lightness and grace were fascinating.

The most important number on the program was Ishtar, music by Grieg and Ivanov, after the ancient Assyrian legend of Ishtar's descent into the lower world in search of her consort, the sun god, Tammuz.

"To the land whence there is no return Ishtar, the daughter of Sin, turned her mind

To the house of darkness, the dwelling of Irkalla:

"If thou dost not open the gate that I may enter I will burst open the panel.

I will raise up the dead, until the dead outnumber the living.

"Why, mighty guardian, must I remove the great crown from my head?" "Because, O goddess, such are the laws of Allatu."

Allatu sent for Namtar, her messenger of evil. "Smite her with torment, that her strength may lessen."

Then the goddess Allatu opened her lips and spoke:

"Besprinkle Ishtar with the waters of life, and let her go to me."

In this the emotions were brought forth so forcibly that one suffered with her in her descent and rejoiced in her return to the favor of the goddess.

Miss Tanner has the artistic talent in many directions, as she designs and makes her beautiful costumes, and selects the music of her programs which is always of a very high order. She was fortunate in having the assistance of the violinist who will play the Arabian dances (solo and Cymbal Dance) for her at the opening performance of the Toy Theatre next Saturday, a very talented player, and at the piano one of our own club members, Miss Mary French.

Miss French's solo numbers, Gondoliera Foxtrot, Military March, Schubert, and the Scarf Dance of Chamade played as interludes between the dances, were all received with enthusiasm, the chamade selection especially was placed with charming ease and finish.

REV. CHARLES L. HUBBARD.

Rev. Charles Lawrence Hubbard passed away suddenly at his home on Harrison street, Wednesday morning. He had been ill for a considerable period, but had recovered some weeks ago, and his death was a shock to his friends and family.

Mr. Hubbard was born in Andover, N. H., July 18, 1839, he being a few months over 73 years of age. His parents were Joshua P. and Adeline (Eaton) Hubbard.

During his college course he served in the Civil war, but returned to graduate from Dartmouth with his class in 1865. The following three years were spent at Andover Theological Seminary. After graduation he was called to the Congregational church in Merrimack, N. H., remaining there for ten years. His last pastorate was over the Second Congregational church in Boylston, Mass., where he remained for twenty-seven years.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE MEETING.

The attendance at the anti-suffrage meeting in the small Town Hall, Tuesday evening was not only sufficient to completely fill the small hall but extended well out into the floor of the larger hall. Of course all present were not opposed to suffrage, as there were some in attendance who were ardent suffragists, but it is safe to say from the applause that was given the speakers that the anti-suffrage was in a big majority. It was a meeting that should have been attended by every woman in town who is interested in this great question, as it was one of an educational character free from all remarks that were likely to wound the feelings, and where frankness prevailed. The speakers took occasion to proclaim the earnestness and sincerity of the women who want the ballot, but they thought that more good could be accomplished without it.

At the rear of the speakers' desk was a large American flag, and in the foreground palms, and potted plants.

Rev. John W. Suter presided, and in the course of his remarks contrasted conditions here and in England in the treatment of this question. In the United States, the main point at issue by both sides was, as the suffrage for the best interests of the country and the women. And this was being intelligently discussed. Personally he was not in favor of giving women the ballot; it was not a panacea for our ills, and better results could be obtained without it. At the conclusion of his remarks Mr. Suter introduced Miss Bronson of Washington, who was followed by Mrs. George of Brookline. They were frequently interrupted by applause, and at the conclusion of their remarks questions were asked by Miss Williams, president of the local suffrage league, Miss Elder and Mr. W. L. Fock. The meeting was intensely interesting throughout and it was nearly ten o'clock when it came to a close.

THE DAY OF JUDGMENT.

So far fetched and distorted have been the various views brought forth as regards the above caption, that it is said to be a pleasant relief to hear Evangelist A. E. Spencer of this International Bible Students' Association deliver his Bible lecture on this subject. We often wonder all that was taught in childhood and adult years by our spiritual advisers, really true regarding that actual day of judgment, sun and bloody moon, the falling stars, and cracking mountains, the burning earth and heavenly city.

The very uncertainty of it all was seemingly the most convincing proof that it might be true. Yet it seemed so unreasonably so wondered, but could not satisfy our minds.

Mr. Spencer will present the Bible doctrine respecting this wonderful theme in such a clear and convincing manner that you will be fully satisfied of the reasonableness and Scripturalness of his presentation, even though radically different from our preconceived ideas. Everyone ought to hear this remarkable lecture in Waterfield Hall next Sunday at 8 p. m.

Last year's illuminated Christmas cover met with so much favor with advertisers, that we have decided to issue another this year. Advertisers wishing space in this cover, should send in copy as soon as possible as the space devoted to advertising is limited.

Hon. Joseph W. Walker joins with Congressman Gardner in a public protest against the nomination of a United States senator by a Republican legislative caucus at this time.

Whether the Progressives were right or wrong in the late campaign, we notice that many Republican politicians are now hastening to proclaim themselves Progressives. So it looks now as if there would be but two leading parties—Progressive and Democratic.

Last Saturday nearly 1800 Italians sailed for Italy, because they feared that they would be thrown out of work now that a Democratic President had been elected. They will probably be back again inside of six months when they find out that the President of the United States does not control the labor market.

The "pure coal" law movement in this state should interest everybody who has to buy coal at retail. Its advocates are working for the enactment of a statute establishing a quality standard for coal and limiting the amount of dust, slate and other foreign substances. Everyone, including the local retail dealers, would welcome such a law.

It cost the postoffice department $3,250,000 for free political documents sent out during the recent campaign. The postal service handled during the year 310,245,000 pieces of franked mail, weighing 61,377,000 pounds. This is the principal reason for the postoffice department showing a deficit each year. To this should be added the cost to the government for printing these political documents.

that he did not have to take the word of the defendants, but should have investigated the matter instead of taking everything said by them for granted.

Washington street beginning at a point about 2115, feet east of Forest street, and running easterly, 2 poles. On the petition of John H. Howard and others presented November 18, 1912, asking for the installation of a street light on Fletcher street, at the corner of Laurel street, the town engineer reported that he had inspected the section and believed that an additional incandescent street light of 60 c. p. was needed and should be installed. He submitted a paper tracing of vicinity showing the adjacent lights and the suggested new one. The matter was referred to Mr. Jewett for further investigation and report to the board.

In the matter of changes in existing lights in Cambridge street, and new or additional lights, the town engineer reported that Mr. Jewett and himself had made an inspection and recommended an additional light of 60 c. p. to be placed on a telephone pole on the easterly side of the street about midway between the residences of Messrs. Wadsworth and Sheridan; and that the existing lights next northerly and southerly from this point be changed from 40 to 60 c. p., and stated that these changes would result in improvement to a comparatively long stretch of roadway which is at present very dark. The report was approved and the clerk instructed to order the changes made to conform to the engineer's recommendations.

A petition was received from the Edison Electric Illuminating Co., for location for six poles in Hemmingway street, westerly from Main street, for the purpose of relocating and reconstructing the line now standing, and referred to the town engineer for recommendations and list of abutters to be notified. Hearing fixed for December 9, 1912.

A petition was received from the Edison Electric Illuminating Co., for location for five poles on Chestnut street easterly from Main street, for the purpose of relocating and reconstructing the line now standing, and referred to the town engineer for recommendations and list of abutters to be notified. Hearing fixed for December 9, 1912.

A letter was received protesting against the dumping and burning of rubbish from the Town Hall on Town Hall lot and referred to the committee on Hall with instructions to arrange with the highway department to remove all waste to the town dump.

Mr. Pike reported that the town engineer and himself had investigated the condition of Lawson road and that the town engineer had submitted to him at his request, a written report which was read.

The matter was discussed by the board and it was voted to request the town engineer to submit figures showing the probable cost of laying out Lawson road.

In the matter of proposed street across the pond, Mr. Jewett reported that he had received from the Metropolitan Water and Sewer Board, a plan of Judkins pond, showing depth of mud as found by their boring operations, and at the suggestion of Mr. Daly it was voted to hold a public hearing in the Town Hall, Thursday, Dec. 12, 1912, at 8 p. m., to thoroughly canvass and discuss the subject of a street across Judkins pond.

The town engineer presented a large plan of Swanton street showing the present lines, position of fences, etc., which was examined and discussed by the board, and it being the sense of the meeting that the lines should be definitely located, a public hearing on the subject was appointed to be held at the Selectmen's Room, December 15, 1912.

On the complaint of Charles E. I. Wingate, presented November 11, 1912, asking for extra lights on Bacon street, Mr. Jewett reported with plan for relocation of existing lights and installation of two additional lights and it was voted to adopt the plan and the clerk was instructed to order the Electric Light Co. to make the changes and installations accordingly.

Warrants drawn for $798.84 and $243.00.

Adjourned at 10:45 p. m.

Frank R. Miller
Clerk of the Board.

Next regular meeting December 2nd. The board will open their session to the public each meeting night from 8 to 9 o'clock to hear any citizens who may desire to present matters in person.

Blank forms for petitions or other applications have been prepared by the Selectmen, and may be had at the Town Clerk's office, also at the STAR office, or will be mailed by the Clerk of the Selectmen on request.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express our thanks to the many friends who by their words and deeds, offerings and kind sympathies, aided our recent bereavement.

OBSERVATIONS.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Yes, Winchester has been progressive for many years, but it is possible for her to be more so. Let us see what specific things can be improved: Common sense handling of our grade crossing question by eliminating lawyers, engineers and real estate dealers and owners; calling upon the Metropolitan Park Board to carry out the provision of the act of 1900 regarding Manchester Field, etc.; light the Town Hall building clock face properly; stop insuring public property against fire and use the money to insure against bad health; have the reports of our officials out before the caucus or primary to nominate them for another term; don't appropriate money faster than we grow in population and wealth; make the Ap Com. record in its report the vote on each item; repair the streets thoroughly every year before doing any new construction; find out what it costs to keep our horses and what we could board them out for.

It will only be waste of time to take up the question of running our Medford line electric express to Medford square during the rush hours with the companies. Take it up with the Railroad Commission which has the power to force it. It is done in some places, and there is no good reason why it should not be done in this case. Of course they would have to stop to take on passengers going to or beyond Medford Square and to leave them beyond there going into Boston.

The request of our Selectmen that the electric stop at Sheffield road is silly, as it was for the railway to establish it there in the first place, for it is only two hundred feet from Bacon street and was only put there because the superintendent thought it would please a selectman who then lived upon the street, another silly stop that has been dropped was at Stone avenue, an unoccupied street with two houses on it one occupied by our Chief of Police, who did not ask for it and who needs exercise. Its much more important for passengers to make their connections than silly stops. People don't walk enough.

For very many years we have believed in Massachusetts that private ownership with public regulation was best with public service corporations. Now it is because those laws cannot be enforced that some are advocating the State taking the Boston and Maine railroad? Or why is it? If those laws cannot be enforced, none can be and our form of government is a failure, and such a people would not be competent to operate a railroad. But of course the laws can be enforced and will be when Mr. Long and other politicians become statesmen, or are succeeded by those who are.

I have been asked what I mean by "the inside" on "Beacon Hill" so I will give just a few mild samples. Hearing corporations in executive session by legislative committees to the exclusion of the public, holding off the most important measures till the last of the session at the instance of log interests, letting corporation's select members of committees, blue pencilling press news, unlawful lobbying.

Woburn made a very poor showing before the Municipal Finance Committee and had to admit gross violation of the law; the present officials knew so little about the cities' affairs that the committee sent them home to get posted up when they appeared some weeks ago, and last week was their second appearance. When the report of this committee comes out it will open the eyes of many citizens. Some places have swamped themselves with unlawful debts, others have thousands of dollars of taxes outstanding for many years. Collector's collect what are easiest and leave the rest for the Assessors to abate, some places allow discounts on taxes and add to the burdens of the poor for the benefit of the rich thereby some never get a trial balance. The collecting of poll taxes in Boston is a farce and the taxes have been abated by wholesale illegally.

MOTOR-CYCLE RUNS DOWN WORKMAN.

Thomas Callahan of Chelsea was run down and fatally injured by a motor cyclist on Forest street last Friday evening. He was unconscious for a time, but had regained consciousness when the doctor arrived.

Callahan was employed as watchman by the Bay State Street Railway Company, at their construction work on Forest street. At the time of the accident he was carrying a red lantern and the moon was shining brightly so that there seems to be little reason for such an occurrence.

The man was knocked down by the motor cycle, and lost consciousness. Dr. Putnam was summoned by telephone and soon arrived at the scene. He found that Callahan had sustained injuries to the head and left eyelid. He was removed to the Winchester Hospital where it was necessary to take two stitches.

The police are investigating the cause of the accident.

THE NEEDLEWORK GUILD OF AMERICA.

The Winchester Branch of this Guild was formed years ago and the annual meeting is to be held on Wednesday, Dec. 19th, at 3 p. m., with the President, Mrs. Weeks, in Rangeley. Many of the Winchester people are now familiar with the history and purpose of this Guild which originated in England, and is non-sectarian.

Membership consists simply in giving each year two new garments or articles of household linen, and there is but one meeting, the annual one when the articles collected are exhibited, and plans made for their wise distribution. There are now seven groups of eleven members each in Winchester, and it is hoped to increase this number and the possibilities of usefulness. Anyone interested in becoming a member, or in forming a group, and thus having a share in the distribution of garments please communicate with the President Mrs. A. P. Weeks or Mrs. W. C. Sache-Secretary.

RACE RECIPROCITY.

First in Course Given by Mr. Charles Zuehl.

Mr. Charles Zuehl of this town, editor of the 20th Century Magazine, is delivering a series of weekly lectures under the auspices of the Boston School of Social Science, at the Loring Hall, upon the general theme of "A National Faith." His first lecture, given last week, was "Race Reciprocity" and was in part as follows:

A national faith, however difficult it may be to define, is something we recognize as differing from patriotism, race pride, religious belief or partisan ship. It is the spirit which forms the mainspring of national life, and enables a people to perfect their social organization. We can and do possess it.

History is strewn with the relics of superior races. Rome lost its power because the mass of the people did not participate in the benefits of the Empire. They served their country with patriotic fervor, but they did not share in the national life. They became so nervous at slavery, taxes, wars, famines, and pestilences that when they met the spoiled hordes of the North, Rome fell. The same fate has overtaken Persia, Spain, Turkey, Central America, and all decadent nations. It threatens every existing nation and race. The virile and fertile Jews multiply in Russia, where they decay in France where they enjoy social prestige.

We need to cultivate nationalism in this country and to avoid provincialism and racial antipathy. Provincialism is the result of immobility, not nativity. The returned Southerner of New England is as virile and valuable as the immigrant but decadence threatens the stationary native.

Race characteristics are inherited in spite of institutions, but are modified in their expression by institutions. The Mongrel American race most closely resembles the Anglo Saxon, although other racial inheritance is strongly marked. Our institutions tend to develop an approximate Anglo Saxon type which may be distinguished from other races notably by its successful profit-making, generous consumption and religious and political hypocrisy. The Anglo Saxon lacks spontaneity and prefers the will to the deed, tradition to experience.

There is no prospect in any time we can anticipate that all the race elements in the United States will be fused, but if we cannot have race unity, we can have race reciprocity. We have well enough absorbed the Irish, and we must it possible absorb the Jew. The segregation of this race is primarily its own work, but that does not excuse Jewish persecution. The solution is not marriage. The Jew's contribution to humanity is finished. The sooner he is absorbed the better.

Meanwhile, the Anglo Saxon must borrow, not only from the Jew, but from two other races with which he will not mingle. He needs, the gentility of the negro, who has smiled through slavery and institutions of blood, through the land of slavery, the land of blood and hate, an "other" or discrimination against him in labor and property. The white man has no such perennial humor. The Anglo Saxon needs the stoicism of the American Indian to neutralize his hoodlums, jingoism, and mercantile partnership. He needs the reserve of the Mongolian as an antidote for American loquacity and superficial thinking, as well as the cosmic philosophy of the East Indian to stem the tide of destructiveness which respects neither nature nor art.

Under a growing spirit of nationalism it will be possible to develop native snobishness, into local self government and race arrogance into universal sympathy.

CROSS COUNTRY RUN.

The second annual cross country run at the High School in the Mystic Valley District was held here last Saturday afternoon and for a second time Arlington High was the winner. There were six starters, seven from each school, Winchester, Arlington, Woburn, Stoneham and Reading, being represented.

The course was a 2.5 miles, starting at the railroad station on Walnut street, thence down Main street to Symmes corner, thence by Grove street, Fenwick road and the Mystic Valley Parkway back to Walnut street and finishing down the straightway of the running track at Winchester High.

Goldsmith of Arlington crossed the line first, his time being 22:55. He was followed by Zenger of Arlington and M. Dermott of Stoneham. They will receive medals for the places they won. Arlington High School gets the trophy.

The following is a list of the competitors, naming last and first time and score and placing medals. Stoneham: W. Zenger, 22:55, 1st; M. Dermott, 23:10, 2nd; W. Zenger, 23:15, 3rd; W. Zenger, 23:20, 4th.

The officials were: J. V. Gordon of Arlington starter; E. J. Thompson of Winchester timer; John B. Alley of Stoneham and O. M. Bennett of Woburn, judges at the finish; K. B. Dean of Winchester and F. V. Gordon of Arlington, scorers.

OBLIQUE CRABS.

Present Their Claws to Fishers Who Shake Hands With Them.

Visitors in St. Louis see women carrying baskets full of crabs. The crabs are cooked, and people nibble at them more for fun than sustenance, just as Russians nibble sunflower seeds. What becomes of the rest of this crustacean, especially if he is a crawfish, of his tail?

As a matter of fact the crawfish has no part in the business. The claws are taken from a salt water crab which lives along the shores of Morocco, Spain and Portugal. Each little crab, with its one little mate, has a cave for a home, and, adopting the eastern estimate of the other sex, he usually keeps his wife shut inside the cave, meanwhile staying about the threshold himself and making a brave show with his big claws.

When the tide runs out the crab fishers prowl along the beach looking for crab holes. Either the crab is stalking up and down seeking what he may devour and then showing whether he has fine claws or he is still at home, and the size of his doorway indicates the size of the householder. In one case the fisherman cuts off his retreat by blocking his front door with mud; in the other case he digs him out. Anyway, he deprives him of his pincers and sets him at liberty to grow some more.

Right here appears the quaintest feature of the whole affair, for the pincers are not torn away from the crab at all. Instead he presents them to the fisherman, perhaps even with his compliments. It is a fact easily demonstrable that the crab can detach his claw by muscular effort, thus making no hemorrhage, but leaving the stump in such condition that a new claw is soon grown. The fisherman simply takes the crab by the hand, whereupon it lets go, leaves the claw with them and romps off home without it. —Chicago Record Herald.

PRESSURE OF WATER.

Its Effect Upon a Corked Bottle Lowered into Ocean Depths.

A bottle partly filled with fresh water and tightly corked can be lowered into ocean depths, and on being raised to the surface it will be discovered on opening it that the fresh water has been replaced by salt.

This really extraordinary phenomenon is explained in the following way: The pressure of water increases as the distance from the surface increases. Thus at the distance of a foot beneath the surface the pressure of the water a square inch will be about half a pound; at a distance of, say, 200 feet it will be 125 pounds to the square inch. At ocean level the pressure of the atmosphere is a little over fourteen pounds. Thus if a bottle containing air were lowered thirty feet beneath the surface the pressure of water would more than counterbalance the pressure of the air. Ordinarily at this depth, therefore, the pressure of water should be sufficient to force the cork within the bottle, but the cork is tightly wedged in position, so that it cannot be compressed, and also there is friction to be overcome.

The distance varying, then, according to these conditions, at some point beneath the surface the weight of water will force the cork into the bottle, compressing the air before it. The salt water of the ocean mingles with the fresh water within the bottle. As the bottle again approaches the surface the air that remains within is subjected to less and less pressure till finally, now having itself a pressure greater than that of the water, it drives the cork back into position. —St. Louis Republic.

"Yes, she stuck up thing."

"I wouldn't say that. Perhaps she didn't mean to snub you."

"Of course she meant to snub me. You see, I had on my old hat."

"That wouldn't make any difference to her."

"Oh, wouldn't it? Once before when I happened to have on an old dress she didn't speak to me, either. Now I'm through with her. If she doesn't care enough for me to speak when I'm in my old clothes she needn't speak at all. I won't speak to her when I'm dressed up. That's all there is to it."

"Did you speak to her?"

"I should say not. It's her place to speak first. Do you suppose I'm going to attract attention by yelling my lungs out for the sake of her? I guess not."

"Perhaps she didn't see you."

"See me? Of course she did. I saw her, didn't I? Then why didn't she see me?" —Detroit Free Press.

When the Shoe Pinches.

"My own common sense and the shoe clerk permitting, I shall never wear another pair of tight shoes," said a woman, "but if I should be inveigled into making myself uncomfortable I know what I shall do to try to get the pain out. I shall rub my foot with a piece of soap, and then I shall rub it with a piece of soap."

The man's shoes pinched in three different places. Having noticed the painful spots, he rubbed them with a piece of soap, and then he rubbed them with a piece of soap.

"Now," said he at last, "your shoes are set to your feet. No more hurt."

"The man gave him a quarter, which I thought a small price to pay for so little from a pinching shoe." —New York Sun.

A Witty Reply.

On one occasion an important dress rehearsal at His Majesty's theater was prolonged until the small hours of the morning. The company grew very weary, particularly a gentleman who had been with Sir Herbert Berbohm Tree in a good many productions, but who had never attained to more than a very tiny part. When the time came to rehearse his few lines he was so tired that his voice was anything but distinct.

"What's the matter, Mr. Z?" asked Sir Herbert in his most sarcastic tones. "Are you saving your voice for the rehearsal?"

"No, Sir Herbert," was the retort. "I've never been able to save anything under your management."

Sir Herbert, an exceedingly witty man himself, was so pleased with the retort that the salary of the small part man was raised. —London M. A. P.

EXCESS OF MEN IN THE UNITED STATES.

Census Shows 106 Males to 100 Females—Due to Extensive Immigration.

The population of the United States exclusive of Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico and other noncontiguous possessions comprised in 1910, according to the last federal census, 47,332,277 males and 44,639,989 females, or 106 male to every 100 females. In 1900 there were 104.4 males to every 100 females. These figures are contained in a statement issued by Director Durand of the bureau of the census, department of commerce and labor, and are based upon a tabulation prepared under the direction of William C. Hunt, chief statistician for population in the census bureau. The figures are preliminary and subject to revision.

The excess of males in the United States is mainly due to the extensive immigration, a much larger proportion of the immigrants being males than females. In the foreign born white population there are 129.2 males to 100 females. But the native white population also has a slight excess of males, the ratio being 102.7 to 100.

In the negro population the males are outnumbered by females in a ratio of 98.9 to 100. Among the Chinese in this country males outnumber females by more than 14 to 1, and among the Japanese by about 7 to 1. The Indians show a small excess of males, 103.5 to 100 females.

The preponderance of males in the aggregate population of the United States is most marked in the Pacific and mountain divisions (far western states), with ratios in 1910 of, respectively, 129.5 and 127.9 males to 100 females. The proportion of males is lowest in New England, this being the only geographic division in which there is a slight excess of females over males. There are only five states in which females outnumber males—namely, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maryland, North Carolina and South Carolina.

Of the fifty cities having over 100,000 inhabitants, there are twenty-eight in which the males outnumber the females. In thirty-nine of the cities the proportion of males was greater in 1910 than in 1900, and in eleven it was less. The number of males per 100 females was greatest in Seattle (136.2) and only slightly less in Portland, Ore. (134.5). Nashville shows the smallest proportion of males, with a ratio of 89.6 to 100 females. Of the eight cities having 500,000 or more inhabitants, Baltimore has the lowest number of males per 100 females (92.6), and Cleveland the highest (106.6), but the ratio is almost as high in Chicago, where there are 106.3 males to 100 females. New York city's population is almost evenly divided by sex; in Philadelphia the females outnumber the males.

PRINTS PARCELS POST MAPS

United States Geological Survey Gets the Postoffice Department Contract.

Postmaster General Hitchcock has awarded the contract for printing 125,000 parcels post maps of the United States to the geological survey, which submitted the lowest bid. Mr. Hitchcock is thus able to take advantage of the resources of the government to furnish these maps and rely thoroughly upon their accuracy.

The parcels post system must be in operation on Jan. 1. Mr. Hitchcock announced that the maps will be in the hands of the postmasters long before that time.

On the maps the whole area of the United States is divided into quadrangles, measuring thirty minutes on each side. These quadrangles are known as units of area. In the lower left hand corner of the map will appear a table of rates and brief instructions for its use.

JUST A LITTLE PATCH.

By Minnie N. Hinds, 6 Glen Road, Winchester, Mass.

"Whew!" exclaimed Bert Dascom as he opened the door of his third floor back in the boarding house.

"Turnips again?" He tossed the bundle on to the bed and threw up the window with a bang.

Bert splashed cold water over his clear cut features and brushed his curls vigorously, then, picking up the package, he continued, "I couldn't afford another shirt this week, but that black and white line just caught me." As he tore the paper something shimmering green slipped through his fingers to the floor. Shaking it out, he held it up to the light—a dainty silk petticoat that crinkled and glowed at him as if it were alive. "Some class," he murmured. "She must be a little one, but where the dickens is my shirt? Scattered bundles, I suppose. Gee!" he grinned. "I'd like to see her face when she opened my bundle, wonder if she's pretty."

Just then he espied a patch above the hem, and examined it critically. "Neat little job that," he said approvingly. "Aunt Jane used to say, 'When you find a girl who can patch well—think twice about her—she's likely to make a good wife.'"

Aunt Jane had been rather mother to the orphan boy, and since her death, he had lived a lonesome, uncared for life in his third floor back.

A square of white on the binding caught his eye. "Molly D." was embroidered in green script. "Molly D." Humph! Well, I must confess I'd like to see the girl who patched that.

Bert went out after supper and inserted the following advertisement:

"If Molly D. will send address letters in the next room. 'I'm to have a raise next month, and there's a good chance for promotion. Would you mind living this way for a little while? I love you so, and, Molly, there isn't a fellow on earth who would appreciate a home and a dear little wife more than I would.'"

"It's so tiny," stammered Molly with a twinkle of the big brown eyes, "for a big man like you."

"It's big enough for love, and we can squeeze in, too," laughed Bert happily, "and the little patch is responsible."

While Harvard is winning its athletic contests over Yale, it should not be forgotten that Harvard is also proving a champion in contests of wits. The Harvard chess team has defeated the Yale chess team overwhelmingly, making its tenth consecutive victory. Among the members of the Harvard team is a freshman, and imagine this does not very often occur, as a varsity chess player is usually a seasoned veteran. The 1910 member was Francis M. Currier of Winchester, son of Professor C. F. A. Currier of Tech, and he beat his Yale opponent, Boston Journal.

OUR ANNUAL OFFER.

Once every year the Winchester STAR makes an annual offer of a reduction in rates to secure new subscribers. This is done in order to interest every man, woman and child in Winchester in this paper and to give them an opportunity to become steady subscribers to the Winchester STAR.

Our regular subscription rate is $2 per year, but to all new subscribers who pay Two Dollars in advance, the issues from this date until January 1st will be mailed without extra cost. There are, practically no restrictions on this offer, except that it is for strictly new subscribers whose names are not now borne on our mailing list, and there will be no transfer from the name of one member of a family to another of the same family in the same house.

Stoneham is the latest town in this section to purchase a motor combination fire truck. After all, this form of apparatus is only yet in the experimental stage.

The Boston Central Labor union wants Massachusetts to have a pure milk law. Perhaps it is a good idea, but we all know what pure milk costs. [Somerville Journal.]

Arlington has adopted building laws. And they have come none too soon judging from the class of buildings erected during the past twelve months. Watertown, too, has just adopted building laws.

Appropriations of nearly $200,000,000 for pensions to veterans of American wars will be necessary at the short session of Congress that opened Monday. This unusual sum exceeds all appropriations of former years. Uncle Sam is treating the old soldiers pretty well.

Do your Christmas shopping early, of course, but don't do it early merely because the department stores are anxious to have you do it now and are using their influence with the daily papers to urge you to do it. If you shop now, you can do it more intelligently and you will obtain better results in every way. The plea of some of the big stores for the comfort of their employees is not more than half sincere. [Charles Town Enterprise.]

If the town is to build a street across the pond it should be done only by the most direct route, and that is by extending Railroad avenue or Winchester place. There is no doubt but that a street around the pond with entrance at the Christian Science Church on Mt. Vernon street would have its advantages, but it will never take the place of a direct street to the center of the town, and bring about the discontinuance by the residents of the Plains using the tracks of the railroad as a more direct means of reaching the center. A street leading from the center of the town would open up considerable land on Railroad avenue and Winchester place for business purposes, which is much needed, which would also mean increased values for the town.

MRS. THOMAS O'CONNOR.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth O'Connor, wife of Thomas O'Connor, died at her home on Bridge street Tuesday of cancer of the stomach. She was 55 years of age. Six months ago her health became so poor that she underwent an operation at a Boston hospital, but she was only temporarily benefited.

Mrs. O'Connor was born in Boston, her parents being Edward and Rosanna Galt. She was a resident of this town for the past 15 years.

She leaves her husband and one son, Charles E., who resides at Portsmouth, N. H., besides a brother, Daniel Galt of Boston, and two sisters, Mrs. Catherine F. Johnson of North Middleboro, and Mrs. Margaret E. Maloney of North Lakeville.

The funeral services were held yesterday morning, High Mass being celebrated at St. Mary's church at nine o'clock.

The pallbearers were Edward C. Sullivan, John F. Holland, Edward F. McGuire, Thomas Keane, Michael Fielding and John Donahue.

The burial was in Calvary Cemetery, Monday.

USEFUL HOLIDAY GIFTS

OF SPECIAL MERIT FOR MEN AND BOYS

The things that men appreciate above everything else are the practical gifts of things for everyday use - things that the recipient would buy for himself.

And then, too, you raise his opinion of you - just another bit higher when you present him with something practical and sensible - something he would buy for himself.

Everytime he wears the Scarf, the Shirt, or the Cravat or Bathrobe, or the Hose, or the Suspenders, or the Gloves which you gave him, he thinks of you.

Everytime he sees the ornament, perhaps, but an useful gift of some time else, he unconsciously remembers you for your practical, useful and sensible gift of something to wear.

So, when you select a present for "him" remember men are practical. They cherish the memory of a practical, useful gift, but something that is impossible to get.

Give your gift to "him" something he will really like better than any other gift he receives - let it be something he can wear.

In the Winchester court last Friday morning Judge Johnson, in the case of the practice of selling firearms to boys, and said that accidents, that might easily be avoided, are too prevalent. He said that an unfortunate example had been brought to his attention that morning of carelessness resulting from allowing a boy to have possession of a rifle, and advised that more drastic measures be taken to keep firearms out of their possession.

The possibility of a snowshow club in Woburn is strong this year. In Winchester, a club was formed some years ago, a good deal of an experiment in a way, but its success was instantaneous, and now it is as big and important a function as the swiftest ball of the year. There are a few experts in this city, and many more who do not claim to be experts, but who enjoy the sport immensely, and who would greatly favor the idea of a club. Moonlight parties in three feet of snow are, with good sledding, all that a lover of the sport can ask for. Woburn Times.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

Even in prosperous times, thousands of destitute and homeless men loaf on the streets of the squalid neighborhoods, sleep on the park benches and infest the free boarding houses. In rural communities such men are called "tramps." In the city they are called "bums."

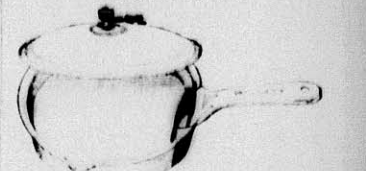

Agents of the organized charities of New York City have recently interviewed 20,000 persons of this kind. Twelve thousand of them frankly admitted that drink is the principal cause of their destitution; 4600 said that they were unable to get work because they were too old; 3400 laid their misfortunes to sickness and injury.

If accurate these figures carry one of the most powerful temperance sermons ever preached. And there is reason to believe that the facts are even more appalling than the figures show, for probably not only the 12,000, but many of the remaining 8000 owe it to drink that they are vagrants and outcasts.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held with Miss Eugenia M. Elliott, 134 Mt. Vernon street, Friday, Dec. 13th, at 3 p. m. Members and friends please make a special effort to attend.

THE WINCHESTER STAR

THOMAS P. WILSON,
Editor and Publisher
WINCHESTER, MASS.
Telephone 6, 25
1000 COPIES, FIVE CENTS.

Entered at the postoffice at Winchester, Massachusetts, as second-class matter.

Left at Your Residence,
For One Year, the Winchester Star, $5.00, in advance.

An appreciative Christmas present would be to subscribe to the STAR for a year and send it to some absent friend or relative.

The abolition of grade crossings in Massachusetts since the law providing for the abolition went into effect, has cost almost forty millions. Has anyone heard of any of that money being spent for the abolition of our crossing?

Readers of the STAR will find in the Christmas section of this issue many suggestions for Christmas shoppers from the local merchants. It is also well to bear in mind that the local merchants stand back of their goods, so that you are sure of getting just what you purchase.

A despatch from Washington says: "Chinese students and others entitled to entry to the United States are treated with contumely and disrespect, according to Dr. Ling-I. Wong, chairman of the Chinese Boy's and Young Men's Association. Dr. Ling, in addressing the Federal School Men's Club, made this statement, and thereupon created today a discussion in educational circles in the capital. The Pacific Coast is not the only place where disrespect is shown to people coming to the States. We have seen passengers coming by steamer from Nova Scotia treated most humbly, by immigration officials right here in Boston—contents of trunks turned up side down and contents piled on the dirty flooring of the wharf, and left there for the owner to put back in the trunk, because the officials said that it was not "up to him to put the articles back." Yes, there is crying need for reform in the treatment of people coming to this country. At Nova Scotia ports, passengers are welcomed and treated with the utmost respect.

BOYS' KNOW PROMOTION.

Four boys were arrested last Friday by Chief McIntosh charged with breaking and entering the store on the east side of the late Samuel W. Smith on Washington street. A quantity of fruit was taken from the place, the property of Thomas Gargus, who used the stable for storage.
The boys were arrested after their return from a trip to Woburn, they having their pockets filled with cigars and other goods which they had stolen from stores at that place. The boys were John G.
Mahoney, aged 16 years, Eugene Mahoney, 17, Charles Gargus, 17, and Living Cederburg, 13.

Mahoney and Cederburg were on probation for the theft of a hand bag from an automobile a week ago. Mahoney was sent to the Industrial School at Shirley and Cederburg was sent to the Lyman School at Westboro. The other two boys were put on probation.

MR. EIDER'S VIEWS.

Samuel J. Elder, talking to Lawrence and Lawrence Thurnage, the Day, well said that the alien who comes to our shore today must do something to solve his own problems as did those who came before him.
The corner stone has been laid for him and he must do his best toward rearing the structure. He cannot expect to break every law that he is accustomed to obey in his old country. America offers him great advantages but calls upon him for vast responsibilities. Generations who have come before the alien of today have prepared for him magnificent schools for his children and every attraction of free speech and other the most not expect the liberty offered him to be turned into uneducated license. We ask him to pay for what is spread before him with decent citizenship and a regard for law and order. Melrose News.

Do you realize that about every one who has anything to sell advertises in the STAR? When you want to make a purchase you will do well to look over our advertising columns.

because at present there is a single line of poles in Pond street, very large and very high, which is owned and used by the Edison Company for the transmission of the current from the Power Station in Boston to that in Woburn from which it is distributed throughout Western Winchester and Stoughton for street lighting, etc. In addition to this high power line, the poles carry the street lighting circuit for Pond street, as well as a few wires of the Telephone Company for subscribers in Pond street.

The high power wires occupy the upper part of the poles and the telephone wires the lower part, there being a space of at least 20 feet between the two sets of wires. Pond street is a comparatively narrow street being only 40 feet wide and it did not seem proper to him to place in another line. He wished to urge the advisability of placing the high power wires underground as soon as this board might judge expedient. The voltage of the transmission line might be increased at any time without notice. If it were considered proper to place underground such wires in other towns and cities, similar treatment of the Pond street wires ought to follow in Winchester. If the high power wires were placed in underground conduits in Pond street as suggested within a reasonable time, there would be no necessity for two lines of poles in the street since the existing line would be able to carry not

WINCHESTER WON AGAIN.

Flanders' bowling team was given its second beating at Woburn last Friday night by the Winchester Elks. The game was so decisively in favor of Winchester that it could hardly be called a contest. The first and second strings were big marbles but Winchester relaxed in the last string and only won by seven pins.

Frank Davis hit his golf during the winter getting a three string total of 277. The high string was 122 and was balanced by strings of 164, 165, Winchester took the total by 130 pins. The scores:

PARK THEATRE.

Next Monday, Rose Stahl will begin the last two weeks of her engagement at the Park Theatre in Charles Klein's play, "Department Store."

"Magpie Pepper." When Miss Stahl concludes her stay on Saturday night, December 22, she will have appeared at the Park Theatre for 12 weeks, a record equaled by no other star in play in Boston this season and by few in New York, where long runs are usually the rule.

This will be the only engagement which Miss Stahl will play in New England, therefore out of town playgoers who desire to see the one big dramatic hit of the year must visit the Park Theatre within the next two weeks.

The matinees are given on Wednesday and Saturday and particular attention is given to orders received by mail.

That was a well deserved tribute paid by Congressmen, Senators, to Samuel W. McCall on the occasion of the recent banquet at the Fenway House.

Congressman McCall has ably and faithfully represented his district and the old Bay State at Washington during a long term of years. He has not been a representative of any private, personal or special interests, but has proved himself to be an intelligent and broad minded legislator, mindful of the interests of all the people.

Samuel W. McCall is thoroughly well fitted to represent Massachusetts in the United States Senate, and it is no disparagement of other aspirants to say that Mr. McCall has special qualifications for a seat in the Senate by reason of his long service in the House and his intimate acquaintance with men and affairs at Washington. His election would reflect credit on the coming legislature. Atcham Chronicle.

Joseph Whitlock was in court last week and was found guilty of keeping an unlicensed dog. The case was heard on the upon recommendation of Chief Magistrate Whitlock, having paid the license before, he was sent into court.

"JUST LOOKING TODAY"

All day both the Christmas shoppers rush madly here and there. And all the spendthrifts in one dim, And that is for street car fare.

TAUGHT A MORAL LESSON

Two Christmas Presents, Neither of Which Brought Satisfactory Results.

There once was a rich old uncle who had two poor nephews.

And when Christmas came the two poor nephews were anxious to show the rich old uncle how much they thought of him.

Now the first poor nephew reasoned that he should impress his rich old uncle with the great affection he bore him by some tangible means. So he drew out his savings and purchased for his rich old uncle a magnificent gold watch, and had it neatly engraved. To it he attached a gorgeous chain, put the whole affair in a lavishly decorated box and sent it to his rich old uncle with his best wishes.

The second poor nephew figured that any extreme financial outlay would convince his rich old uncle that he was trying to jolly him a bit too much, so he invented a nickel in a neat but tasteless Christmas card, which he mailed to the rich old uncle.

So the rich old uncle received the two remembrances and, and of the first nephew.

"Thoughtful! A man who will spend all he has for a gold watch, to give a man who already has all the watches he ever will need, isn't got enough common sense to be so rich with money. I will leave him my blessing and a few words of good advice."

When he looked at the card he nodded his head approvingly and said:

"There's a man after my own heart. He knew I would not care for an expensive gift, and he knew that I would value his good wishes, so he very wisely sent them to me in this inexpensive manner. He shows a marked economical trait and I am sure he will get along in the world without any aid from me."

So he made a new will and left all his money to found an institution for the study of prohibitive manifestations of interclass diseases in fossilized and maleducated.

And now a New Hampshire legislator plans to have the State take over that part of the Boston & Maine system which runs through the State. If the road should be cut up into smaller roads, each owned by a different commonwealth, the average citizen would soon find that his last condition was worse than his first. It was developed from a group of short connecting systems, and has been a vast improvement upon any and all of them. — Charlestown Enterprise.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The ministry of education in Germany has approved of the following circular, now being distributed by the board of health:

Give your children not a drop of wine. Not a drop of beer. Not a drop of brandy.

WHY?

Alcohol checks the bodily and mental development of children.

Alcohol leads quickly to exhaustion and produces heaviness and inattention in the school. Alcohol causes disobedience to parents.

Alcohol measures the death rate of children.

Alcohol increases sleeplessness and early nervousness.

Alcohol weakens the resisting power of the body and thereby leads to the development of all kinds of diseases.

Alcohol prolongs the duration of every illness.

Alcohol continually awakens renewed thirst and on that account leads easily to habits of drinking.

How encouraging that such a circular is being widely distributed in Germany hitherto the land of universal beer drinking. Would that something like this might at once be done in America.

BOSTON THEATRE.

Without question of a doubt, the appearance of Eddie Foy and his seventy-five players and special train load of gorgeous costumes, scene and electric display announced for Monday, Dec. 16, at the Boston Theatre is one of the welcome bits, theatrically, of the day.

This immense organization, under the direction of Werba and Luescher, comes direct from the Globe Theatre, New York, where it broke all records for laughter and box office receipts for a solid six months' run. It is the one musical comedy attraction that does not boast of or advertise any one particular feature, because from a standpoint of music, the laughter and beauty, it has almost innumerable attractive novelties.

Eddie Foy, himself, is a powerful feature, and recognized as the drollest comedian of the present, a natural born humor on the American stage. He is a whole show in himself in his latest merry novelty, "Over the River," and New York critics were unanimous in proclaiming this latest role of his as his greatest success.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

In order to give ample time for the preparations and rehearsals of "The Gingerbread Man," the Castle Square Theatre will be closed during the coming week. On Monday, December 24th, Mr. Craig's little annual holiday musical production will be given. "The Gingerbread Man" is a merry holiday play alike for children and grown-ups, and it contains among its personages, Jack, Horner, Simple Simon, Santa Claus, the Fairy Queen and many other familiar personages. There will be a chorus of forty singers, and the cast will include: Mary Young as Jack Horner, John Craig as Wondrous Wise, Wilson McKee as Mischief, Fudge, Donald McKee as the Gingerbread Man, and all the other favorite players of the Castle Square company.

MESSIAH'S KINGDOM

The Glorious Day of Divine Favor is Nearing.

The period in which sin is permitted has been a dark night to humanity, never to be forgotten, but the glimmers of righteousness and divine favor is soon to be ushered in by Messiah. He is the SUN OF RIGHT, the SUNSHINE, shall arise and shine fully and clearly into and upon all, bringing healing and blessing, which will more than compensate the dreadful night of weeping, wailing, pain, sickness and death, in which the growing creation has been so long. Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the MORNING.

VOTES FOR WOMEN.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Now that ten states allow women to vote and Winchester has an Anti-league and Massachusetts will very soon join them, will you please give to your readers this account of a pioneer.

Winfield L. Tuck.

Lucetta Mott.

On the little island of Nantucket, off the Massachusetts coast, shortly after the close of the Revolutionary War, was born one of the most active and most effective among the early pioneers for the advancement of women. Her name was Lucetta Coffin, and she was descended through her father, Captain Thomas Coffin, from one of the original purchasers of the island.

When Lucetta was eleven years old her parents removed to Boston, Mass., and she was educated in the schools of that city, where Mr. Mott, who later became her husband, was teaching. In 1809 her parents moved to Philadelphia and in the Pine Street Meeting House two years later she married James Mott, when barely eighteen.

In 1817 Mrs. Mott took charge of a private school in Philadelphia and a year afterwards became an acknowledged minister among the Friends adhering to the Hicksite branch until her death, in 1889, at the age of eighty-seven.

She early became interested in the movement against slavery, and in 1823 assisted in the formation in Philadelphia of the American anti-slavery society, though, owing to the ideas then accepted as to the activities of women, she did not sign the declaration that was adopted.

Later, for a time, she was active in the formation of female anti-slavery organization. In 1819 she went to London as a delegate from the American anti-slavery convention, but it was there decided to admit no woman. She was received, however, with cordiality, formed acquaintance with those most active in the movement in Great Britain, and made various addresses.

The action of the convention in excluding women excited indignation and led to the establishment of women's rights journals in England and France and to the movement in the United States, in which Mrs. Mott took an active part.

Lucetta Mott was one of the four women that called the convention at Seneca Falls, N. Y., in 1848, and subsequently devoted part of her efforts to the agitation for improving the legal and political status of women.

James Mott, the husband of the brilliant Lucetta, seems to have been as indifferent to public notice as he was willing to encourage and support his wife in her humanitarian ministrations. Life with him was at first a serious struggle, but he at length became a cotton commission merchant, in which business he achieved a considerable success. As cotton was grown by slaves, and his Labor Products Society, he was in- vited to the head of the Free-Trade to quit the trade in 1830 and turn his attention to wool, which came from flocks which no slave tended.

Mrs. Mott thus explains how she came to be interested in the equality of women: "Learning while at school that the charge for the education of girls was the same as that of boys, and that when they became teachers, women received but half as much as men for their services, the injustice was so apparent that I resolved to claim for myself all that an impartial Creator had bestowed."

A prominent writer thus wrote of Lucetta Mott two years before her death: "Birth made her a queen, but her own pure, sweet life makes Lucetta Mott a queen of a realm upon which the sun never sets—the realm of humanity. If any woman ever inherited the earth, it is this blessed Quaker woman. Blessed indeed, for the example of her industrious life, for the influence of her gentle teachings, for the honor that she has conferred upon all womanhood. No misrepresentation of abuse, for she has had both, have ever deterred her from duty."

FORGIVE SEVENTY TIMES SEVEN.

Matthew xviii, 15-35—Dec. 15.

"Be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving each other, even as God, for Christ's sake, forgives you"—Eph. iv, 32.

To learn today's lesson well means a blessing for life to every true Christian. The lesson relates to the consecrated, the members of the Body of Christ, the Church, of which He is the Head.

The Master's rule for His followers is, if a brother injure you, go to him alone, striving to reach an understanding. The probability is that misunderstanding is all that there is of it. But if this does not suffice and you consider the matter serious, ask two others to accompany you to the offender, without explaining the mission—leave their minds free to hear the case.

The agreement of these brethren and their advice should be followed by both. If they disagree with you, you should acknowledge that you have erred. If they agree with you, and your opponent refuses to heed their counsel and persists in doing you injury, and you still think it of sufficient importance to trouble the Church with the matter, you are then at liberty so to do. The Church's decision is to be final, binding upon both. The one refusing to hear the Church is to be treated as an outsider, not in the sense of doing him injury, but abstaining from appointing him to any position, or honor in the Church, until his course shall be changed. How simple the Divine direction; what a blessing would come from following it!

Forgive "Seventy Times Seven."

St. Peter put a hypothetical question, of how many times a brother might trespass and ask forgiveness and yet be forgiven—would seven times be the limit? The Master practically declared that there could be no limit, that any brother confessing his fault and asking forgiveness must be forgiven, if it should occur 70 times. For forgiveness is obligatory when asked for. We must not be afraid of following the Master's direction.

Then our Lord gave a parable, to illustrate this matter. A certain King had a reckoning with his servants. One owed him ten thousand talents. His master commanded him to be sold, and all that he had until the payment should be made. But the servant fell down at his master's feet and besought him to have compassion on him and he would pay the debt. And the master had compassion on him and discharged him from prison. The matter reached the ears of the master, who called him and said: "Thou wicked servant! I released thee from the penalty of thy debt, thou shouldst also have had mercy upon thy fellow servant, even as I had pity upon thee." And he delivered him to punishment till he should pay all that was due."

An Important Lesson Here.

What is the lesson? The lesson is well expressed in our text: "We should be kind to one another, tender-hearted, as God in Christ forgave us—and continue to forgive us day by day. The trespasses of others against us are trifling indeed in comparison to our obligations to the Lord. We should therefore be very willing, and ready to forgive all who ask us 'until seventy times seven.' In this exercising mercy we will be copying the Divine character."

As we remember our own weaknesses and blunders, it will make us sympathetic with the brethren, and with all mankind and we will thereby be fitted and prepared to have a share with Jesus in His Throne of glory for that great Messianic Kingdom will be established for the very purpose of showing mercy unto all mankind who will return to Divine favor and blessing under clearer knowledge and with the assistance then afforded.

We are not to understand this parable to refer to Divine forgiveness of original sin. The Son of Adam is not forgiven except in the Divine way, through Jesus through faith in His blood. The parable refers to subsequent sins, which were referred to in our Lord's prayer: "Forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us." This is shown by the fact that the parable speaks of these as sins, whereas the world as a whole are not God's servants, but "enemies, strangers, foreigners." The only ones whom God forgives are servants, and as we have come into relationship with Him through Jesus, through faith and regeneration, these are servants of God and are to have mercy upon them, forgive them.

Pay me now, for I am very willing, and ready to forgive all who ask us 'until seventy times seven.' In this exercising mercy we will be copying the Divine character."

As we remember our own weaknesses and blunders, it will make us sympathetic with the brethren, and with all mankind and we will thereby be fitted and prepared to have a share with Jesus in His Throne of glory for that great Messianic Kingdom will be established for the very purpose of showing mercy unto all mankind who will return to Divine favor and blessing under clearer knowledge and with the assistance then afforded.

SELECTMEN'S MEETING.

William H. Rogers appointed a Regular Patrolman.

December 16, 1912.

Board met at 7:30 p. m., all present. Records of the previous session approved.

Mr. Daly for the Committee on Police offered the following order which was passed: Ordered, That William H. Rogers, 254 Main street, appointed patrolman on the police force May 21, 1912, for a probationary term of six months, and he is hereby appointed a regular patrolman at a salary of $2.75 per day, and appointment and said salary to date from November 21, 1912.

The Clerk submitted record of the public hearing on the matter of a street across Judson Pond held December 12, 1912, and the same was approved as follows:

The hearing was opened by Mr. Pond, Chairman of the Selectmen and there were present Mr. Jewett and Mr. Daly of the Selectmen, and Mr. Charles A. Lane of the Park Board, about 25 or 30 citizens were also in attendance. Mr. Pond read the letters of Mr. Skillings dated December 16, 1912, and Mr. John S. Lynam dated January 13, 1912, making offer of their land and outlined the present status of the matter.

Mr. Hinds, Town Engineer, outlined the general scheme and previous surveys that had been made and their estimated cost. In the discussion which followed and which was participated in by Messrs. John E. McNally, P. E. Fitzgerald, John F. Holland, J. P. Boutwell, Whitfield Turk, Michael O'Flaherty and Dr. Clarence J. Allen, it appeared that a more direct street across the pond starting at Winchester place or Railroad avenue was not possible on account of excessive cost made necessary by the great depth of mud and uncertainty of filling and that such a street would be of practically the same length from end to end as that proposed by the Selectmen taking the land of Messrs. Skillings and Lynam.

Mr. P. E. Fitzgerald recommended that the line of the proposed street take a more direct line towards Holland street from the end of the Skillings land requiring in that event some additional filling towards the east of the curve and creating with Mr. Lynam's land an opportunity to establish a playground which could be flooded in winter to make a skating pond. This plan met with some opposition on the ground that filling required would be about as expensive as would be necessary for a direct street across the pond. There was no other opposition to the street as proposed by the Selectmen, although Dr. Allen claimed that such a street would not meet the wants of the citizens for a direct street across the pond. He thought it desirable, however, to make the taking of the land by the street proposed by Mr. Daly and a letter from the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board, at Boston.

Our Board has taken into consideration the suggestions which you made in behalf of the Selectmen of the Town of Winchester in regard to the building of a new highway by the town in connection with the construction of the new Mystic sewer in Winchester.

We have met Mr. Skillings and understand on what terms he will permit the location of the sewer as proposed through his land.

The Board will undoubtedly have to go ahead and arrange for the acquiring of easements for the sewer before the town could act in relation to the highway. It would seem to the Board that the better way would be to permit the town so far as the Board is concerned, to use the strip of land as set aside, through which the easement would be taken for the location of the sewer, for the purposes of a highway, it being understood that the town would not charge for the easement which would be required through land of the town substantially along the route proposed.

This would leave it to the Town to obtain from Mr. Skillings the right to construct the highway through a govt. strip, in regard to which Mr. Skillings would of course make allowance to the town on account of the rights acquired and paid for by the Board.

The hearing adjourned at 9:30 p. m. Frank R. Miller, Clerk of the Board.

LOVEY NIGHT.

The manager of the Lovely Night, which was held at the Winchester Hotel on Wednesday evening, December 19, 1912, was Mr. Charles H. Chapman. The evening's entertainment was a success, the prizes for the most money won by Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Gossion, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Rutger and Dr. Irving L. Cutter and Mrs. Maurice C. Thompson. The bowling prizes were won by Mrs. Philip C. Somonds, who rolled a string of 104.

Mrs. Frank E. White, 90; Mrs. George E. Willey, 87; Mrs. J. C. Kerrison, 86.

The club was decorated for the evening with Christmas greens, a most complete miniature Christmas tree placed in the dance hall at the top of a snow drift, tinsel streamers and wreaths with scarlet ribbon, all lending the air of the holidays to the occasion.

DELIBERATIVE ASSEMBLY.

A meeting of the Deliberative Assembly was held Tuesday evening in the High School library, with Pres. James Nowell in the chair. Harry C. Sanborn made a report for the committee on night schools. A school was established here a few weeks ago by private subscription for the Italian residents of the town, and was in session in the High School Building last Tuesday night. Several of the members of the Assembly visited the rooms where the classes were in session, previous to the meeting. The committee reported that the school committee would ask for an appropriation for night schools at the annual town meeting in March, and was of the opinion that the appropriation should be favored. Ernest R. Eustis reported for the committee on housing. As the town has not accepted the housing problem act passed by the last Legislature, the matter being in the hands of the Board of Health, the committee made no recommendations and was continued, with instructions to investigate further the advisability of adopting the new housing act. Frank E. Rowe made a report for the committee on the price of gas. The committee was of the opinion that a reduction from the present price of $1.40 gross and 1.25 net a 1000 feet might be secured, and the committee was authorized to bring the matter before the proper authorities, to secure a reduction. The speaker of the evening was Preston Pond, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, who took for his subject, "The Development of the Town from a Physical and Financial Standpoint." In an interesting way he told of the work the Board of Selectmen has done in the past three years, and gave an analysis of the financial condition of the town, which showed that it compares favorably with the best towns and cities in the State. While Winchester has made good progress in paying off its debts and is in a position today where about a quarter of a million dollars could be borrowed inside the debt limit, still he advocated paying off more each year than the present schedule calls for, even at the danger of an increased tax rate. At the close of his address Mr. Pond was given a unanimous vote of thanks and considerable time was spent in a general discussion of various phases of town affairs on which he had touched.

MRS. MARY E. FOSTER.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Lang Foster, widow of the late Jack E. Foster, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Abram E. Collier, 11 Sheffield road on Monday, December 19, 1912. She was in her 84th year. Her death was due to bronchial asthma.

Mrs. Foster was born in Boston in the old Fort Hill section, and had made her home in this town for the past eight years. Her husband died about fifteen years ago, and Mrs. Collier is the only surviving member of her family. Her father, John Lang, served consistently in the navy during the war of 1812. At one time he was a member of the crew of the famous Wasp, and it is narrated that at the time of the battle between that boat and the British sloop Trade he was the first man to board the Trade when the two boats came together.

Mrs. Foster was a particularly strong and vigorous woman, and notwithstanding her advanced years made a noble battle for life during her illness.

The funeral services were held from the residence on Wednesday afternoon, December 19, 1912, at 2:30 p. m., conducted by Rev. Joel Metcalf, pastor of the Unitarian Church. The burial was at Woodlawn.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

A newly organized company to be known as the Anti Friction Bearing Co., has purchased the brick building on Winchester Park occupied by the company that had been manufacturing hose couplings.

The new concern in addition to purchasing the building has secured all the machinery and tools of the old concern, and will start immediately manufacturing anti-friction bearings.

The manager is Mr. Charles H. Chapman, Jr., of Hingham, who has secured a number of engineers and machinists from the Hingham area, and who will be in charge of the new concern. The new company is expected to be in operation in a few days, and will employ many men.

It is reported that James Gargas has purchased the Winchester Hotel on Main street and that he has engaged Christus Athan to manage it for him.

MEN'S SUPPER.

What Men Can Do in Providing an Attractive Menu.

The first of the week we received the following letter from a member of the committee who had charge of the arrangements for the Men's Supper at the Congregational Church last evening: Dear Sir:—There is going to be a sumptuous dinner Thursday evening, December 19, given by the Men's Club of the Congregational Church at 6:30 o'clock to which our committee sends to you a most cordial invitation to be present. I personally would esteem it a favor if you would be on hand that I might show to you the result of the efforts of the men in procuring what I call a real dinner. Please bear in mind that there are to be no beans at this dinner.

The STAR would call particular attention of the ladies of the Church to the last sentence of this invitation, as some of them are quoted as saying, "I suppose it will be a bean supper." Glance your eye over the following menu, skeptical ladies:

Cold Meats
Turkey, Ham, Tongue
Salads
Chicken, Shrimp, Lobster
Mashed Potatoes Cranberry Jelly
Escalloped Oysters Celery
Parker House Rolls Pies
Apple, Cranberry, Mince, Squash
Ices
Vanilla, Mousse, Fruit
Assorted Cake
Coffee

The men placed implicit confidence in the men, and the supper, and the result was a large attendance. Nearly every seat was occupied for the full supper period, and there was no going out between courses.

The guest of the evening was Melvin M. Johnson, Esq., of Waltham, and his address was listened to with attention and appreciation. An orchestra gave selections during the evening. It was a genuinely social evening.

The men present were under obligation to the committee, who made such a success of this supper. Messrs. Arthur W. Hale, Ralph B. Redfern, Charles A. Lane, Eben Caldwell and David Witmer. At the business meeting of the Club Mr. Charles A. Lane was elected president. He will appoint five other members to serve as directors who will have charge of the affairs of the Club for the ensuing year.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

Members of the Literature Group of the Fortnightly Club enjoyed a very instructive afternoon on Friday, the 14th, at the library of the High School.

Mrs. Kneeland, the chairman presided, giving a list of the books to be discussed at the next meeting of the club.

Mrs. Latham Woods read a most interesting paper on Browning giving a resume of his character, his deep and appreciative love of music and art, also his intimate knowledge of childhood, youth and later his very happy married life with his wife, Elizabeth Barrett. These relations bore visible fruit in his verse.

To listen to a musical speaking voice is among the rare pleasures. After the paper Mrs. Woods read not only with fine interpretation but most musically his poem "One Word More" and ended by reading "Prospect."

We were shown by Mrs. Foster of Browning that he is not so hard to understand after all. There is a strength of language and sentiment to one's enjoyment of his verse that few poets possess.

Mrs. Ely also with contagious enthusiasm read his poem on "Andrea del Sarto" following with one "A Tale" written in a happy playful vein. It tells what one small cricket could do!

What Michael Angelo is to lovers of Art, so is Browning to lovers of verse. The next meeting will be Jan. 4, at 3 p. m. in the High School Library. Subject, "Arnold Bennett Criticism," followed by discussion.

The next meeting of the Fortnightly is to be December 30, a stereopticon lecture on "English Cathedrals" by Rev. Charles F. Collins.

The next class in Parliamentary Law will be held at the usual place on Thursday, January 2, at 10:30 a. m.

MISS LILA A. SELLER.

Miss Lila A. Seller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Seller, died at her home on Monday, December 19, 1912. She was in her 24th year. Her death was due to pneumonia. She was a member of the Unitarian Church and was a very popular person. Her funeral services were held from the residence on Wednesday afternoon, December 19, 1912, at 2:30 p. m., conducted by Rev. Joel Metcalf, pastor of the Unitarian Church. The burial was at Woodlawn.

She was a member of the M. E. Church of Woburn and always took an active part in promoting its welfare.

She is survived by four sisters, Elizabeth, Louise, Edith and Bertha, the latter teacher of mathematics at the Woburn High School; and three brothers, Metton of Quincy, and Albert and Herbert of this town.

The funeral services were held from the residence yesterday afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by Rev. John R. Chaffee of Peabody, a former pastor of the Winchester Methodist Church, and Rev. A. William Adams, its present pastor. The burial was at Woodlawn Cemetery, Woburn.

THE EARNING POWER OF POPULATION.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Dear Sir:—In a recent magazine article, "The Earning Power of Population," Mr. Albert L. Nock has stated that the birth of one child in New York City increases the value of the city's real estate $84. That one hundred men sleeping on the benches in Madison Square add to the city's land values $1,900. Neither the child nor the men have done anything to earn this money, yet they are responsible for as part of the city's population their presence has added more than $85,000 to the value of real estate.

What is true of New York is true of every other city, town, and village as population increases. That they are increasing in Winchester everyone knows and everyone who has money to invest should think carefully of the many opportunities right in this town before he places his money in stocks which are purely speculative, bonds yielding a low return or other securities.

In the Spring of 1911 the assessors showed an increase over the previous year of over $60,000 valuation. This year's report will undoubtedly show an increase of nearly a million dollars.

In certain sections of the town land is selling, not "being held at" but actually selling for double the amount the same land brought three years ago. With the increased building activity it will easily double again and even treble in value in the years to come. We have sold land in Brookline for dwelling house purposes at one dollar per foot. With our local restrictions and more stringent building laws, there is no reason to suppose that similar lots in Winchester will not in a few years bring the same price.

Now is the time to buy. Investments in Winchester land are safe. If you buy for a home, you accomplish a double purpose. When occasion calls for a change of residence and you dispose of your home, you can "get your money back" with interest and profit. In many towns you can even make even interest. It is well known that homes do not depreciate in value, in fact they do not improve with age. The depreciation of buildings may be easily estimated at two percent per year. Therefore, if your house is built on land that is increasing in value, the appreciation will be so much larger, so much more rapid than the depreciation of the building, that you will be a material gain not a loss.

Because the opportunity is so near may not our citizens overlook it and let the outsiders get the fruits of our wonderful growth? We in Winchester are especially favored in having no loggers sleeping on our Park benches but our population is increasing by leaps and bounds and the appreciation in real estate values is keeping pace.

Let Winchester men buy Winchester Real Estate, not in large blocks, but each and every one a small investment for himself and we shall all have a share in our town's prosperity.

Yours very truly,
H. Barton Nason, with Geo. Adams Woods to Walnut Street.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES AT THE UNITARIAN CHURCH.

Public Service of Worship at 10:30 a. m. CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION.

Public School Scholars Entertained Younger Pupils.

The true spirit of Christmas has been admirably shown this week by the pupils of the ninth grade of the Wadleigh Grammar School. The hundred members of the class, divided into two groups, have during the past ten days become veritable Christmas fairies, making preparations for one group to entertain on Tuesday, December 17, the fourth and fifth grades of the Wyman School, and the other division on Thursday, December 19, the third and fourth grades of the Highland School.

By the courtesy of the Superintendent of Schools and the School Committee, the large hall of the Prince School was placed at the disposal of the class. Enthusiasm ran high in transforming this bare chamber, tenanted only by ghosts of former days into a scene of smiling holiday aspect. No boy big or little, busy or idle, but wanted a share in bringing in his quota of greens to mask the bare walls and provide for the Christmas wreaths woven by boys and girls together in out-of-school hours.

Favors of gay headbands decorated with gilt stars, and white wands also tipped with stars, gave a pretty effect in the marching and dancing games in which all the pupils joined.

Old time games familiar to all New Englanders, were adapted to playing by the large number of children arranged in five groups, each group designated by a color, who took their places in the hall beneath a huge red bell, a brilliant star, a gay pink cornucopia, or a green wreath, as the case might be.

The pupils entertaining provided nearly all the material needed. The electric wiring was done by one of the older boys. As but few bulbs could be placed, candles were lighted in long rows high up on the walls out of reach of possible accident. So deftly was the lighting managed just at dusk during a marching game that it seemed magical.

Charades and music formed the closing features of the program, both very much enjoyed by all. There were solos by Roger Wilde and Mary Kelley, a duet by Alice Hamilton and Margaret Erskine given on Thursday with auto harp accompaniment, and music by a double quartet consisting of Robert Kronquist, Maholn Colgate, Harold Boardley, Robert Hocht, Nathan Charin, George Bondrow, Henry Jones, Ralph Hatch, Maro Weston and Roger Wilde, boys of the ninth grade.

As the guests filed out, small boxes made by the girls and boys and filled with popcorn were distributed to them.

A UNIQUE TEA ROOM.

Perhaps, Winchester people do not generally know of the charming little tea room opened this winter for Saturday afternoons, by Miss "Daphne" Downer, of Miss Edith King, at the old Charles house, Common street, Belmont.

The house is the oldest house in Belmont and the tea room is very unique and attractive, with its low beamed white ceiling, its delicate pink walls and chairs, curtained with fuchs. Blooming flowers make spots of color about the room and pretty little tables, each with its shaded candle, offer their dainty refreshments.

The choicest decoration is over the old fireplace where these clever and original girls have laid gold leaf on the wall, and on this have painted a picture book, fruit tree, gay with its colored gauds. A hyacinth of old settle with cushions and a little tea table are placed before the fireplace, and fortunate are those who capture this chimney corner for tea and gossip.

There is no such delightful place for a cup of tea in or near Boston, and the graciousness of the two young hostesses add the last touch of perfection. On last Saturday afternoon, coming Saturday afternoon there is a Xmas sale of cards and artistic gifts, especially lovely being the Christmas candles, decorated with gold leaf and painted with gay little flowers. These cozy corners of New England, and the whole atmosphere of the little tea room is just such a contrast. The project was conceived on returning to New England after a long summer in Capri, where gardens are bright with ever blooming flowers and gayly colored tiles, where music is a part of the day, like the blue of the sky, or the gold of the sunshine that shimmers over and through everything.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE.

100,000 women were enfranchised in Kansas by the passage of the Equal Suffrage amendment at the last election, which was carried by the large majority of three to one. In this election, Mrs. Blackwell says, in "The Woman's Journal" of December 14, "The Kansas election affords a fresh illustration of the fact that Equal Suffrage spreads from neighbor to neighbor. Every county that borders on the Colorado line, Colorado having enfranchised its women many years ago, voted in favor of votes for women.
In other counties, east of the Colorado line, a small majority for the women was secured in the two counties of Gove and Wilson, and even in these counties, the majority of eight votes only."

Women, therefore, are beginning to realize the importance of the Equal Suffrage amendment. In fact, the Kansas election, which was carried by the large majority of three to one, is a proof of the fact that Equal Suffrage spreads from neighbor to neighbor.
Every county that borders on the Colorado line, Colorado having enfranchised its women many years ago, voted in favor of votes for women. In other counties, east of the Colorado line, a small majority for the women was secured in the two counties of Gove and Wilson, and even in these counties, the majority of eight votes only. Men are beginning to feel that their mothers, wives and daughters should not only enjoy all the advantages the ballot gives them, but that they should share in the responsibilities which such expression of opinion entails. What is true of Kansas concerning enfranchisement is also true of Oregon and Arizona, the other states that enfranchised their women at the same election. Whom states will doubtless follow soon, and in no distant day, some eastern states will form a nucleus for contiguous states. The sky is bright with promise.

THE MOST IMAGINE.

Only eight more performances will be given of that delightful play, "The Rainbow," which Henry Miller and his admirable company have been presenting with such pronounced success at the Tremont Theatre for the past seven weeks. To those who enjoy good, clean, wholesome entertainment, this play by A. E. Thomas appeals with special force, for it tells a story so full of real human interest that the auditor finds himself carried along from beginning to end by a compelling interest that never flags for a single moment.
Especially charming is Miss Ruth Chatterton, who plays the young laurel. This little actress has won the highest praise from the Boston public and her career henceforth will be followed with a deep interest. No more pleasing performance for the holiday season could possibly be recommended than this presentation of "The Rainbow." The Tremont is a good place to spend an evening or an afternoon in Christmas week.

CASINO SQUARE THEATRE.

Monday afternoon and evening at the Casino Square Theatre tonight will make its annual holiday musical production. He has chosen "The Gingerbread Man" and it will be given for the first time in Boston. Through the entire play move the favorite characters, a Mother Goose and her flock, and for the chorus there will be a merry assortment of baker girls, baker boys, confectioners, toy makers, musicians, farmers, peasant maids, waitresses and courtiers. The Fairy Dragon will also be seen and in every way. The Gingerbread Man promises to be a most successful Christmas production.

The entire company of the Casino Square will take part in "The Gingerbread Man," and it will be increased by a chorale of fifty singers. Special singers will be paid for this production, and it will certainly be one of the most popular of all Mr. Craig's holiday productions.

The Christmas Shopper

The Christmas shopper makes her list

And holds it tightly in her fist

And starts to get her shopping done—

She thinks she is the only one

Beginning at this early date

And that her progress will be straight.

She sallies forth with pleasant smiles

But soon is Jammed up in the aisles,

And when she tries to cleave the fray

She has to wind around this

Though earnestly she's on the job,

She bumps into a rushing mob.

By speeding shoppers

she is borne

Until her skirt and waist are torn;

She leaves a doll andumping jack and struggle to crowd

And has

She gets home, weary, worn and blue—

And finds the cook gone shopping, too!
